Domesticated: Evolution in a Man-Made World

Richard C. Francis, 2015-05-25 Without domestication civilization as we know it would not exist Since that fateful day when the first wolf decided to stay close to human hunters humans and their various animal companions have thrived far beyond nearly all wild species on earth Tamelessness is the key trait in the domestication of cats dogs horses cows and other mammals from rats to reindeer Surprisingly with selection for tameness comes a suite of seemingly unrelated alterations including floppy ears skeletal and coloration changes and sex differences It's a package deal known as the domestication syndrome elements of which are also found in humans Our highly social nature one of the keys to our evolutionary success is due to our own tameness In Domesticated Richard C Francis weaves history and anthropology with cutting edge ideas in genomics and evo devo to tell the story of how we domesticated the world and ourselves in the process The Adventures of a Train

Summary of The Evolution of Everything by Matt Ridley QuickRead,Lea Schullery, How New Ideas Emerge One of the biggest most dangerous myths that we believe today is that we have full command and control of our world But have you ever considered that our world goes through evolution Or that our world evolves on its own In fact evolution doesn't apply just to biology anymore there is an evolution of everything The changes we experience in technology language morality and society are gradual incremental and even spontaneous The changes follow a narrative going from one stage to the next without an end goal in mind You see we traditionally believe that many of the greatest achievements in the world started from the top down that is changes came from great leaders and minds who aimed to make a difference But that is not necessarily true Instead our world has evolved from the bottom up and achievements such as the Industrial Revolution cell phones and the creation of the Internet were never planned they simply happened Through The Evolution of Everything Author Matt Ridley argues that evolution can explain just about every change we have experienced in society As you read you'll learn how DNA and language are similar how money became monopolized by the government and how our traditional views on education should no longer be accepted Do you want more free book summaries like this Download our app for free at <https://www.QuickRead.com> App and get access to hundreds of free book and audiobook summaries DISCLAIMER This book summary is meant as a preview and not a replacement for the original work If you like this summary please consider purchasing the original book to get the full experience as the original author intended it to be If you are the original author of any book on QuickRead and want us to remove it please contact us at hello@quickread.com

Out of the Silence Robert Foster, Amanda Nettelbeck, 2012-09-27 When South Australia was founded in 1836 the British government was pursuing a new approach to the treatment of Aboriginal people hoping to avoid the violence that marked earlier Australian settlement The colony's founding Proclamation declared that as British subjects Aboriginal people would be as much under the safeguard of the law as the Colonists themselves and equally entitled to the privileges of British subjects But could colonial governments provide the protection that was promised Out of the Silence explores the nature and extent of violence on South Australia's frontiers in light of the foundational promise to provide Aboriginal people with the protection of the law and the resonances of that history in social memory What do we find when we compare the history of the frontier with the patterns of how it is remembered and forgotten And what might this reveal about our understanding of the nation's history and its legacies in the present

anthropology The Evolution of Sympathy in the Long Eighteenth Century Jonathan Lamb, 2015-10-06 This work represents a concise history of sympathy in the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries considering the phenomenon of shared feeling from five related angles charity the market global exploration theatre and torture Evolution Donald R. Prothero, 2007-11-06 Over the past twenty years paleontologists have made tremendous fossil discoveries including fossils that mark the growth of whales manatees and seals from land mammals and the origins of elephants horses and rhinos Today there exists an amazing diversity of fossil humans suggesting we walked upright long before we acquired large brains and new evidence from molecules that enable scientists to decipher the tree of life as never before The fossil record is now one of the strongest lines of evidence for evolution In this engaging and richly illustrated book Donald R Prothero weaves an entertaining though intellectually rigorous history out of the transitional forms and series that dot the fossil record Beginning with a brief discussion of the nature of science and the monkey business of creationism Prothero tackles subjects ranging from flood geology and rock dating to neo Darwinism and macroevolution He covers the ingredients of the primordial soup the effects of communal living invertebrate transitions the development of the backbone the reign of the dinosaurs the mammalian explosion and the leap from chimpanzee to human Prothero pays particular attention to the recent discovery of missing links that complete the fossil timeline and details the debate between biologists over the mechanisms driving the evolutionary process Evolution is an absorbing combination of firsthand observation scientific discovery and trenchant analysis With the teaching of evolution still an issue there couldn't be a better moment for a book clarifying the nature and value of fossil evidence Widely recognized as a leading expert in his field Prothero demonstrates that the transformation of life on this planet is far more awe inspiring than the narrow view of extremists Evolution, Animal 'rights' & the Environment James B. Reichmann, 2000 The author of this study undertakes an investigation of the metaethical grounds of rights theory with special focus on the controversial issue of whether creatures other than humans can and should be considered true subjects of rights He contends that before assigning rights to this or that individual or group whether human or not we need to be very clear about what it is we are assigning to whom and why The book argues that the efforts to build a case supporting animal and environmental rights fail in their quest and that any such effort resting on a Darwinian evolutionary base is likewise condemned to fail The author investigates life phenomena followed by a detailed comparative study of knowing communicating and doing as these are observed in the human and nonhuman animal This is followed by an overview of diverse views advanced by contemporary environmental ethicists and animal rights advocates including Peter Singer Tom Regan J Baird Callicott Laura Westra and Don E Marietta Jr Conclusions drawn from this study include the claims that classic Darwinian theory provides no admissible premise from which to derive a theory of inherent inalienable rights no satisfactory explanation of the origin of rights and obligation can derive save from within the context of natural law theory the human person alone unqualifiedly possesses rights and the view that vegetarianism is an ethical mandate is neither

McCalman,2014-02-24 Research from a humanist perspective has much to offer in interrogating the social and cultural ramifications of invasion ecologies The impossibility of securing national boundaries against accidental transfer and the unpredictable climatic changes of our time have introduced new dimensions and hazards to this old issue Written by a team of international scholars this book allows us to rethink the impact on national regional or local ecologies of the deliberate or accidental introduction of foreign species plant and animal Modern environmental approaches that treat nature with na ve realism or mobilize it as a moral absolute unaware or unwilling to accept that it is informed by specific cultural and temporal values are doomed to fail Instead this book shows that we need to understand the complex interactions of ecologies and societies in the past present and future over the Anthropocene in order to address problems of the global environmental crisis It demonstrates how humanistic methods and disciplines can be used to bring fresh clarity and perspective on this long vexed aspect of environmental thought and practice Students and researchers in environmental studies invasion ecology conservation biology environmental ethics environmental history and environmental policy will welcome this major contribution to environmental humanities Managing Intercollegiate Athletics Daniel Covell,Sharianne Walker,2019-03-07
