Examining the Farming/language Dispersal Hypothesis Peter S. Bellwood, Colin Renfrew, 2002 A radical new theory of how languages were dispersed around the globe is debated by experts in historical linguistics prehistoric archaeology molecular genetics and human ecology

The Agricultural Revolution in Prehistory Graeme Barker, 2009 Addressing one of the most debated revolutions in the history of our species the change from hunting and gathering to farming this title takes a global view and integrates an array of information from archaeology and many other disciplines including anthropology botany climatology genetics linguistics and zoology

Language Dispersal Beyond Farming Martine Robbeets, Alexander Savelyev, 2017-12-21 Why do some languages wither and die while others prosper and spread Around the turn of the millennium a number of archaeologists such as Colin Renfrew and Peter Bellwood made the controversial claim that many of the world's major language families owe their dispersal to the adoption of agriculture by their early speakers In this volume their proposal is reassessed by linguists investigating to what extent the economic dependence on plant cultivation really impacted language spread in various parts of the world Special attention is paid to tricky language families such as Eskimo Aleut Quechua Aymara Bantu Indo European Transeurasian Turkic Japonic Koreanic Hmong Mien and Trans New Guinea that cannot unequivocally be regarded as instances of Farming Language Dispersal even if subsistence played a role in their expansion

Economic Prehistory Gregory K. Dow, Clyde G. Reed, 2023-01-05 Demonstrates how economics can explain the transformation of human society from mobile foraging bands to the first city states

Ancient Peoples of the Great Basin and Colorado Plateau Steven R Simms, 2016-07-01 Written to appeal to professional archaeologists students and the interested public alike this book is a long overdue introduction to the ancient peoples of the Great Basin and northern Colorado Plateau Through detailed syntheses the reader is drawn into the story of the habitation of the Great Basin from the entry of the first Native Americans through the arrival of Europeans Ancient Peoples is a major contribution to Great Basin archaeology and anthropology as well as the general study of foraging societies

Leaving Mesa Verde Timothy A. Kohler, Mark D. Varien, Aaron M. Wright, 2013-11-15 It is one of the great mysteries in the archaeology of the Americas the depopulation of the northern Southwest in the late thirteenth century AD Considering the numbers of people affected the distances moved the permanence of the departures the severity of the surrounding conditions and the human suffering and culture change that accompanied them the abrupt conclusion to the farming way of life in this region is one of the greatest disruptions in recorded history Much new paleoenvironmental data and a great deal of archaeological survey and excavation permit the fifteen scientists represented here much greater precision in determining the timing of the depopulation the number of people affected and the ways in which northern Pueblo peoples coped and failed to cope with the rapidly changing environmental and demographic conditions they encountered throughout the 1200s In addition some of the scientists in this volume use models to provide insights into the processes behind the patterns they find helping to narrow the range of plausible explanations What emerges from these investigations is a highly pertinent story of conflict and disruption as a result of climate change environmental degradation social rigidity and conflict Taken as a whole these contributions recognize this era as having witnessed a competition between differing social and economic organizations in which selective migration was considerably hastened by severe climatic environmental and social upheaval Moreover the chapters show that it is at least as true that emigration led to the collapse of the northern Southwest as it is that collapse led to emigration

Connecting Continents Krish Seetah, 2018-06-07 In recent decades the vast and culturally diverse Indian Ocean region has increasingly attracted the attention of anthropologists historians political scientists sociologists and other researchers Largely missing from this growing body of scholarship however are significant contributions by archaeologists and consciously interdisciplinary approaches to studying the region's past and present Connecting Continents addresses two important issues how best to promote collaborative research on the Indian Ocean world and how to shape the research agenda for a region that has only recently begun to attract serious interest from historical archaeologists The archaeologists historians and other scholars who have contributed to this volume tackle important topics such as the nature and dynamics of migration colonization and cultural syncretism that are central to understanding the human experience in the Indian Ocean basin This groundbreaking work also deepens our understanding of topics of increasing scholarly and popular interest such as the ways in which people construct and understand their heritage and can make use of exciting new technologies like DNA and environmental analysis Because it adopts such an explicitly comparative approach to the Indian Ocean Connecting Continents provides a compelling model for multidisciplinary approaches to studying other parts of the globe Contributors Richard B Allen Edward A Alpers Atholl Anderson Nicole Boivin Diego Calaon Aaron Camens Sa a aval Geoffrey Clark Alison Crowther Corinne Forest Simon Haberle Diana Heise Mark

Horton Paul Lane Martin Mhando and Alistair Patterson Plant Domestication and the Origins of Agriculture in the Ancient Near East Shahal Abbo, Avi Gopher, Gila Kahila Bar-Gal, 2022-03-24 The Agricultural Revolution including the domestication of plants and animals in the Near East that occurred 10 500 years ago ended millions of years of human existence in small mobile egalitarian communities of hunters gatherers This Neolithic transformation led to the formation of sedentary communities that produced crops such as wheat barley peas lentils chickpeas and flax and domesticated range of livestock including goats sheep cattle and pigs All of these plants and animals still play a major role in the contemporary global economy and nutrition This agricultural revolution also stimulated the later development of the first urban centres This volume examines the origins and development of plant domestication in the Ancient Near East along with various aspects of the new Man Nature relationship that characterizes food producing societies It demonstrates how the rapid geographically localized knowledge based domestication of plants was a human initiative that eventually gave rise to Western civilizations and the modern human condition Routledge Handbook of World-Systems Analysis Salvatore J. Douglas Price, Gary M. Feinman, 2010-08-20 There are few questions more central to understanding the prehistory of our species than those regarding the institutionalization of social inequality Social inequality is manifested in unequal access to goods information decision making and power This structure is essential to higher orders of social organization and basic to the operation of more complex societies An understanding of the transformation from relatively egalitarian societies to a hierarchical organization and socioeconomic stratification is fundamental to our knowledge about the human condition In a follow up to their 1995 book Foundations of Social Inequality the Editors of this volume have compiled a new and comprehensive group of studies concerning these central questions When and where does hierarchy appear in human society and how does it operate With numerous case studies from the Old and New World spanning foraging societies to agricultural groups and complex states Pathways to Power provides key historical insights into current social and cultural questions

Migration and Membership Regimes in Global and Historical Perspective, 2013-07-25 In Migration and Membership Regimes editors Ulbe Bosma Gijs Kessler and Leo Lucassen bring together ten essays in an analytical framework which looks beyond the Transatlantic migration of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in a deliberate attempt to incorporate the experience of earlier periods and other continents into historical migration studies The focus of analysis is on the mechanisms of interaction between polities from city states and emerging statehoods to empires and migrants joining or taking over these polities by force choice or co optation It reconceptualises the migrant state relationship as an engagement over the terms of membership and explores the variety of different outcomes this has had across time and space Contributors include Nicholas Breyfogle Derek Heng Ralph W Mathisen Christel M ller Mu chou Poo Susan Elizabeth Ram rez Ibrahimia Thiaw Maartje van Gelder Mark D Varien

The Archaeology of Inequality Orlando Cerasuolo, 2021-09-01 The Archaeology of Inequality explores the different aspects of social boundaries and articulation by comparing several interdisciplinary approaches for the analysis of the archaeological data as well as actual case studies from the Prehistory to the Classical world The book explores slavery gender ethnicity and economy as intersecting areas of study within the larger framework of inequality and exemplifies to what degree archaeologists can identify and analyze different patterns of inequality

Linguistic Archaeology Gerd Carling, 2024-05-22 Linguistic Archaeology provides students with an accessible introduction to the field of linguistic archaeology both as theoretical framework and methodological toolkit for understanding the conceptual foundations and practical considerations involved in reconstructing the prehistory of language The book introduces the field's expansion out of traditional approaches to focus more on the interplay of related disciplines and the reconstruction of human language beyond the written period The opening chapter outlines key theories and charts their development from the nineteenth century through to today drawing on work from computational historical linguistics phylogenetics and linguistic anthropology Subsequent chapters build on theory to take a hands on approach in mining empirical data in the process of reconstructing language prehistory including references links and instructions to open access resources and offering a step by step guide for employing the rich range of available methods in working with this data Closing chapters situate theory and method in context against chronological and geographic perspectives and look ahead to future trajectories for continued progress in this emerging area of study Offering a holistic entry point into linguistic archaeology this innovative volume will be a helpful
