Framing the Early Middle Ages Chris Wickham, 2006-11-30 The Roman empire tends to be seen as a whole whereas the early middle ages tends to be seen as a collection of regional histories roughly corresponding to the land areas of modern nation states As a result early medieval history is much more fragmented and there have been few convincing syntheses of socio economic change in the post Roman world since the 1930s In recent decades the rise of early medieval archaeology has also transformed our source base but this has not been adequately integrated into analyses of documentary history in almost any country In Framing the Early Middle Ages Chris Wickham combines documentary and archaeological evidence to create a comparative history of the period 400-800 His analysis embraces each of the regions of the late Roman and immediately post Roman world from Denmark to Egypt The book concentrates on classic socio economic themes state finance the wealth and identity of the aristocracy estate management peasant society rural settlement cities and exchange These give only a partial picture of the period but they frame and explain other developments Earlier syntheses have taken the development of a single region as typical with divergent developments presented as exceptions This book takes all different developments as typical and aims to construct a synthesis based on a better understanding of difference and the reasons for it

Economy and Exchange in the East Mediterranean during Late Antiquity Sean A. Kingsley, Michael Decker, 2015-05-01 The results of recent archaeological excavation systematic rural survey and detailed studies of pottery distributions have revealed the extent and complexities of the economy in the eastern empire The eight papers in this volume demonstrate this complexity and prosperity examining several types of product and how the economy evolved over time

The Second Cataract Fortress of Dorginarti Lisa A Heidorn, 2023-04-10 The best known sites along the length of the Nile River's Second Cataract are the ruins of Egyptian towns and fortresses occupied during the Old Middle and New Kingdoms One of the fortresses in the Second Cataract region Dorginarti existed in a later era than the better known Middle and New Kingdom forts The earliest ceramics found at the site date from the later tenth or early ninth century BC and those from a later occupation stem from the early eighth century The latest phase of occupation did not extend far beyond the first phase of Persian dominance in Egypt beginning in the last quarter of the sixth century BC This volume is the final report of the emergency excavations undertaken at Dorginarti for five months in 1964 by the University of Chicago's Institute for the Study of Ancient Cultures as part of the UNESCO Nubian salvage project necessitated by the building of the Aswan High Dam Following a description of the fortress's landscape and resources the book describes Dorginarti's architecture in detail and then presents the selection of artifacts brought back from the Sudan and stored in the ISAC Museum The picture that emerges from the archaeological record shows the continuing importance of Lower Nubia after the withdrawal of Egyptian control in the late second millennium BC and before the rise of the Kushite empire in the Twenty Fifth Dynasty Classics in Progress T. P. Wiseman, 2006-01-26 The study of Greco Roman civilisation is as exciting and innovative today as it has ever been This intriguing collection of essays by contemporary classicists reveals new discoveries new interpretations and new ways of exploring the experiences of the ancient world Through one and a half millennia of literature politics philosophy law religion and art the classical world formed the origin of western culture and thought This book emphasises the many ways in which it continues to engage with contemporary life The Architecture of Alexandria and Egypt, C. 300 B.C.

to A.D. 700 Judith McKenzie, Rhys-Davids Junior Research Fellow in Archaeology Judith McKenzie, Peter Roger Stuart Moorey, 2007-01-01 This masterful history of the monumental architecture of Alexandria as well as of the rest of Egypt encompasses an entire millennium from the city's founding by Alexander the Great in 331 B C to the years just after the Islamic conquest of A D 642 Long considered lost beyond recall the architecture of ancient Alexandria has until now remained mysterious But here Judith McKenzie shows that it is indeed possible to reconstruct the city and many of its buildings by means of meticulous exploration of archaeological remains written sources and an array of other fragmentary evidence The book approaches its subject at the macro and the micro level from city planning building types and designs to architectural style It addresses the interaction between the imported Greek and native Egyptian traditions the relations between the architecture of Alexandria and the other cities and towns of Egypt as well as the wider Mediterranean world and Alexandria's previously unrecognized role as a major source of architectural innovation and artistic influence Lavishly illustrated with new plans of the city in the Ptolemaic Roman and Byzantine periods reconstruction drawings and photographs the book brings to life the ancient city and uncovers the true extent of its architectural legacy in the Mediterranean world The Donkey and the Boat Chris Wickham, 2023-03-16 A new account of the Mediterranean economy in the 10th to 12th centuries forcing readers to entirely rethink the underlying logic to medieval economic systems Chris Wickham re-examines documentary and archaeological sources to give a detailed account of both individual economies and their relationships with each other Chris Wickham offers a new account of the Mediterranean economy in the tenth to twelfth centuries based on a completely new look at the sources documentary and archaeological Our knowledge of the Mediterranean economy is based on syntheses which are between 50 and 150 years old they are based on outdated assumptions and restricted data sets and were written before there was any usable archaeology and Wickham contends that they have to be properly rethought This is the first book ever to give a fully detailed comparative account of the regions of the Mediterranean in this period in their internal economies and in their relationships with each other It focusses on Egypt Tunisia Sicily the Byzantine empire Islamic Spain and Portugal and north central Italy and gives the first comprehensive account of the changing economies of each only Byzantium has a good prior synthesis It aims to force our rethinking of how economies worked in the medieval Mediterranean It also offers a rethinking of how we should understand the underlying logic of the medieval economy in general Imperial Rome, Indian Ocean Regions and Muziris K.S.
