Excavations at Nichoria in Southwest Greece was first published in 1983 Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions

This volume is the third of four reports and the second to be published on the findings of an excavation in the Southwestern Peloponnese of Greece In the 1960s an interdisciplinary group known as the University of Minnesota Messenia Expedition first explored the region of Messenia then focused on a specific site the Nichoria ridge where fieldwork was completed in 1975 Volume I in the Nichoria Series published by Minnesota in 1978 dealt with the site and environs as they existed in prehistoric times and evolved to the present and with specific analytic techniques Volume II in preparation will present the cultural evidence for human occupation of the ridge in its most flourishing phases the Middle and Late Bronze Ages and Volume IV will provide an overview of the site within the context of the Messenian region and the wider Aegean setting Volume III deals with the two major occupation phases after the Bronze Age the so called Dark and Early Iron Age about 11500 800 B C and the Middle Byzantine period about 961 1205 A D Previous documentation on these periods has been meager information on the Dark Age was based on the contents of scattered graves and cemeteries and the absence of stratified habitation debris made it difficult to establish a dependable relative chronology The Nichoria study however derives from the first intensively excavated Dark Age settlement on the Greek mainland and it should help illuminate these poorly understood epochs in Greek history In fourteen papers the authors describe architectural remains pottery burials and small finds of metal and clay and discuss their significance Among their findings is archaeological evidence that Nichoria may be equated with one of the major towns recorded in Linear B tablets as part of the kingdom of Pylos The discovery of a very large apsidal building of the Dark Age which seems to have been a communal religious center and home of the chieftain may represent an important early link in the evolution of the classical Greek temple And the ruined homes of a medieval farming village provide the first material evidence recovered outside of Corinth for secular life in the Peloponnese during the Middle Byzantine period      Excavations at Nichoria in Southwest Greece George Robert Rapp, Stanley E. Aschenbrenner, 1992

Mycenaean Messenia and the Kingdom of Pylos Richard Hope Simpson, 2014-12-31 This study outlines the state of our present knowledge concerning the Mycenaean settlements in Messenia and examines the evidence for reconstructing the political geography of the Kingdom of Pylos The progress of archaeological exploration in Messenia is reviewed in relation to the Mycenaean Late Helladic LH period The data from excavations and surveys concerning the Mycenaean settlements in Messenia are summarized The author attempts to determine the extent of the Kingdom and to identify the locations of its main districts by correlating the archaeological data from Mycenaean sites with the the inscriptions in Linear B found in the Palace of Nestor at Ano Englianos

Pullen, 2011-12-31 While corridor houses such as the House of the Tiles at Lerna have provoked widespread discussion about the origins of social stratification in Greece few settlements of the Early Bronze Age ca 3100 to 2000 B C have been thoroughly excavated This important study integrates the presentation and analysis of the archaeological evidence from a single settlement that flourished on Tsoungiza Hill in the Nemea Valley from the Final Neolithic until the end of the Early Helladic period The first section details the stratigraphy architecture deposits and ceramics of each of the five major periods represented The second section contains specialist reports on all aspects of material culture including figurines and ornaments textiles and crafts metal analyses chipped and ground stone and faunal and palaeobotanical remains      Domestic Space in Classical Antiquity Lisa C. Nevett, 2010-08-05 Housing is shaped by culturally specific expectations about the kinds of architecture and furnishings that are appropriate about how and where different activities should be carried out and by and with whom It is those expectations and the wider social and cultural systems of which they are a part that are explored in this volume At the same time the book as a whole argues two larger points first that while houses households and families have in recent years become increasingly important as objects of inquiry in Greek and Roman contexts their potential as sources of information about broader social historical issues has yet to be fully realised and second that greater weight and independence should be given to material culture as a source for studying ancient history The book will be invaluable for upper level undergraduates graduate students and scholars

Collapse and Transformation Guy D. Middleton, 2020-04-09 The years c 1250 to 1150 BC in Greece and the Aegean are often characterised as a time of crisis and collapse A critical period in the long history of the region and its people and culture they witnessed the end of the Mycenaean kingdoms with their palaces and Linear B records and through the Postpalatial period the transition into the Early Iron Age But on closer examination it has become increasingly clear that the period as a whole across the region defies simple characterisation there was success and splendour resilience and continuity and novelty and innovation actively driven by the people of these lands through this transformative century The story of the Aegean at this time has frequently been incorporated into narratives focused on the wider eastern Mediterranean and most infamously the Sea Peoples of the Egyptian texts In twenty five chapters written by 25 specialists Collapse and Transformation instead offers a tight focus on the Aegean itself providing an up to date picture of the archaeology before and after the collapse of c 1200 BC It will be essential reading for students and scholars of the Aegean and eastern Mediterranean regions as well as providing data and a range of interpretations to those studying collapse and resilience more widely and engaging in comparative studies Introductory chapters discuss notions of collapse and provide overviews of the Minoan and Mycenaean collapses These are followed by twelve chapters which review the evidence from the major regions of the Aegean including the Argolid Messenia and Boeotia Crete and the Aegean islands Six chapters then address key themes the economy funerary practices the Mycenaean pottery of the mainland and the wider Aegean and eastern Mediterranean region religion and the extent to which later Greek myth can be drawn upon as evidence or taken to reflect any historical reality The final four chapters provide a wider context for the Aegean story surveying the eastern Mediterranean including Cyprus and the Levant and the themes of subsistence and warfare
