The pre-Phoenician levels, 1974 Archaeology of Symbols Guido Guarducci, Nicola Laneri, Stefano Valentini, 2024-04-30 These case studies offer new approaches to the analysis and interpretation of symbols in a variety of media and as expressed on a range of objects at different scales This third volume in the Material Religion in Antiquity series stems from the First International Congress on the Archaeology of Symbols ICAS I that took place in Florence in May 2022 The archaeological process of reconstructing and understanding our past has undergone several reassessments in the last century producing an equal number of new perspectives and approaches The recent materiality turn emphasizes the necessity to ground those achievements in order to build fresh avenues of interpretation and reach new boundaries in the study of the human kind and its ecology Symbols must not be conceived only as allegory but also and perhaps mainly as reason raison d'être and meaning culture They may be considered key elements leading to interpretation not only in their physical manifestation but by being infused with the gestures beliefs and intentions of their creators created in a specific context and with a specific chaîne opératoire In this volume a variety of case studies is offered representing disparate ancient cultures in the Mediterranean and central Europe and the Near East The thread that connects them revolves around the prominence of symbols and allegorical aspects in archaeology whether they are considered as expressions of iconographic evidence material culture or ritual ceremonies seen from a multicultural perspective This and subsequent ICAS volumes therefore aims to embrace all the different aspects pertaining to symbols in archaeology in a specific place allowing the reader to deepen their knowledge of such a fascinating and multifaceted topic by looking at it from a multicultural perspective Material Culture Matters

Transport Stirrup Jars of the Bronze Age Aegean and East Mediterranean Peter M. Day, Halford W. Haskell, Richard E Jones, John T. Killen, 2011-10-31 The transport stirrup jar was a vessel type used extensively in the Late Bronze Age III Aegean world Found in a variety of contexts the type was used both to transport and to store liquid commodities in bulk The peak of the production and exchange of this jar corresponded with the time of economic expansion on the Greek mainland On Crete stirrup jars appeared at most major centers on the island Their presence in large numbers in storerooms indicates the movement of commodities and the centralized storage and control of goods The broad distribution of stirrup jars at coastal sites in the eastern Mediterranean and their presence in the cargoes of the Uluburun Gelidonya and Iria shipwrecks clearly shows their role in the extensive exchange networks within the Aegean and beyond Because they represent significant Aegean exchange tracing their origins and movement provides information regarding production centers and trade routes This study concentrates on determining of provenance of the jars and the subsequent tracing of exchange routes The fully integrated research design is an interdisciplinary collaborative archaeological project that embraces typological chemical petrographic and epigraphic approaches in order to shed light on the jars classification and origin The results of the chemical and petrographic work constitute primary parts of the study By establishing the origins and distribution of the jars these vases are placed within their historical context The identification of production centers and export routes is critical for a full understanding of the economic and political conditions in the Late Bronze Age Aegean and eastern Mediterranean
