Kohler, Mark D. Varien, Aaron M. Wright, 2013-11-15 It is one of the great mysteries in the archaeology of the Americas the depopulation of the northern Southwest in the late thirteenth century AD Considering the numbers of people affected the distances moved the permanence of the departures the severity of the surrounding conditions and the human suffering and culture change that accompanied them the abrupt conclusion to the farming way of life in this region is one of the greatest disruptions in recorded history Much new paleoenvironmental data and a great deal of archaeological survey and excavation permit the fifteen scientists represented here much greater precision in determining the timing of the depopulation the number of people affected and the ways in which northern Pueblo peoples coped and failed to cope with the rapidly changing environmental and demographic conditions they encountered throughout the 1200s In addition some of the scientists in this volume use models to provide insights into the processes behind the patterns they find helping to narrow the range of plausible explanations What emerges from these investigations is a highly pertinent story of conflict and disruption as a result of climate change environmental degradation social rigidity and conflict Taken as a whole these contributions recognize this era as having witnessed a competition between differing social and economic organizations in which selective migration was considerably hastened by severe climatic environmental and social upheaval Moreover the chapters show that it is at least as true that emigration led to the collapse of the northern Southwest as it is that collapse led to emigration Publications in Archeology, 1974 The Greater Chaco Landscape Ruth M. west central New Mexico in the context of landscape archaeology Contributors analyze many different dimensions of the Chacoan landscape and present the most effective innovative and respectful means of studying them focusing on the significance of thousand year old farming practices connections between early great houses outside the canyon and the rise of power inside it changes to Chaco's roads over time as observed in aerial imagery rock art throughout the greater Chaco area respectful methods of examining shrines crescents herraduras stone circles cairns and other landscape features in collaboration with Indigenous colleagues sensory experiences of ancient Chacoans via study of the sightlines and soundscapes of several outlier communities and current legal technical and administrative challenges and options concerning preservation of the landscape An unusually innovative and timely volume that will be available both in print and online with the online edition incorporating video chapters presented by Acoma Din Zuni and Hopi cultural experts filmed on location in Chaco Canyon The Greater Chaco Landscape is a creative collaboration with Native voices that will be a case study for archaeologists and others working on heritage management issues across the globe It will be of interest to archaeologists specializing in Chaco and the Southwest interested in remote sensing and geophysical landscape level investigations and working on landscape preservation and phenomenological investigations such as viewsapes and soundscapes Contributors R Kyle Bocinsky G B Cornucopia Timothy de Smet Sean Field Richard A Friedman Dennis Gilpin Presley Haskie Tristan Joe Stephen H Lekson Thomas Lincoln Michael P Marshall Terrance Outah Georgiana Pongyesva Curtis Quam Paul F Reed Octavius Seowtewa Anna Sofaer Julian Thomas William B Tsosie Jr Phillip Tuwaletsiwa Ernest M Vallo Jr Carla R Van West Ronald Wadsworth Robert S Weiner Thomas C Windes Denise Yazzie Eurick Yazzie The Protohistoric Pueblo World, A.D. 1275-1600 E. Charles Adams, Andrew I. Duff, 2016-04 In the centuries before the arrival of Europeans the Pueblo world underwent nearly continuous reorganization Populations moved from Chaco Canyon and the great centers of the Mesa Verde region to areas along the Rio Grande the Little Colorado River and the Mogollon Rim where they began constructing larger and differently organized villages many with more than 500 rooms Villages also tended to occur in clusters that have been interpreted in a number of different ways This book describes and interprets this period of southwestern history immediately before and after initial European contact A D 1275 1600 a span of time during which Pueblo peoples and culture were dramatically transformed It summarizes one hundred years of research and archaeological data for the Pueblo IV period as it explores the nature of the organization of village clusters and what they meant in behavioral and political terms Twelve of the chapters individually examine the northern and eastern portions of the Southwest and the groups who settled there during the protohistoric period The authors develop histories for settlement clusters that offer insights into their unique development and the variety of ways that villages formed these clusters These analyses show the extent to which spatial clusters of large settlements may have formed regionally organized alliances and in some cases they reveal a connection between protohistoric villages and indigenous or migratory groups from the preceding period This volume is distinct from other recent syntheses of Pueblo IV research in that it treats the settlement cluster as the analytic unit. By analyzing how members of clusters of villages interacted with one another, it offers a clearer understanding of the value of this level of analysis and suggests possibilities for future research. In addition to offering new insights on the Pueblo IV world, the volume serves as a compendium of information on more than 400 known villages larger than 50 rooms. It will be of lasting interest not only to archaeologists but also to geographers, land managers, and general readers interested in Pueblo culture. Taos Resource Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement.
