Michele Daviau, Randall W. Younker, 2016-06-16 Jordan is a key area of migration within the Levantine corridor that links the continents of Africa and Asia Crossing Jordan examines the peoples and cultures that have travelled across Jordan from antiquity to the present The book offers a critical analysis of recent discoveries and archaeological models in Jordan and highlights the significant contribution of North American archaeologists to the field Leading archaeologists explore the theory and methodology of archaeology in Jordan in essays which range across prehistory the Bronze Age the Iron Age the Hellenistic and Roman periods Nabatean civilization the Byzantine period and Islamic civilization The volume provides an up to date guide to the archaeological heritage of Jordan being an important resource for scholars and students of Jordan's history as well as citizens non governmental organizations and tourists Temples and Sanctuaries in the Roman East Arthur Segal, 2013-10-31 This lavishly illustrated volume presents a comprehensive architectural study of 87 individual temples and sanctuaries built in the Roman East between the end of the 1st century BCE and the end of the 3rd century CE within a broad region encompassing the modern states of Syria Lebanon Israel and Jordan Religious architecture gave faithful expression to the complexity of the Roman East and to its multiplicity of traditions pertaining to ethnic and religious aspects as well as to the powerful influence of Imperial Rome The source of this power lay in the uniformity of the architectural language the inventory of forms the choice of styles and the spatial layout of the buildings Thus while temples have an eclectic character there is an underlying unity of form comprising the podium the stairway between the terminating walls antae and the columns along the entrance front in other words the axiality frontality and symmetry of the temple as viewed from outside The temples and sanctuaries studied in this volume demonstrate individual nuances of plan spatial design location in the sanctuary and interrelations with the immediate vicinity but can be divided into two main categories Vitruvian temples derived from Hellenistic Roman architecture and Non Vitruvian temples those with plans and spatial designs that cannot be analysed according to architectural criteria such as those defined by Vitruvius The individual descriptions presented focus solely upon the analysis of the external and internal space of the temples of all types and do not involve any cultural or ethnic discussion Maarav ,1993 Complex Communities

Benjamin W. Porter,2013-11-28 Complex Communities explores how sedentary settlements developed and flourished in the Middle East during the Early Iron Age nearly four thousand years ago Using archaeological evidence Benjamin Porter reconstructs how residents maintained their communities despite environmental uncertainties Living in a semi arid area in the present day country of Jordan villagers faced a harsh and unpredictable ecosystem Communities fostered resilience by creating flexible production routines and leadership strategies Settlements developed what archaeologists call communal complexity a condition through which small scale societies shift between egalitarian and hierarchical arrangements Complex Communities provides detailed scientifically grounded reconstructions of how this communal complexity functioned in the region These settlements emerged during a period of recovery following the political and economic collapse of Bronze Age Mediterranean societies Scholars have characterized west central Jordan s political organization during this time as an incipient Moabite state Complex Communities argues instead that the settlements were a collection of independent self organizing entities Each community constructed substantial villages with fortifications practiced both agriculture and pastoralism and built and stocked storage facilities From these efforts to produce and store resources especially food wealth was generated and wealthier households gained power over their neighbors However power was limited by the fact that residents could and did leave communities and establish new ones Complex Communities reveals that these settlements moved through adaptive cycles as they adjusted to a changing socionatural system These sustainability seeking communities have lessons to offer not only the archaeologists studying similar struggles in other locales but also to contemporary communities facing negative climate change Readers interested in resilience studies Near Eastern archaeology historical ecology and the archaeology of communities will welcome this volume

On the Skirts of Canaan in the Iron Age

Edward Lipiński,2006 The history of Canaan in the Iron Age is generally written from the perspective of the kingdoms of Israel and Judah The scope of this book is to inverse this relation and to focus on the skirts of Canaan while regarding the United Monarchy and the Divided Monarchy as external and sometimes marginal players of the regional history After having examined the transition from the Late Bronze Age to the Iron Age in the mid 12th century B C the book deals thus with the Philistines and the role of Egypt in Canaan during Iron Age II especially in the face of the Assyrian expansion It treats further of the Phoenicians and the Aramaeans There follow five chapters on Bashan Gilead Ammon Moab and Edom with the Negeb

Several indices facilitate the consultation of the work on particular topics Out of the Desert William H. Stiebing, 2012-07-03 Two of the best known stories in the Bible are those of Moses leading his people out of Egypt and Joshua's conquest of the Promised Land. Indeed, they form one of the cornerstones of the Judeo-Christian tradition. But is the Bible a reliable source of information for Israel's early history? Are the Exodus and Conquest actual historical events? And if they are, when and where did they occur? Out of the Desert rigorously examines accounts of these historic events and traces the authenticity, dates, and explanations for the Israelites' departure from Egypt and subsequent conquest of Canaan. Clarifying these events in a straightforward, informative manner, Out of the Desert includes a generous number of charts and illustrations. William H. Stiebing Jr. places the Exodus within its cultural context during the beginning of the Iron Age (1200-1100 B.C.), a time of drought, famine, and collapse of social order, which gave way to the emergence and dominance of the tribes that joined forces to become the confederation of Israel. Many conventional ideas concerning the Exodus and Conquest are radically challenged in Out of the Desert. Stiebing's accounts of archaeological digs and rival theories make the narrative lively and engrossing. His unique insight into the field of modern archaeology provides a rare glimpse into the wonders of man's history.

L'Egypte fatimide Marianne Barrucand, 1999

Dothan I Daniel M. Master, John M. Monson, Egon H. E. Lass, George A. Pierce, 2005-06-30 The city of Dothan appears both in the Joseph narratives (Genesis 37) and as the city to which Elisha the prophet fled from the Arameans, and where the king of the Arameans sent an army to attempt to retrieve him (2 Kings 6:13). In the late 1950s and early 1960s, excavations at the site were sponsored by Wheaton College, Illinois, with Joseph P. Free as Director. This first volume publishes the results of those excavations and will be welcomed by all who wish to study the material at greater length. Chapters on the history of the expedition, methodology, Early Bronze Age and Late Bronze Age, the Iron Age, the Hellenistic, Roman, and Byzantine eras are complemented by studies on stone and metal artifacts, Iron II seal impressions, and Rhodian stamp seal impressions. The volume is profusely illustrated with more than 200 photos and drawings, and 2 color plates. Volume 2 of the series will report on the Western Cemetery at Dothan, which was the source of a rich repertoire of Late Bronze Age pottery.

The Wheel Thrown Pottery in Southern Bilad al-Sham (12th-13th c.): production and consumption. The case-study of Shawbak (Southern Jordan). Part 1. Study Raffaele Ranieri, 2024-12-27 The volume investigates the dynamics of pottery production and consumption in southern Bilad al-Sham during the 12th and 13th centuries using the archaeological site of Shawbak Castle, Jordan, as a case study. Based on the author's doctoral dissertation, the research analyzes several thousand ceramic fragments recovered from stratigraphically reliable contexts through material culture and typological study methods. It examines the characteristics of the pottery in relation to the socio-economic dynamics of the period spanning the Crusader, Ayyubid, and Mamluk eras. The study provides critical insights into the role of unglazed wheel-thrown pottery in medieval Jordan and enhances the ability to analyze and interpret socio-economic and production contexts in the region. The archaeological investigations whose data are analyzed in this research were conducted by the Italian Archaeological Mission Medieval Petra Shobak Project with the support of the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation and the University of Florence in collaboration with the Department of Antiquities of Jordan

The Formation of Nabatean Art Joseph Patrich, 2023-09-20 It is well known that during the Second Temple period the Jews of Judea strictly observed the injunction against graven images Although the Jews borrowed techniques and artistic styles from the surrounding Hellenistic Roman culture they abstained from using images in their art What is less well known is that during the same period a similar phenomenon was taking place in the adjacent Arab kingdom of Nabatea and this despite the fact that unlike the monotheistic Jews the Nabateans worshipped many deities In both kingdoms political independence went hand in hand with a cultural independence that expressed itself in religion language script and art Although continuity with iconoclastic Judea may have had some influence on Nabatean steadfastness to tradition under pressure from the dominant Hellenistic Roman culture it appears that their abstract perception of their gods and disregard for figurative art were innate growing out of a particular theological doctrine The principles of that doctrine have not been preserved but we can deduce its existence and to a lesser degree its nature on the basis of certain archaeological discoveries that we will discuss here subsequently Unlike the common practice both in the Greco Roman West and in the Parthian East to accord the gods a human form the Nabateans represented their gods in the form of a stele The abstract manner in which they perceived the form of their deities affected their approach towards figurative art A systematic survey of Nabatean art indicates that negation of figurative art is evident in all domains of their creativity Hundreds of years before the Nabatean civilization but in this same geographical area there was a similar religious and artistic phenomenon of venerating stele gods and negating figurative art among another Arabian tribe which scholars tend to identify with the biblical Midianites The same spiritual wellsprings that nourished a nonfigurative tradition among the North Arabian tribes for hundreds of years first the Midianites and then the Nabateans ultimately resurfaced nourishing the nonfigurative tendency we see in Islamic Arabian art This book examines the origins of prohibition of a graven image among the Nabateans its effect on all facets of Nabatean art and its subsequent influence on Islamic art several hundred years hence The implications for the history both of ancient religions and art lend to Nabatean
