yet it is not normally considered in comparative archaeologies of states and empires This paper makes the case for considering Kush as a culturally distinctive trajectory to political authority social inequality and economic complexity It also considers reasons for its omission from comparative studies which include a past focus on primary states a lack of fit with existing archaeological classifications of ancient societies the overshadowing effect of ancient Egypt to the north and lingering institutional prejudice Recent research on early Kush the Kerma period in archaeological terms has recovered increasingly detailed evidence from its major urban center at Kerma but has also begun to gather regional data on the expansion and internal structure of early Kush Among its many distinctive features the most significant for understanding the unusual features of its trajectory may be the role of cattle herding and likely associated mobility of population Museum of Fine Arts Bulletin Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, 1928 Origini - XXXVI Lorna Anguilano, Francesca Balossi Restelli, Baruch Brandl, Salvatore Chilardi, Geoff Emberling, Maria Carmela Gatto, Enrico Giannitrapani, Filippo Ianni, Sara T. Ben-Tor, 2007 Anhand der Fossilien des Pillendrehers Skarabaus erforscht Daphna Ben Tor die Beziehungen zwischen Ägypten und der Levante im Zeitraum der 12 und 13 Dynastie. Schon vor langerer Zeit wurde die Bedeutung von Skarabaen Fossilien zur historischen Rekonstruktion des Verhältnisses zwischen Ägypten und der Levante entdeckt. Doch die Kontroverse über die Typologie von Skarabaen schloss sie als verlässliche historische Quelle aus. Diese Studie schlägt eine neue Typologie der Pillendreher für die erste Hälfte des zweiten Jahrtausends v. Ch. vor, die sich an den Erkenntnissen zu ägyptischen und levantischen Keramik Sammlungen orientiert. Basierend auf diesen Forschungen kann das Alter der Erdschicht bestimmt werden, in welcher die Skarabaen und Abdrücke in beiden Regionen gefunden wurden, und die Verbindung zwischen der zweiten mittleren Periode in Ägypten und der mittleren Bronzezeit IIB in der Levante nachgewiesen werden. Der prinzipielle methodologische Unterschied zwischen der heutigen und der früheren Forschung liegt im Verständnis der ägyptischen und palastinensischen Skarabaen als zweier statt vormals einer Gruppe. Die neue Sicht erlaubt eine systematische Unterscheidung ägyptischer und kanaanitische Skarabaen dieser Zeit und führt zu einer separaten stilistischen und chronologischen Typologie für jede Gruppe. Die Schlussfolgerungen, welche in dieser Studie präsentiert werden, zeigen die Signifikanz der Skarabaen als Hauptinformationsquelle für die Rekonstruktion der Geschichte der 12 und 13 Dynastie.

New Directions in Biocultural Anthropology Molly K. Zuckerman, Debra L. Martin, 2016-08-22 Biocultural or biosocial anthropology is a research approach that views biology and culture as dialectically and inextricably intertwined, explicitly emphasizing the dynamic interaction between humans and their larger social, cultural, and physical environments. The biocultural approach emerged in anthropology in the 1960s, matured in the 1980s, and is now one of the dominant paradigms in anthropology, particularly within biological anthropology. This volume gathers contributions from the top scholars in biocultural anthropology, focusing on six of the most influential, productive, and important areas of research within biocultural anthropology. These are critical and synthetic approaches within biocultural anthropology: biocultural approaches to identity, including race and racism; health, diet, and nutrition; infectious disease; from antiquity to the modern era; epidemiologic transitions; and population dynamics and inequality and violence studies. Focusing on these six major areas of burgeoning research within biocultural anthropology makes the proposed volume timely, widely applicable, and useful to scholars, engaging in biocultural research, and students interested in the biocultural approach and synthetic in its coverage of contemporary scholarship in biocultural anthropology. Students will be able to grasp the history of the biocultural approach and how that history continues to impact scholarship, as well as the scope of current research within the approach and the foci of biocultural research into the future. Importantly, contributions in the text follow a consistent format of a discussion of method and theory relative to a particular aspect of the above six topics followed by a case study applying the surveyed method and theory. This structure will engage students by providing real world examples of anthropological issues and demonstrating how biocultural method and theory can be used to elucidate and resolve them. Key features include:

- Contributions which span the breadth of approaches and topics within biological anthropology from the insights granted through work with ancient human remains to those granted through collaborative research with contemporary peoples.
- Comprehensive treatment of diverse topics within biocultural anthropology from human variation and adaptability to recent disease pandemics, the embodied effects of race and racism, industrialization and the rise of allergy and autoimmune diseases, and the sociopolitics of slavery and torture.
- Contributions and sections united by thematically cohesive threads.
- Clear, jargon-free language in a text that is designed to be pedagogically flexible; contributions are written to be both understandable and engaging to both undergraduate and graduate students.
- Provision of synthetic theory, method, and data in each contribution.
- The use of richly contextualized case studies driven by empirical data. Through case study-driven contributions, each chapter demonstrates how biocultural approaches can be used to better understand and resolve real world problems and anthropological issues.
