Borders in a Climate of Change Wendy Steele, Tooran Alizadeh, Leila Eslami-Andargoli, Silvia Serrao-Neumann, 2020-03-25

The fixity or mobility of borders are key themes within the border studies literature and have useful critical application to urban and environmental planning through theory pedagogy and practice This offers potential for transformative change through the processes of re bordering and re orienting established boundary demarcations in ways that support and promote sustainability in a climate of change Planning Across Borders in a Climate of Change draws on a range of diverse case studies from Australasia North and South America Europe Africa the Middle East and Asia and offers the application of border theory concepts and principles to planning as a critical lens It applies this lens to a range of international case studies in key areas such as climate change adaptation food security spatial planning critical infrastructure and urban ecology This collection fills an important gap in the border studies literature bringing climate change considerations to bear on planning It should be of interest to students scholars and professionals in the field of urban and environmental planning climate change adaptation border studies urban studies human and political geography environmental studies and development Towards Coastal

Resilience and Sustainability C. Patrick Heidkamp, John Morrissey, 2018-09-28 Coastal zones represent a frontline in the battle for sustainability as coastal communities face unprecedented economic challenges Coastal ecosystems are subject to overuse loss of resilience and increased vulnerability This book aims to interrogate the multi scalar complexities in creating a more sustainable coastal zone Sustainability transitions are geographical processes which happen in situated particular places However much contemporary discussion of transition is either aspatial or based on implicit assumptions about spatial homogeneity This book addresses these limitations through an examination of socio technological transitions with an explicitly spatial focus in the context of the coastal zone The book begins by focusing on theoretical understandings of transition processes specific to the coastal zone and includes detailed empirical case studies The second half of the book appraises governance initiatives in coastal zones and their efficacy The authors conclude with an implicit theme of social and environmental justice in coastal sustainability transitions Research will be of interest to practitioners academics and decision makers active in the sphere of coastal sustainability The multi disciplinary nature encourages accessibility for individuals working in the fields of Economic Geography Regional Development Public Policy and Planning Environmental Studies Social Geography and Sociology Globalization of Small Economies as a Strategic Behavior in International Business Sergio A.

Castello, Terutomo Ozawa, 2014-05-01 This book postulates the proposition that small economies exhibit a higher degree of outward orientation and structural adaptability compared to their larger counterparts within the context of the European Union and two case studies i e Catalonia and New Zealand The number of nations has doubled in the last half of the century to around 200 independent economic units Moreover the break up of the former Soviet bloc into a large number of small independent nations in Central and Eastern Europe and the continued threat of separatist groups i e Canada Spain and Sri Lanka have sparked economists interest to focus on the size of nations once again This book offers a more comprehensive measurement of smallness than the conventional one for the analysis of the globalization strategies and flexibility of countries to overcome smallness Small independent economic units when economically successful tend to be more export focused in manufacturing likely to specialize in differentiated manufactures more actively involved with direct overseas businesses more sensitive in strategically managing exchange rates likely to be in a better position to achieve price stability more actively involved in international trade through varying degrees of economic integration likely to have a higher degree of flexibility more actively involved to forge a complementary government firm relationship and likely to have a higher degree of corporatism

Low-Carbon Economy and Sustainable Development: Driving Force, Synergistic Mechanism, and Implementation Path Zhen Liu, Wang Pei, Jing Lan, Jingchao Zhang, 2024-11-25 In recent years with global economic development and population growth environmental issues have become increasingly prominent Climate change and energy crisis have become global problems that restrict human development and so need to be solved urgently As a comprehensive economic development model the low carbon economy can greatly reduce energy and resource consumption mitigate and adapt to climate change promote economic development and thus achieve the goal of sustainable development Therefore exploring efficient paths toward sustainable development through carbon reduction is an urgent and challenging research topic currently This Research Topic aims to conduct scientific research and exchange from the perspectives of clarifying the drivers behind carbon reduction investigating the synergistic mechanism between the low carbon economy and sustainable development and then exploring the pathways to low carbon development Through comprehensive research and comparative analysis of the relationship between low carbon economy and sustainable development we will verify the feasibility of innovations and updates of carbon reduction applications for sustainable development provide scientific strategies in terms of low carbon economy for sustainable development design technical routes and propose corresponding policy recommendations
