The Economics of Technological Change and Employment in the Digital Machine Age Falk Urban, 2015-12-22 Master's Thesis from the year 2015 in the subject Economics Other grade 1.0 University of Paderborn language English abstract Technology as a Matter of Economic Interest A timeliness object of discussion since the first noteworthy appearance of economic literature has always been the construct of technological unemployment The fear of people being put out of work by some machines really took off during the industrial revolution in the late 18th century owed to the invention of the steam machine which eventually led to the automation of the weaving craft The economic interest in the relationship between new technology and its social impact is mostly based on the idea of increased productivity If we consider a production function containing an arbitrary number of input factors then given a certain amount of output profits will decrease if any of those inputs is becoming more expensive In the course of time before human and property rights were installed this has been most often the factors land and labor Labor insofar as it depended massively on the ability of keeping people healthy and well nourished and also on the expected life span which was certainly lower centuries ago The United Kingdom was affected first and severest by the invention of the steam engine Ulrike Herrmann 2013 explains the necessity of this invention on the scarcity of labor due to the wars and famines plaguing the Europe of that era This disruptive general purpose technology is the first encounter of employees with massive technological unemployment and the almost obliteration of certain professions i.e. weavers Economics of Technological Change Thomas L. Beane, 2007 This book brings together a collaboration of technological advancements and how they have influenced the world's economy These include production efficiency industrial innovation regional developments and issues economic growth Technological Change and Economic Performance Albert N. Technological Change, Economic Development and Space Cristoforo S. Bertuglia, Manfred M. Fischer, Giorgio Preto, 2012-12-06 The pressures of global competition are affecting regions throughout the world and making it increasingly necessary to understand the complex underlying mechanisms and the potential for innovation offered by new technology Success in economic restructuring depends not only on the technology itself but the professional and entrepreneurial skills available and the support of provided by institutions and information networks The very local nature these phenomena which are critical to the innovative propensity of firms operating within the region introduces an inevitable spatial dimension The time therefore seems ripe to bring together contributions from scholars working in different but related disciplines with the aim of investigating the triangular relationship between technological change economic development and space The present volume offers a compact review of current theoretical developments and valuable insights deriving from recent empirical studies carried out both within Europe and elsewhere All those contributing to this volume are actively involved in research in the field Without their intellectual contribution and willingness to participate in this joint project the book would not have been possible We should like in addition to thank Angela Spence for her capable assistance in coordinating the various stages of preparation of the book as well as her translation work and careful linguistic editing Thanks also go to Paola Stasi for her meticulous copy editing and help in preparing the indices Their work has been invaluable in moulding together in a single volume contributions from so many different sources

Economics of Technological Change, 1987 Microdynamics of Technological Change Cristiano Antonelli, 2002-01-04 This volume presents a comprehensive assessment of the economic effects of the emerging information and communication technologies associated with a knowledge based economy and looks at how knowledge is increasingly treated as a product in its own right An original framework is developed to comprehend these fundamental shifts based on three bodies of knowledge the economics of path dependence and of historical time as they are elaborated in the economics of new technologies economic topology based on the methodology of network analysis the new economics of knowledge and the concept of localized technological change This book provides a unified analytical framework for the study of the transition of advanced economic systems towards a knowledge based economy

Technology and Economic Development Edward J. Malecki, 2009 This study examines the effects of technological change on economic growth and development synthesizing extensive research from multiple disciplines including geography and planning regional science entrepreneurship technology policy and economics It uses the framework of regional development to encompass economic dynamics at all spatial scales national regional and local The concept of regional development is introduced as the qualitative or structural features of a region's economy as opposed to its sheer size or growth rate The analysis also examines the core periphery dichotomy where the core is defined as a set of regions in which complexity technology and control are the norm and where linkages to other nodes and the global system are common The discussion also draws a distinction between economic growth and economic development the former designates increases in population within a specific area or increases in the quantity or the value of the goods and services and does not necessarily lead to qualitative improvements in life the way development does Technological capability is closely related to capability in R conventional strategies are changing to encompass people their contacts and skills as another vital basis for success of firms in new technologies and in alliances and other cooperations The location of economic activities is explored There are two major sets of influences on the innovativeness and competitiveness of places 1 technical skills and information are key in the process of technological change and competition and 2 urban areas contain a complex synergy of factors that smaller more remote places cannot attain Producer services which are strongly based on knowledge and symbolic analysis are therefore typically clustered in cities Small firms and entrepreneurship are examined as a crucial part of a well functioning regional economy Research has demonstrated the close relationship between entrepreneurship and regional and local development Innovativeness developed within local inter firm networks both supports existing firms and presents opportunities for starting new businesses in order to serve newly identified markets Networks of firms complement and sometimes substitute for a firm s own technological capability Networks of large firms and the globalization of economic activity are then considered Policy attempts at national regional and local scales to influence the location of economic activity are analyzed The economic progress and prospects of developing countries are assessed Policies for innovation entrepreneurship and the functioning of the economy are essential and require flexibility in order to respond to changing conditions in the world economy in specific product markets and in technology Concludes with a discussion of some of the central themes that were facing society at the end of the 1990s including basic needs for human development environmental issues employment and human capital and infrastructures for future technologies AT
