Crime and Economics Kevin Albertson, Chris Fox, 2011-10-05 Crime and Economics provides the first comprehensive and accessible text to address the economics of crime within the study of crime and criminology. The economics of crime is an area of growing activity and concern increasingly influential both to the study of crime and criminal justice and to the formulation of crime reduction and criminal justice policy. As well as providing an overview of the relationship between economics and crime, this book poses key questions such as: What is the impact of the labour market and poverty on crime? Can society decrease criminal activity from a basis of economic disincentives? What forms of crime reduction and methods of reducing re-offending are most cost beneficial? Can illicit organised crime and illicit drug markets be understood better through the application of economic analysis? For those interested in economic methods but without previous economic training, this book also provides an accessible overview of key areas such as cost-benefit analysis, econometrics, and the debate around how to estimate the costs of crime. This book will be key reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of criminology and economics and those working in the criminal justice system, including practitioners, managers, and policy makers.

Transnational Organised Crime in International Law Tom Obokata, 2010-08-17 There is extensive and detailed academic literature on the legal development of international crimes such as war crimes and crime against humanity. However, not much attention has been paid to other serious crimes including narcotics-related offences, human trafficking, and money laundering, which do not necessarily amount to international crimes in the traditional sense. The purpose of this monograph is to fill this gap and offer a critical analysis of developments in the field of transnational organised crime under international law. The book is divided into two parts. Part I is entitled 'Norms, Principles and Concepts'. It traces the history of organised crime and explores key concepts and norms relating to the practice from a multi-disciplinary perspective. It then looks at legal obligations imposed upon States as well as non-State actors in relation to transnational organised crime. Part II illustrates how these norms, principles, and obligations are translated and enforced in practice. This will be done through case studies at the level of national law (Thailand, Serbia) and the UK, regional law (European Union), and international law (United Nations). A book of many parts, its thematic coherence comes from its devotion to identifying the social threat posed by organised crime and the legal steps taken at the international and national levels against that threat. Rich with example and illustration and written in a light, direct style, it will provide a lucid guide for practitioners, policy makers, and students to the largely untraversed territory of the international legal system set up to suppress transnational organised crime. Professor Neil Bolster, University of Canterbury, New Zealand: 'The international law governing organized crime is a close relative of the body of law applicable to the International Criminal Court and similar institutions. It provides a forum to address issues of more general concern such as the scope of universal jurisdiction, immunities, statutory limitation, and extradition.' Tom Obokata's study, with its original and in some ways unique perspective, enriches our knowledge of the field. Professor William Schabas, Irish Centre for Human Rights: 'The book is well written; its documentation is quite exhaustive.'

and its thesis is timely and compelling Professor M Cherif Bassiouni DePaul University College of Law
