Shakespeare's Cross-Cultural Encounters Geraldo U. De Sousa, 2016-01-13 In this highly entertaining study De Sousa argues that Shakespeare reinterprets refashions and reinscribes his alien characters Jews Moors Amazons and gypsies In this way the dramatist questions the narrowness of a European perspective which caricatures other societies and views them with suspicion De Sousa examines how Shakespeare defines other cultures in terms of the interplay of gender text and habitat Written in a provocative style this readable book provides a wealth of fascinating information both on contemporary stage productions and on race and gender relations in early modern Europe

Egyptian Gothic Jay Sullivan, 2025-07-13 The Egyptian Gothic consists of novels and short stories about ancient Egyptian mummies returning to life to seek retribution or romance as well as cursed object tales Now mostly forgotten from the 1880s through to the 1920s it was more popular than the vampire genre This book is the first to examine the genre by using the frequent sensory descriptions within these texts to interrogate attitudes towards Empire Its aims are twofold Firstly it demonstrates that despite their status as disposable popular fiction these texts are rich in sensory discourses that have thus far been unexamined Secondly reading these discourses of touch sight smell sound and taste reveals new and intriguing ways in which Egypt is allowed to strike back against the British Empire The book argues that the Egyptian Gothic does not support the domination of Empire but instead presents a power dynamic in flux with the mummy fighting back against Western occupation Egypt and its artefacts evoke simultaneous feelings of fear and desire where those who meddle by invading tombs or stealing mummies are destroyed by Egyptian revenants

Black-Arab Encounters in Literature and Film Touria Khannous, 2021-08-26 This book investigates how representations of Black Africans have been negotiated over time in Arabic literature and film The book offers direct readings of a representative selection of primary texts shedding light on the divergent ways these authors understood race across different genres including pre Islamic classical poetry polemical essays travel narratives novels and films Starting with the first recognized Black Arab poet Antara Ibn Shaddad 580 C E and extending right up to the present day the works examined illuminate the changes in consciousness that attended Black Africans as they negotiated their position in Arab society In a twist to Edward Said's Orientalism the book argues that scholars in the Middle East and North Africa generated a hierarchical representational discourse themselves one equally predicated on the Self/Other binary However it also demonstrates that Arab racial discourse is not a linear rhetoric but changes according to history political circumstances and ideologies such as tribal politics the Shu'ubiyya movement nationalism and imperialism Blacks and Arabs have had tangled relationships that are based not only on race but also on kinship and solidarity due to trade and other types of connections Challenging fundamental assumptions of Black Diaspora studies and postcolonial studies this book will be of interest to scholars of the African diaspora Arabic literature Middle East studies and critical race studies

Encounters with the Other Martin Calder, 2021-12-28 Encounters with the Other brings together a range of eighteenth century texts in which the exploration of lingua incognita figures as a prominent topos Drawing mostly on a corpus of French texts but also including a number of works in English Martin Calder attempts to realign well known texts with more canonically marginalized works The originality of the perspectives offered by this book lies in the comparative reading of works not previously conjoined Encounters with otherness are marked by a transgression of the limits of language occurring when language becomes alien or unfamiliar Alterity may take various forms a foreign language a familiar language marked by the traits of foreignness something unrecognizable as language or even one's own language breaking down as in madness Unfamiliar language may be produced by a foreigner by a child who cannot yet speak in extreme cases by something unrecognizably human in all cases by an agency somehow marked by difference Narratives of encounters with otherness have written into them narratives of the discovery of the self Implicitly informed by the reading techniques associated with literary theory Encounters with the Other offers an insightful commentary on issues surrounding colonialism cultural difference gender and the importance of language to identity Martin Calder's work challenges certain Eurocentric notions and exposes the problematic links between Enlightenment rationality and colonial expansion This book is of interest both to undergraduate students and to academic researchers and to a more general readership concerned with understanding the relationship between Europe the West and a wider world

Sex, Tourism and the Postcolonial Encounter Jessica Jacobs, 2016-04-01 Illustrated by revealing interviews with women and men in the tourist resorts in the Sinai Egypt this book is ostensibly about western women who sleep with native men while on holiday Broadening the scope of issues involved it examines the link between these holiday romances and a much wider romanticism of place and people of the landscapes of paradise deserts and the lure of the Bedouin sheikh that are used to sell these destinations It argues that the romantic stereotyping and deliberate positioning of Third World resorts as places that somehow exist outside of the modernities the women come from is inextricably bound up in the relationships Similarly for the local man the tourist resort is perceived as a place other than his own cultural space and time and represents a modernity that is otherwise only found in the West The relationships that ensue can therefore only occur because the tourist resort acts as an intermediate space In analyzing the interaction of these men and women within the context of modernity the book provides insights into gender issues to do with globalization travel and sexuality as well as opening up the debate on sex tourism and showing this to be a lot more ambiguous and complicated than it might at first appear

Saint-Simonian Travelers in Egypt John David Ragan, 2025-02-11 The paradoxes of nineteenth century colonialism in the Middle East revealed through the accounts of three working class European travelers to Egypt This book tells the stories of two French women and a French African man travelers connected to the Saint Simonian utopian socialists who came to work for the Egyptian government in the 1830s They have been marginalized and excluded from the historical record because they were women not part of the colonial elite or of mixed racial heritage This history brings them alive through extensive archival research and vibrant storytelling There is Suzanne Voilquin a practicing midwife in Cairo who was involved in left wing popular politics in Paris and became the editor of one of the first feminist newspapers ever published 1832-34 The second traveler Thomas Ismayl Urbain was born in French Guyana where his mother was born a slave and his father was a French sea captain Jehan d'Ivray is the pen name of the third traveler a teenage woman who married an Egyptian studying medicine in France and traveled with him to Egypt in 1879 She wrote more than twenty books including a retrospective look at Suzanne Voilquin and women in the Saint Simonian movement bringing the story full circle to another generation Their stories brilliantly illustrate the paradoxes of nineteenth century colonialism in Egypt Suzanne Voilquin grew up in the Parisian working class and sympathized deeply with Egyptians but initially exoticized the differences between Egypt and her home country while Urbain a literary pioneer in black pride nevertheless joined the French army and saw his role in the colonial occupation as a means of helping indigenous people These characters transcend the neat binary of East and West and offer a rich nuanced window onto the experiences of French travelers in Egypt during the nineteenth century Egypt Shawki Abdelrehim, 2013 The conflict between the Islamic groups and secularists taking place now in Egypt has its roots in the nineteenth century This happened after the people became aware of their Egyptian identity as a result of their encounter with the West represented in the French Campaign in Egypt 1798-1801 led by Napoleon Bonaparte and the British Occupation of Egypt in 1882 These encounters were the cultural shocks that awakened Egypt from a 300 year lethargy under the Ottoman Empire rule and led to a dichotomy in the identity of Egypt resulting in a conflict between the Islamic and newly evolved secular characters of Egypt. The conflict continued throughout the twentieth century where successive regimes suppressed the Islamic trend. That Islamic trend had been latent until it came to a climax after the January 25 revolution. This book gives a panoramic view of the evolution of this dichotomy and analyzes the causes that conducted to it. Shawki AbdelRehim is a freelance translator in Giza, Egypt. He lives beside the pyramids and near the River Nile, the site of fifty centuries of history. This is my thesis for the master's degree in social science which I obtained from Syracuse University. It tackles the split of the Egyptian identity to two Islamic and secular characters. I wrote this book in 1992. The recent developments in Egypt support the analyses contained in the book. The topic has haunted me for a long time, especially since I have seen the developments of the Islamic groups' movements and actions in the twentieth century. The Cambridge Ancient History John Boardman, I. E. S. Edwards, E. Sollberger, N. G. L. Hammond, 1992-01-16. Volume III Part II carries on the history of the Near East from the close of Volume III Part I and covers roughly the same chronological period as Volume III Part I. During this period the dominant powers in the East were Assyria and then Babylonia. Each established an extensive empire which was based on Mesopotamia and each in turn fell largely through internal strife. Assyrian might was reflected in the imposing palaces, libraries, and sculptures of the Assyrian kings. Babylonian culture was outstanding in literature, mathematics, and astronomy, and the great buildings of Nebuchadnezzar II surpassed even those of the Assyrian kings. Israel and Judah suffered at the hands of both imperial powers. Jerusalem being destroyed and part of the population deported to Babylon, and Egypt was weakened by an Assyrian invasion. The Phoenicians found a new outlet in colonising and founded Carthage. A number of small vigorous kingdoms developed in Asia Minor while from the north and north east the Scythian nomadic tribes pressed down upon Turkey and the Danube valley but found their match in the Thracian tribes which held south eastern Europe and parts of western Turkey. The burials of the chieftains of both peoples were remarkable for the great wealth of offerings.

Muslim-Christian Encounters (Routledge Revivals)
William Montgomery Watt, 2013-12-19. First published in 1991, this title explores the myths and misperceptions that have underpinned Muslim-Christian relations throughout history and which endure to the current day. William Montgomery Watt describes how the myths originated and developed and argues that both Muslims and Christians need to have a more accurate knowledge and positive appreciation of the other religion. Chapters discuss the Qur'anic perception of Christianity, attitudes to Greek philosophy, and the relationship between Islam and Christianity in medieval Europe. Written by one of the leading authorities on Islam in the West, Muslim-Christian Encounters remains a relevant and vivid study and will be of particular value to students of Islamic religious history and sociology.
