Coercive Control:How Men Entrap Women in Personal Life Evan Stark,2007-04-16 Despite its great achievements the domestic violence revolution is stalled Evan Stark argues a provocative conclusion he documents by showing that interventions have failed to improve womens long term safety in relationships or to hold perpetrators accountable Stark traces this failure to a startling paradox that the singular focus on violence against women masks an even more devastating reality In millions of abusive relationships men use a largely unidentified form of subjugation that more closely resembles kidnapping or indentured servitude than assault He calls this pattern coercive control Drawing on sources that range from FBI statistics and film to dozens of actual cases from his thirty years of experience as an award winning researcher advocate and forensic expert Stark shows in terrifying detail how men can use coercive control to extend their dominance over time and through social space in ways that subvert women's autonomy isolate them and infiltrate the most intimate corners of their lives Against this backdrop Stark analyzes the cases of three women tried for crimes committed in the context of abuse showing that their reactions are only intelligible when they are reframed as victims of coercive control rather than as battered wives The story of physical and sexual violence against women has been told often But this is the first book to show that most abused women who seek help do so because their rights and liberties have been jeopardized not because they have been injured The coercive control model Stark develops resolves three of the most perplexing challenges posed by abuse why these relationships endure why abused women develop a profile of problems seen among no other group of assault victims and why the legal system has failed to win them justice Elevating coercive control from a second class misdemeanor to a human rights violation Stark explains why law policy and advocacy must shift its focus to emphasize how coercive control jeopardizes women's freedom in everyday life Fiercely argued and eminently readable Stark's work is certain to breathe new life into the domestic violence revolution

U.S. History As Women's History Linda K. Kerber, Alice Kessler-Harris, Kathryn Kish Sklar, 2000-11-09 This outstanding collection of fifteen original essays represents innovative work by some of the most influential scholars in the field of women's history Covering a broad sweep of history from colonial to contemporary times and ranging over the fields of legal social political and cultural history this book according to its editors intrudes into regions of the American historical narrative from which women have been excluded or in which gender relations were not thought to play a part The book is dedicated to pioneering women's historian Gerda Lerner whose work inspired so many of the contributors and it includes a bibliography of her works The contributors include Linda K Kerber on women and the obligations of citizenship Kathryn Kish Sklar on two political cultures in the Progressive Era Linda Gordon on women maternalism and welfare in the twentieth century Alice Kessler Harris on the Social Security Amendments of 1939 Nancy F Cott on marriage and the public order in the late nineteenth century Nell Irvin Painter on soul murder as a legacy of slavery Judith Walzer Leavitt on Typhoid Mary and early twentieth century public health Estelle B Freedman on women's institutions and the career of Miriam Van Waters William H Chafe on how the personal translates into the political in the careers of Eleanor Roosevelt and Allard Lowenstein Jane Sherron De Hart on women politics and power in the contemporary United States Barbara Sicherman on reading Little Women Joyce Antler on the Emma Lazarus Federation's efforts to promulgate women's history Amy Swerdlow on Left feminist peace politics in the cold war Ruth Rosen on the origins of contemporary American feminism among daughters of the fifties Darlene Clark Hine on the making of Black Women in America
