Everyday violence in contemporary Sweden Oer-olof H. Wikström,1985 Everyday Violence in Contemporary Sweden Per-Olof H. Wikström,Suède. Brottsförebyggande rådet,1985 Crime and Economy European Committee on Crime Problems,1995-01-01 Breaking Rules: The Social and Situational Dynamics of Young People's Urban Crime Per-Olof H. Wikström,2012-05-24 Breaking new ground in the study of crime in urban environments Breaking Rules The Social and Situational Dynamics of Young People s Urban Crime examines the findings theoretical basis and new methodology of The Peterborough Adolescent and Young Adult Development Study PADS This major longitudinal study investigates the role of the social environment on crime causation involving a cohort of 700 young people from the age of 12 A particular aim of PADS is to employ a new theory known as Situational Action Theory as well as the innovative methodology of ecometrics combined with space time budgets to improve the study of young people s offending and its changes By reviewing the current literature and analysing the theoretical and methodological problems of previous research the book explains how Situational Action Theory can help overcome central problems in criminological theorising Using this new and innovative framework it presents an analysis of the urban structure of Peterborough and its correlation to the differences in social life found in that area The variations in the urban environment are examined in terms of crime victimization and fear of crime and a detailed examination of young persons crime and its spatial patterns is offered through the unique space time budget data collected within PADS that enables analyses of young people their movements and crime involvement With implications for policy and prevention as well as being the first study of its kind this book should be of great interest to policy makers and practitioners interested in issues of urban environments as well as those studying crime in the urban environment and the role of the social environment in crime causation Crime and Everyday Life Marcus Felson,Mary A. Eckert,2018-09-27 Crime and Everyday Life offers a bold approach to crime theory and crime reduction Using a clear engaging and streamlined writing style the Sixth Edition illuminates the causes of criminal behavior showing how crime can affect everyone in both small and large ways Renowned authors Marcus Felson and Mary Eckert then offer realistic ways to reduce or eliminate crime and criminal behavior in specific settings by removing the opportunity to complete the act Most importantly this book teaches students how to think about crime and then do something about it

Geographies of Behavioural Health, Crime, and Disorder Kim M. Lersch,Jayajit Chakraborty,2020-01-01 This book focuses on the intersection of place and overall community health thereby focusing on some of the most critical contemporary social problems including the opioid crisis suicide socioeconomic status and ethnicity mental illness crime homelessness green criminology and social and environmental justice Scholars from a variety of disciplines including geography sociology criminology mental health social work and behavioural sciences discuss the importance of geography in our quality of life Each chapter introduces the reader to an overview of the topic presents theoretical frameworks and the most recent empirical evidence and discusses real world policy implications As such this book is a key resource for researchers policy makers and practitioners working in the field Research Handbook on Hate and Hate Crimes in Society James Hawdon,Matthew Costello,2024-10-03 This comprehensive Research Handbook places the study of hate and hate crimes into historic and cross national contexts examining the reasons behind and the effects of the reported increase in hate crimes in recent years James Hawdon and Matthew Costello bring together a diverse array of experts to highlight the ongoing empirical and conceptual challenges that scholars and practitioners face when studying this topic A History of Violence Robert Muchembled,2012 Presents a history of violence in Europe and discusses the theory that violence has actually been in decline since the thirteenth century The ^ADevelopment of Persistent Criminality Joanne Savage,2009-02-03 The Development of Persistent Criminality addresses one of the most pressing problems of modern criminology Why do some individuals become chronic persistent offenders This volume bridges the gap between the criminological literature and the developmental psychology literature bringing together some of the most widely published authors in this area National Reconviction Statistics and Studies in Europe = Nationale Rückfallstatistiken und -untersuchungen in Europa Hans-Jörg Albrecht,Jörg-Martin Jehle,2014 Recidivism belongs to the main categories of criminology crime policy and criminal justice If the target of preventing offenders from reoffending is taken seriously crime policy should be measured by success of certain penal sanctions in terms of relapses Also institutions that deal directly with crime and offenders need to get basic information on the consequences of their actions particularly general knowledge about offender groups at risk of reoffending All these are reasons why representative recidivism studies are needed Meanwhile a lot of European countries gather systematic and comprehensive information on recidivism periodically and on a national level This volume presents an exemplary collection of such endeavors Austria Estonia France Germany Switzerland and a comparative study of England and Wales the Netherlands and Scotland Alcohol and Interpersonal Violence Susan Ehrlich Martin,1993 Towards a Critical Victimology Ezzat A. Fattah,2016-07-27 Towards a Critical Victimology offers a serious challenge to the law and order perspective on victims rights and the false contest that is usually created between those rights and the rights of offenders It sheds light on the way victim initiatives emerged the timing of those initiatives their seemingly ulterior motives and the political interests they are meant to serve Key Issues in Criminal Career Research Alex R. Piquero,David P. Farrington,Alfred Blumstein,2007-01-08 Publisher description Practicing Forensic Criminology Kevin Fox Gotham,Daniel Bruce Kennedy,2019-05-29 Practicing Forensic Criminology draws on examples from actual court cases and expert witness reports and testimony to demonstrate the merits and uses of substantive criminological knowledge in the applied setting of civil law and the courts Throughout the book the authors provide a highly readable informative discussion of how forensic criminologists can apply their research and teaching skills to assist judges and juries in rendering legal decisions Engaging and lively the chapters include excerpts from forensic criminological investigations in depth discussions of the methodological and analytical bases of these investigations and important lessons learned from real litigation cases. Case examples are drawn from the forensic realms of premises liability, administrative negligence, workplace violence, wrongful conviction litigation, and litigation involving police departments and corrections facilities. Well referenced and thoroughly researched, Practicing Forensic Criminology serves as an introduction to the vast and heterogeneous field of forensic social science that is rapidly changing and expanding. This unique and original book guides readers through the research work of expert witnesses working as consultants, researchers, and crime analysts and investigators. Offering expert criminological insights into litigation cases, the chapters reveal how forensic social science research can be an effective mechanism for reaching beyond the academy to influence public policy reform and legal proceedings. Practicing Forensic Criminology will appeal to a diverse audience including social scientists, criminal justice students and researchers, expert witnesses, attorneys, judges, and students of judicial proceedings seeking to understand the value and impact of criminology in the civil court system. Introduces readers to the impact of evidence based criminological theory and forensic social science investigations in the legal system. Demonstrates the usefulness of forensic criminology as a research tool revealing novel relational dynamics among crime events and the larger socio spatial context. Advances the development of a translational criminology, i.e. the translation of knowledge from criminological theory and research to forensic practice as an expedient to forming robust interactive relationships among criminological, social scientists and policy makers.

Drugs, Crime, and Other Deviant Adaptations Howard B. Kaplan, 2013-06-29. This volume brings together a sample of the best of the studies that illustrate two recent trends in research on deviant behavior. The first of these trends is the investigation of deviant behavior in longitudinal perspective. Panels of subjects are followed over long periods of time to establish temporal relationships between deviant behavior and the antecedents and consequences of deviant behavior. The second trend in contemporary research on deviance is the recognition of the association among forms of deviant behavior such as violence, drug abuse, and theft. The recognition of the covariation among forms of deviance stimulated questions regarding the nature of the relationships among multiple forms of deviance. Is one form of deviant behavior a cause or a consequence of other forms of deviant behavior? What variables mediate and moderate such causal relationships? Do different forms of deviant behavior have common antecedents and consequences? Independent of the foregoing relationships, do particular forms of deviant behavior have unique antecedents and consequences? The eight original research studies that, along with the introduction and overview, constitute this volume are based on data drawn from among the most influential longitudinal studies in the general area of deviant behavior. These studies variously consider common and pattern specific antecedents and consequences, reciprocal influences, and intervening and moderating variables in causal relationships among drug use, crime, and other forms of deviance.

Changes in Society, Crime and Criminal Justice in Europe C. J. C. F. Fijnaut, Johan Goethals, 1995. In 1994 the School of Criminology, a part of the Department of Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure and Criminology in the Faculty of Law of the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven celebrated the 25th anniversary of its study programme To give added lustre to this landmark in its history the Institute accepted the invitation from the International Society of Criminology to organise the 49th International Course of Criminology The title of the course was Changes in Society Crime and Criminal Justice in Europe A challenge for criminological education and research This course explored two themes both of which are likely to be the focus of debate in criminal policy in the near future crime and insecurity in the city and international organised and corporate crime The presentation and discussion of both themes followed two main approaches Lectures and seminars focused on the analysis of the nature the quantity and the development of the phenomena and meetings were focused on the policy needed to gain control of these phenomena Moreover attention was paid to technical and ethical problems which show up at the moment that empirical research is carried out This publication brings together the main part of the introductory lectures Part one relates to the theme of crime and insecurity in the city the second part contains the lectures on international organised and corporate crime Together both parts present a good picture of what was explained and commented on during the Course especially in relation to important European developments concerning crime criminal justice and criminal policy This book will become an important source of inspiration for both criminological education and research

Criminology: Past, Present and Future Ezzat A. Fattah, 1997-10-13 Written by an internationally renowned authority in the field the founder of the highly regarded School of Criminology at Simon Fraser University the book draws heavily on research done on three Continents North America Europe and Australia to trace the discipline's historical evolution its current problems disappointing achievements and promising trends It concludes with a prospective look at the future of criminology and criminology of the future Although the perspective is critical the author's critique is constructive and he expresses a healthy optimism about the discipline's future and offers several guidelines as to how current deficiencies could be remedied and present gaps could be addressed

Cross-National Crime Jerry Neapolitan, 1997-10-28 This book describes various types and sources of crime and explanatory data available to study variation in crime across nations Problems with the data and appropriate methods for adjusting and analyzing the data are described A thorough review of theories and past cross national crime research is included This book intends to facilitate and stimulate quality cross national crime research The book notes past misuse of data such as using homicide rates unadjusted for attempts as well as inconsistencies and contradictions in past research The major theories and concepts which have been used to explain crime across nations are described in detail and critiqued Inconsistencies and contradictions in results are noted and avenues for future research are offered Methodological techniques issues and problems involved in analysis are also presented and new approaches to dealing with the resulting data are projected Extensive appendixes give information and contacts to researchers providing a network for research in cross national crime heretofore lacking

Character, Circumstances, and Criminal Careers Per-Olof H. Wikstrom, 2024

the discourse on theories of criminal behavior. It considers institutional, social, and individual issues related to criminal behavior while individually each raises questions about the adequacy of current theoretical claims. The topics have significant implications both for policy and research in criminology. Per Olof Wikström introduces a cross-level action theory of crime. He suggests that better understanding of causal mechanisms can lead to a situational theory of action based on perception of alternatives and the process of choice. David Wolcott and Steven Schlossman provide new perspectives on the issues of racial disparity and the incarceration of adolescents in adult prisons. These authors highlight gaps in our understanding of early twentieth-century juvenile justice and negate some popular claims about recent changes in the criminal law. Peter Grabosky spotlights privatization policies in the criminal justice system, suggesting a framework for analyzing the balance of advantage resulting from three basic forms of institutional relationships in policing. Steven Messner and Richard Rosenfeld discuss why institutional analysis has been seriously underdeveloped in etiological analyses of crime. Jordan Pederson and Matthew Shane scrutinize the concept of aggression. Their descriptions of aggressive behavior among non-human animals provide a fascinating backdrop for understanding human actions. Joan McCord emphasizes the intentionality of crimes as she argues that to understand what causes crime, one must have a theory about what it means to act intentionally. After critically appraising prior theories, McCord introduces and defends a new theory of motivation based on a post-empiricist theory of language. This latest volume in the distinguished Advances in Criminological Theory series continues to add to the theoretical underpinnings of the field and will be important to all collections of social science research on criminology.
