incarceration It outlines the ways in which race gender class nationality sexuality gender identity and other characteristics affect mothering and desistance and explores the tensions between individual and system level factors in the consideration of desistance This book suggests that any discussion of desistance particularly for women must move beyond the traditional focus on individual characteristics and decision making Such a focus overlooks the role played by context and systems which undermine both women s attempts to be mothers and their attempts to desist By contrast in the tradition of Beth Richie s Compelled to Crime this book explores both the trees and the forests and the quantum in between in a way that aims for lasting societal and individual changes
