

During the earliest stage of puberty, your hormones are just getting to work, and you won't really be able to see any changes. When the physical changes start to happen, they will roughly follow this timeline. It's important to remember that this is just a guideline—hormones affect everybody in different ways and at different times. You could get a really deep voice but not a lot of facial hair. Your penis could grow years before the rest of your body does, or vice versa. Don't worry. If you are a boy now, you will become a man soon enough.

AROUND AGE 11 (maybe sooner, maybe later)

- The testicles and scrotum (skin around the testicles) start to grow.
- You may start to see a tiny bit of pubic hair at the base of the penis.

AROUND AGE 13:

- Your penis gets longer.
- Your voice begins to crack.
- Wet dreams start.
- Your muscles get larger.
- Your growth spurt begins.

And just like that, you come out of your cocoon as a beautiful butterfly!

AROUND AGE 14:

- Your penis, testicles, and scrotum continue to get bigger, and the scrotum gets darker.
- Armpit hair starts to grow.
- Acne appears.
- Your voice deepens for good.
- Facial hair starts to sprout.

Over the next few years, you look, sound, and smell more and more like a man

At first, we were going to use images of my penis to get this point across but the publisher said it was inappropriate so here we are, with some fruit and animal metaphors. Is your penis actually going to become an animal or fruit? No. Probably not. What will happen during puberty is your penis will develop and transform. You guys are smart though, you get the point.

Now that we have a sense of what gets puberty going (and why), let's take a look at the changes brought on by this sudden flood of hormones in your body.
