The Evolution of Modern Hebrew Literature, 1850-1912 Abraham Solomon Waldstein, 1916 The Evolution of Modern Hebrew Literature, 1850-1912 (Classic Reprint) A. S. Waldstein, 2015-07-07 Excerpt from The Evolution of Modern Hebrew Literature 1850 1912 In writing this book I have had in view not so much the appreciation of the individual authors and their productions per se as their relation to the period in which they lived the ideas and emotions by which they were consciously or unconsciously actuated and what they contributed as individuals or as a class to the development of Hebrew literature In short I purpose to give here the evolution of the latter rather than its history in the common sense of the term This mode of treatment has been more and more pursued by literary historians since Taine and should in particular be followed by any one that writes for a reading public to whom the literature treated is entirely foreign Readers such as these are certainly more interested in the trend of thought in the flux and flow of ideas and in the artistic temperament of the period as a whole and in the literature as a whole than in any particular writer Hence some authors who would otherwise deserve a fuller treatment have been dealt with rather summarily For though as individual writers they may be of very high standing yet their contribution to the development of Hebrew literature may have been less marked than that of other writers of inferior talent who have nevertheless formed links in the chain of this development and who have consequently been treated more fully I have selected as my subject the period between the fifties of the last century and our own time and I did not go back to the middle of the eighteenth century which is generally considered the terminus a quo of modern Hebrew literature for the following reason As I am here dealing mainly with belles lettres and allied branches I could have found very little scope in the literature of the hundred years preceding the middle of the nineteenth century The novel in Hebrew had not yet been produced About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works EVOLUTION OF MODERN HEBREW LIT A. literary activity encompassing developments before and beyond the State of Israel By expanding the scope of representation this updated history provides a platform for a more diverse array of contributors and highlights previously understudied communities and works This approach allows for a richer understanding of modern Hebrew literature recognizing its global contexts and the varied voices that have shaped its evolution A history of modern Hebrew literature Joseph

Here and Now Todd Hasak-Lowy, 2008-03-29 The emergence of Zionism in the late nineteenth century and the evolution of Zionist society in Palestine were profoundly influenced by the Hebrew literature of the day. As Todd Hasak-Lowy cogently argues in this book, Hebrew authors wrote with the belief that accurately representing Jewish society, including its history in their texts, would both record the past and establish its future course. Hasak-Lowy traces the tensions between the extraliterary, the historical, social and political, and the literary, the aesthetic, formal and stylistic in Hebrew fiction. Focusing on canonical Hebrew texts by S. Y. Abramovitz, Y. H. Brenner, S. Y. Agnon, and S. Yizhar, the author establishes how their works and the works of other Jewish authors served as the intellectual and political leadership to the not yet fully amalgamated nineteenth-century diaspora.

The Oxford Handbook of Jewish Studies Martin Goodman, Jeremy Cohen, David Sorkin, 2002 This volume on Jewish studies presents surveys of today's interests and directions in the humanities and social sciences. It covers the main areas taught and researched as part of Jewish studies in universities throughout the world, especially in Europe, the US, and Israel.

Places and Forms of Encounter in Jewish Literatures, 2020-09-25 In the past years, reflections on Jewish literatures and theoretical and methodological approaches discussed in Comparative Literature have converged. Places and Forms of Encounter in Jewish Literatures Transfer Mediality and Situativity brings together close readings and contextualizations of Jewish literatures with theories discussed in Comparative and World Literature Studies. The contributions are arranged in five chapters capturing central processes, actors, and dynamics in the making of literatures, namely: Literary Agents, Literary Figures, Writing Voids, Making of Literatures, and Perceiving and Creating Languages. The volume seeks to illuminate the interrelations between literary systems and to highlight Jewish literatures as a prism for encounters on the levels of text, discourse, and culture, and their transformative force.
