Evolution On Environments And Hominidae In The African Western Rift Va:

Evolution of Environments and Hominidae in the African Western Rift Valley Noel Thomas Boaz, 1990 Exploration of an important paleoanthropological site in the Rift Valley of eastern Zaire from over two million years ago to the present The Semliki Research Expedition directed by Noel T Boaz Curator of Biological Anthropology at the Virginia Museum of Natural History has investigated the upper reaches of the Semliki River Valley since 1982 Nineteen papers by members of the Expedition present an extensive fossil flora the first recovered from this area of Pliocene Africa an extensive vertebrate the first relatively complete human fossil crania from the highest stratigraphic levels studies on the archaeology of the Age of Metals ethnoarchaeology among the tribal groups inhabiting the area today actualistic studies relevant to paleoanthropological interpretation African Paleoecology and Human Evolution Sally C. Reynolds, René Bobe, 2022-06-09 Humans evolved in the dynamic landscapes of Africa under conditions of pronounced climatic geological and environmental change during the past 7 million years This book brings together detailed records of the paleontological and archaeological sites in Africa that provide the basic evidence for understanding the environments in which we evolved Chapters cover specific sites with comprehensive accounts of their geology paleontology paleobotany and their ecological significance for our evolution Other chapters provide important regional syntheses of past ecological conditions This book is unique in merging a broad geographic scope all of Africa and deep time framework the past 7 million years in discussing the geological context and paleontological records of our evolution and that of organisms that evolved alongside our ancestors It will offer important insights to anyone interested in human evolution including researchers and graduate students in paleontology archaeology anthropology and geology Evolution and Fossil Record of African Proboscidea William J. Sanders, 2023-08-25 This book details the long diverse and complex phylogenetic history of elephants and their fossil relatives the Proboscidea whose origin is deeply embedded some 60 million years ago in Africa Most of the major evolutionary events of proboscideans occurred in Africa and these are examined in their geological paleoecological geographic and faunal contexts Updated information about feeding adaptations taxonomy and systematics genetics and site occurrences is included and summarized in tables figures and charts This is the first comprehensive review of African proboscideans and illustrates the need to more actively protect elephants and ensure their survival in modern ecosystems Key Features Provides a comprehensive systematic review of the African proboscidean fossil record Includes a summary of taxonomy geochronology biogeography and morphology Documents major faunal events including those associated with hominin origins Synthesizes new data from genomic isotopic and microware analyses Emphasizes the role of elephants in ecosystems and the importance of conservation The Oxford Handbook of African Archaeology Peter Mitchell, Paul Lane, 2013-07-04 This Handbook provides a comprehensive synthesis of African archaeology covering the entirety of the continent's past from the beginnings of human evolution to the archaeological legacy of European colonialism It includes a mixture of key methodological and theoretical issues and debates and situates the subject's contemporary practice Wiley-Blackwell Encyclopedia of Human Evolution Bernard Wood, 2011-03-31 This comprehensive A to Z encyclopedia provides extensive coverage of important scientific terms related to improving our understanding of how we evolved. Specifically, the 5,000 entries in this two-volume set cover evidence and methods used to investigate the relationships among the living great apes, evidence about what makes the behavior of modern humans distinctive, and evidence about the evolutionary history of that distinctiveness, as well as information about modern methods used to trace the recent evolutionary history of modern human populations. This text provides a resource for everyone studying the emergence of Homo sapiens. Cenozoic Mammals of Africa Lars Werdelin, William Joseph Sanders, 2010-07-20 This impressively comprehensive volume is a long-awaited and worthy successor to the now outdated 1978 classic Evolution of African Mammals. A must-have reference work for everyone interested in mammalian evolution. David Pilbeam, Harvard University and the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology. Biomass Burning and Global Change: Remote sensing, modeling and inventory development, and biomass burning in Africa Joel S. Levine, 1996 Global Biomass Burning provides a convenient and current reference on such topics as the remote sensing of biomass burning from space, the geographical distribution of burning, the combustion products of burning in tropical, temperate, and boreal ecosystems, burning as a global source of atmospheric gases and particulates, the impact of biomass burning gases and particulates on global climate, and the role of biomass burning on biodiversity and past global extinctions. Pub desc. Human Brain Evolution Stephen Cunnane, Kathlyn Stewart, 2010-06-01 The evolution of the human brain and cognitive ability is one of the central themes of physical biological anthropology. This book discusses the emergence of human cognition at a conceptual level, describing it as a process of long adaptive stasis interrupted by short periods of cognitive advance. These advances were not linear and directed but were acquired indirectly as part of changing human behaviors in other words, through the process of exaptation, acquisition of a function for which it was not originally selected. Based on studies of the modern human brain, certain prerequisites were needed for the development of the early brain and associated cognitive advances. This book documents the energy and nutrient constraints of the modern brain, highlighting the significant role of long-chain polyunsaturated fatty acids (LC PUFA) in brain development and maintenance. Crawford provides further emphasis for the role of essential fatty acids, in particular DHA, in brain development by discussing the evolution of the eye and neural systems. This is an ideal book for graduate students, postdocs, research scientists in Physical Biological Anthropology, Human Biology, Archaeology, Nutrition, Cognitive Science, Neurosciences. It is also an excellent selection for a grad student discussion seminar. Lothagam Meave G. Leakey, John M. Harris, 2003-01-23 Located at the southwest corner of Lake Turkana in northern Kenya, Lothagam represents one of the most important intervals in African prehistory. Early human remains are restricted in distribution to Africa, and the acquisition of an upright bipedal striding gait the hallmark of humanity appears to be at least circumstantially linked to the reduction of equatorial forests and the spread of grasslands on that continent The diverse Lothagam fauna documents the end Miocene transition from forested to more open habitats that were exploited by grazing horses and antelopes hippos giant pigs and true elephants It also includes spectacularly complete fossil carnivore skeletons and some of the oldest human remains Enlisting a team of highly qualified specialists this book provides the geologic context and dating framework for the Lothagam fossiliferous sequences describes the immense diversity of vertebrate fossils recovered from the Late Miocene and Early Pliocene sediments and synthesizes the results to interpret the changing paleoenvironments that prevailed at this site The book will interest anthropologists paleontologists geologists and anyone interested in human origins

Neogene Paleontology of the Manonga Valley, Tanzania Terry Harrison, 2013-11-11 Contributions to this volume detail paleontologic research in Manonga Valley and shed important light on the evolutionary development of eastern Africa Chapters provide novel insights into the taxonomy paleobiology ecology and zoogeographic relationships of African faunas as well as lay the foundation for future geological paleontological and paleoecological studies in this important area The book concludes with a discussion of the importance of investigations on broader geographical sites including the Manonga Valley for human evolution research The text is supported by 143 illustrations

The Evolution of Artiodactyls Donald R. Prothero, Scott E. Foss, 2007-12-17 Artiodactyls are diverse and successful hoofed mammals represented by nearly two hundred living species of pigs peccaries hippos camels deer sheep cattle giraffes and other even toed ungulates In the recent years a tremendous amount of research has been conducted on this important order The Evolution of Artiodactyls synthesizes this research into a single volume The authors explore a variety of topics including molecular phylogeny of terrestrial artiodactyls phylogenetic relationships of cetaceans to terrestrial artiodactyls and the earliest artiodactyls Diacodexidae Dichobunidae Homacodontidae Leptochoeridae and Raoellidae

Late Cenozoic Environments and Hominid Evolution Peter Andrews, Peter Banham, 1999 Part 3 Quaternary Environments with particular emphases on the English Midlands western Scotland and southern Africa

BOOK JACKET Throughout this commemorative volume the determination of editors and authors to place the results of specialist research into their environmental context is perhaps the clearest indication of the visionary influence of Bill Bishop

BOOK JACKET Old World Monkeys Paul F. Whitehead, Clifford J. Jolly, 2000-05-04 Old World monkeys Cercopithecoidea are the most successful and diverse group of living non human primates in terms of the number of species behavioural repertoires and ecology They have much to teach us about the processes of evolution and the principles of ecology and are among our closest living relatives This volume presents a broad technical account of cercopithecoid biology including molecular behavioural and morphological approaches to phylogeny population structure allometry fossil history functional morphology ecology cognitive capabilities social behaviour and conservation It will be the definitive reference on this group for professionals and graduate students in primatology animal behaviour paleontology

morphology systematics and physical anthropology but will also be useful to senior undergraduates

The Palaeolithic Settlement of Asia Robin Dennell, 2008-12-15 This book provides the first analysis and synthesis of the evidence of the earliest inhabitants of Asia before the appearance of modern humans 100 000 years ago Asia has received far less attention than Africa and Europe in the search for human origins but is no longer considered of marginal importance Indeed a global understanding of human origins cannot be properly understood without a detailed consideration of the largest continent In this study Robin Dennell examines a variety of sources including the archaeological evidence the fossil hominin record and the environmental and climatic background from Southwest Central South and Southeast Asia as well as China He presents an authoritative and comprehensive framework for investigations of Asia's oldest societies challenges many long standing assumptions about its earliest inhabitants and places Asia centrally in the discussions of human evolution in the past two million years

Bibliography and Index of Geology, 1991

Early Human Behaviour in Global Context Ravi Korisettar, Michael D. Petraglia, 2003-09-02 Early Human Behaviour in a Global Context will be of use to students and professionals who are interested in prehistory Paleolithic archaeology and paleoanthropology Those interested in our ancestors and their place in the natural world will also benefit from the information presented in this book Chapters focus on the nature of archaeological evidence stone tool technology subsistence practices settlement distributions

Hominin Environments in the East African Pliocene René Bobe, Zeresenay Alemseged, Anna K. Behrensmeyer, 2007-09-08 This volume presents the work of researchers at many sites spanning the East African Pliocene The authors take a broad approach that seeks to compare paleoenvironmental and paleoecological patterns across localities and among various taxonomic groups This volume aims to synthesize large amounts of faunal data and to present the evolution of East African vertebrates in the context of environmental and climatic changes during the Pliocene

The Pleistocene Boundary and the Beginning of the Quaternary John A van Couvering, John A. Van Couvering, 2004-12-16 This book documents the agreed geological reference point for the Pleistocene boundary and its worldwide correlation

The East African Great Lakes: Limnology, Palaeolimnology and Biodiversity Eric O. Odada, Daniel O. Olago, 2006-03-09 The Second International Symposium on the East African Lakes was held from 10-15 January 2000 at Club Makokola on the southern shore of Lake Malawi The symposium was organized by the International Decade for the East African Lakes IDEAL a research consortium of African European and North American scientists interested in promoting the investigations of African Great Lakes as archives of environmental and climatic dynamics Over one hundred African European and North American scientists with special expertise in the tropical lakes participated in the symposium which featured compelling presentations on the limnology climatology palaeoclimatology and biodiversity of the East African Lakes It is their papers that comprise this book The large lakes of East Africa are important natural resources that are heavily utilized by their bordering countries for transportation water supply fisheries waste disposal recreation and tourism The lakes are unique in many ways they are sensitive to climatic change and their circulation dynamics water column chemistry and biological complexity differ significantly from large lakes at higher latitudes they have long continuous high resolution records of past climatic change and they have rich and diverse populations of endemic organisms These unique properties and the significance of the palaeolimnological records demand and attract research interest from around the world

The Wrong Ape for Early Human Origins M. Kay

Martin,2023-04-11 The Wrong Ape for Early Human Origins examines ways in which the chimpanzee referential model has exerted a primary influence on evolutionary theory dominating portraits of proto and early human social life and in the broader sense of human nature itself Evidence on which this model is based is revisited along with new cross disciplinary findings that point to alternative scenarios for hominin phylogeny ecology and subsistence primeval kinship cognition and language and the respective roles played by aggression and cooperation as evolutionary drivers Recent advances in phylogenetics evolutionary biology and new additions to the fossil record are rendering linear monotypic models obsolete Contemporary theories on species divergence and change over time are shifting attention from ancient genotypes to factors that influence gene expression and from innate prescriptive behaviors to epigenesis and the capacity for behavioral plasticity This broader platform has the potential to fundamentally revise current notions about the basic nature phenotypic traits and lifeways of ancestral humans It informs a different profile of our progenitors one that reflects greater ecological bandwidth reliance on creative niche construction and hominin agency in the structuring of ancient reproductive and social groups
