Christiana Köhler,2021 This is the fifth volume in the comprehensive publication series of research results from the archaeological excavations in the ancient Egyptian necropolis at Helwan With over 10 000 graves this cemetery is the largest of its time it can be associated with Egypt s first capital the city of Memphis and its direct environment The main occupation period is during the Early Dynastic Period Dynasties 1 and 2 ca 3000 2700 B C E which is a time when the ancient Egyptian territorial state had just emerged Helwan primarily served the city s general urban population which can be related to the lower and middle classes of society The first excavations at Helwan took place during the early 20th century and after a long interruption archaeological work was continued initially by a project of Macquarie University in Sydney starting in 1997 From 2010 until 2017 the work at the site was then conducted in cooperation with the University of Vienna This volume continues the presentation of primary archaeological data from tombs in an area designated Operation 4 which were excavated between 1998 and 2011 under the direction of the main author The volume follows the nomenclature of graves as established in vols III and IV of the series and introduces tombs 4 101 to 4 150 which date to the Early Dynastic and early Old Kingdom periods There are brief chapters by different authors on the main categories of finds that is the tomb structures human remains pottery non ceramic artefacts as well as archaeo zoological and botanical materials The main part of this publication is taken up by the catalogue of tombs where the archaeological context of the individual graves and burials together with their artefacts are briefly described and documented in the form of line drawings and photographs The authors of vols III to VI have deliberately avoided to engage in further analysis and interpretation so as to allow sufficient space for the primary archaeological data They will be comprehensively analyzed and interpreted starting with volume VII of the series Royal Excavations at Helwan 1945 - 1947 Zaky Youssef Sa'd,1951

Securing Eternity Reg Clark,2019-04-30 The ancient Egyptian tomb evolved rapidly over a period of about 2 500 years from a simple backfilled pit to an enormous stone pyramid with complex security arrangements Much of this development was arguably driven by the ever present threat of tomb robbery which compelled tomb builders to introduce special architectural measures to prevent it However until now most scholarly Egyptological discussions of tomb security have tended to be brief and usually included only as part of a larger work the topic instead being the subject of lurid speculation and fantasy in novels the popular press and cinema In Securing Eternity Reg Clark traces in detail the development of the Egyptian royal and private tombs from the Predynastic Period to the early Fourth Dynasty In doing so he demonstrates that many of the familiar architectural elements of the Egyptian tomb that we take for granted today in fact originated from security features to protect the tomb rather than from monumental or religious considerations Richly illustrated with more than 150 photographs and tomb plans this unique study will be of interest to students specialists and general readers alike
