The Exploitation of Plant Resources in Ancient Africa Marijke van der Veen,2013-06-29 This volume presents a completely new and very substantial body of information about the origin of agriculture and plant use in Africa All the evidence is very recent and for the first time all this archaeobotanical evidence is brought together in one volume at present the information is unpublished or published in many disparate journals conference reports monographs site reports etc Early publications concerned with the origins of African plant domestication relied almost exclusively on inferences made from the modern distribution of the wild progenitors of African cultivars there existed virtually no archaeobotanical data at that time Even as recently as the early 1990s direct evidence for the transition to farming and the relative roles of indigenous versus Near Eastern crops was lacking for most of Africa This volume changes that and presents a wide range of exciting new evidence including case studies from Nigeria Burkina Faso Ethiopia Uganda Egypt and Sudan which range in date from 8000 BP to the present day The volume addresses topics such as the role of wild plant resources in hunter gatherer and farming communities the origins of agriculture the agricultural foundation of complex societies long distance trade the exchange of foods and crops and the human impact on local vegetation all key issues of current research in archaeology anthropology agronomy ecology and economic history The Archaeology of Ethiopia Niall Finneran,2007-11-08 This book provides

Salvo,2016-11-23 The basilica is symbolic of the history of Christianity in Ethiopia Aizan the first Christian king of the Aksumite empire was responsible for the creation of the large five aisled church of Maryamyon sadly destroyed in 1535 and since then many hundreds of basilicas have been built in Ethiopia many including the UNESCO World Heritage site of Lalibela literally hewn from the rock In this book architectural historian and architect Mario di Salvo considers the unique architectural features of Ethiopia s basilicas and explains how they developed over time Featuring almost 200 colour illustrations this book is an attractive and comprehensive guide to some of Ethiopia s most inspiring religious buildings

Foundations of an African Civilization D. W. Phillipson, 2014 Focuses on the Aksumite state of the first millennium AD in northern Ethiopia and southern Eritrea its development florescence and eventual transformation into the so called medieval civilisation of Christian Ethiopia This book seeks to apply a common methodology utilising archaeology art history written documents and oral tradition from a wide variety of sources the result is a far greater emphasis on continuity than previous studies have revealed It is thus a major re interpretation of a key development in Ethiopia s past while raising and discussing methodological issues of the relationship between archaeology and other historical disciplines these issues which have theoretical significance extending far beyond Ethiopia are discussed in full The last millennium BC is seen as a time when northern Ethiopia and parts of Eritrea were inhabited by farming peoples whose ancestry may be traced far back into the local Late Stone Age Colonisation from southern Arabia to which defining importance has been attached by earlier researchers is now seen to have been brief in duration and small in scale its effects largely restricted to its sections of the community Re consideration of inscriptions shows the need to abandon the established belief in a single Pre Aksumite state New evidence for the rise of Aksum during the last centuries BC is critically evaluated Finally new chronological precision is provided for the decline of Aksum and the transfer of centralised political authority to more southerly regions A new study of the ancient churches both built and rock hewn which survive from this poorly understood period emphasises once again a strong degree of continuity across periods that were previously regarded as distinct Publisher s website

The Red Sea from Byzantium to the Caliphate Timothy Power, 2012-10-01 This book examines the historic process traditionally referred to as the fall of Rome and rise of Islam from the perspective of the Red Sea a strategic waterway linking the Mediterranean to the Indian Ocean and a distinct region incorporating Africa with Arabia The transition from Byzantium to the Caliphate is contextualized in the contestation of regional hegemony between Aksumite Ethiopia Sasanian Iran and the Islamic Hijaz The economic stimulus associated with Arab colonization is then considered including the foundation of ports and roads linking new metropolises and facilitating commercial expansion particularly gold mining and the slave trade Finally the economic inheritance of the Fatimids and the formation of the commercial networks glimpsed in the Cairo Geniza is contextualized in the diffusion of the Abbasid bourgeois revolution and resumption of the India trade under the Tulunids and Ziyadids Tim Power s careful analysis reveals the complex cultural and economic factors that provided a fertile ground for the origins of the Islamic civilization to take root in the Red Sea region offering a new perspective on a vital period of history
