

FEDERAL TAXATION RESEARCH GUIDE

Taxes are an inevitable part of life. Taxes levied and collected by federal, state and local governments have spawned a voluminous amount of statutory and regulatory material, case law and other sources. This guide will be limited to federal taxation research.

Research into a question on federal taxation can require a researcher to delve into materials issued by all branches of government. Primary sources on tax include the Constitution, statutes, treaties, federal regulations, IRS regulations and rulings, and judicial decisions. Secondary sources, such as treatises, loose-leaf services, and journal or law review articles, explain the federal taxation.

STATUTES - TAX LAWS

The Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.) is a codification of all current federal tax laws. The statutes are published in Title 26 of the UNITED STATES CODE, as well as in the UNITED STATES CODE ANNOTATED (U.S.C.A.) and the UNITED STATES CODE SERVICE (U.S.C.S.). Often commercial publishers make the I.R.C. available in a more convenient format, e.g., THE COMPLETE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE (KF6346 .M45) and WEST'S INTERNAL REVENUE CODE (KF6276 .S26 .A2).

IRS REGULATIONS, REVENUE RULINGS AND REVENUE PROCEDURES

The Internal Revenue Service translates tax statutes into detailed regulations, rules and procedures to provide guidance to taxpayers interpreting the tax laws. First published weekly in the INTERNAL REVENUE BULLETIN (KF6277 .S23 .A195), they are organized permanently in the semiannual bound volume, the CUMULATIVE BULLETIN (KF6277 .S23 .A195). Many of the IRS publications also are available through commercial loose-leaf services, e.g., CCH STANDARD FEDERAL TAX REPORTER (KF6285 .C65 x), MERTEN'S LAW OF FEDERAL TAXATION (KF6365 .M45) and RIA UNITED STATES TAX REPORTER (KF6285 .P74). Keep these various sources in mind as you read the following sections. In addition, see Online Tax Research in the last section of this guide.

Regulations

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized by the Internal Revenue Code to promulgate rules and regulations to carry out and enforce the tax laws. Regulations can be issued as proposed, temporary or final and will be found in the Federal Register or Internal Revenue Bulletin as well as tax looseleaf services. Temporary and final regulations are issued as Treasury Decisions (TDs). Each TD issued under the 1986 Code is numbered in the same way as the Code section to which it is related; i.e., preceded by a numerical prefix that indicates the tax with which the regulation deals. For example, 26 U. S.C. 30 deals with credits for qualified electric vehicles. Treasury Regulation §1.30-1 provides the definition of a qualified electric vehicle as well as recapture of a credit for qualified electric vehicles.

Revenue Rulings (Rev. Rul.)

A Revenue Ruling (Rev. Rul.) is an IRS official interpretation of the Internal Revenue Service laws, related statutes, tax treaties and regulations. A Rev. Rul is the decision by the IRS on how the law is applied to a specific set of facts. Such rulings are initially published in the weekly INTERNAL REVENUE BULLETIN. These Bulletins are cumulated semiannually into a permanent bound volume, THE CUMULATIVE BULLETIN. Revenue Rulings also may be found in the commercially produced loose-leaf services already mentioned. The IRS numbers revenue rulings chronologically, consisting of two parts, the year and the number e.g., Rev. Rul. 2003-33 would be the 33rd ruling by the IRS issued in 2003.

The IRS has a continuing review program for Rev. Rul. A researcher should consult the tax loose-leaf service volumes that list the current status of Rev. Rul., especially noting any that are obsolete.

Letter Rulings

Often called "private letter rulings," letter rulings are issued directly to taxpayers who formally request advice about tax consequences applicable to a specific transaction. These rulings are limited to the taxpayer requesting such advice. Though they have no precedential value, they are published for public review and are useful in indicating the approach of the IRS toward a particular fact situation. Private letter rulings are available in the CCH INTERNET TAX RESEARCH NETWORK AND RIA CHECKPOINT.
