Female Spectators Looking At Film And Television:

Female Spectators E. Deidre Pribram, 1988 Feminist thinking on cinema has been dominated by approaches which emphasize how meanings are produced in films and how this process hinges on sexual differences and privileges the masculine. The essays in this collection have been written by feminist film makers and theorists on both sides of the Atlantic. Together they provide a picture of feminist film criticism in the 1980s, perspective readings of individual films and TV programs and insights from women in the business of making films today. Adapted from book jacket. The Novel and the American Left Janet Galligani Casey, 2004-06 The first collection of critical essays to focus specifically on the fiction produced by American novelists of the Depression era. The Novel and the American Left contributes substantially to the newly emerging emphasis on twentieth century American literary radicalism. Recent studies have recovered this body of work and redefined in historical and theoretical terms its vibrant contribution to American letters. Casey consolidates and expands this field of study by providing a more specific consideration of individual novels and novelists many of which are reaching new contemporary audiences through reprints. The Novel and the American Left focuses exclusively on left leaning fiction of the Depression era lending visibility and increased critical validity to these works and showing the various ways in which they contributed not only to theorizations of the Left but also to debates about the content and form of American fiction. In theoretical terms the collection as a whole contributes to the larger reconceptualization of American modernity currently under way. More pragmatically individual essays suggest specific authors, texts and approaches to teachers and scholars seeking to broaden and/or complicate more traditional American modernism syllabi and research agendas. The selected essays take up among others such hard core leftist writers as Mike Gold and Myra Page who were associated with the Communist Party, the popular novels of James M. Cain and Kenneth Fearing whose works were made into successful films and critically acclaimed but nonetheless lost novelists such as Josephine Johnson whose Now in November Pulitzer Prize 1936 anticipates and complicates the more popular agrarian mythos of Steinbeck's The Grapes of Wrath. This volume will be of interest not only to literary specialists but also to historians, social scientists and those interested in American cultural studies. The Female Investigator in Literature, Film, and Popular Culture Lisa M. Dresner, 2014-12-24 In this book the author examines how women detectives are portrayed in film, in literature and on TV. Chapters examine the portrayal of female investigators in each of these four genres: the Gothic novel, the lesbian detective novel, television and film. Female spectators Deidre Pribram, 1988 Gender, Space, and the Gaze in Post-Hausmann Visual Culture Temma Balducci, 2017-03-27 Relying on a range of visual and written sources Gender, Space, and the Gaze offers fresh ways of considering how masculinity and femininity were lived in late nineteenth century Paris. The book moves beyond shopworn dichotomies rooted in Baudelaire's The Painter of Modern Life 1863 that have shaped scholarship on this period. Exploring Media Culture Michael R. Real, 1996-09-26 A beautifully written intellectually challenging and highly readable exploration of the mysteries of contemporary mass media and popular culture Real does a masterful job of empowering his readers Students will find this book fascinating and in some cases terrifying Arthur Asa Berger San Francisco State University      Rethinking Holocaust Film Reception Stefanie Rauch,2020-12-10 Taking early 21st century Britain as a case study Rethinking Holocaust Film Reception A British Case Study presents an intervention into the scholarship on the representation of the Holocaust on film Based on a study of audience responses to select films Stefanie Rauch demonstrates that the reception of films about the Holocaust is a complex process that we cannot understand through textual analysis alone but by also paying attention to individual reception processes This book restores the agency of viewers and takes seriously their diverse responses to representations of the Holocaust It demonstrates that viewers interpretative resources play an important role in film reception Viewers regard Holocaust films as a separate genre that they encounter with a set of expectations The author highlights the implications of Britain's lessons focused approach to Holocaust education and commemoration and addresses debates around the supposed globalization of Holocaust memory by unpacking the peculiar Britishness of viewers responses to films about the Holocaust A sense of emotional connection or its absence to the Holocaust and its memory speaks to divisions along ethnic generational and national lines      Television Culture and Women's Lives Margaret J. Heide,1995-02 Contemporary cultural theory feminist criticism and ethnography converge in this provocative study of the construction of meaning in mass culture Television Culture and Women's Lives explores the complex relationship between the gender conflicts played out in the scripts of the popular television show thirtysomething and the real life conflicts experienced by baby boomer women viewers Women viewers often reinterpreted the program's conservative view on gender roles seeing it instead as a protest against real dilemmas women face as they try to integrate career and family priorities Heide's study confirms women viewers close identifications with thirtysomething characters and positions audience responses against the backdrop of changes in the lives of women in the 1980s and 1990s Television Culture and Women's Lives accessibly treats fascinating issues related to cultural criticism the relationship between mass media and audiences and the struggles faced by women in late twentieth century America      Latin American Women Filmmakers Traci Roberts-Camps,2017-06 This book highlights the voices and stories of Latin American women directors from Brazil Chile Argentina and Mexico

Watching Race Herman Gray,2004 With a new introduction Herman Gray's classic investigation of television and race shows how the meaning of blackness on screen has changed over the years by examining the portrayal of blacks on series such as The Jack Benny Show and Amos n Andy continuing through The Cosby Show and In Living Color BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved      Violence on Television Barrie Gunter,Jackie Harrison,Maggie Wykes,2003-01-30 Concern about violence on television has been publicly debated for the past 50 years TV violence has repeatedly been identified as a significant causal agent in relation to the prevalence of crime and violence in society Critics have accused the medium of presenting excessive quantities of violence to the point where it is virtually impossible for viewers to avoid it This book presents the findings of the largest British study of violence on TV ever undertaken funded by the broadcasting industry The study was carried out at the same time as similar industry sponsored research was being conducted in the United States and one chapter compares findings from Britain and the U S A The book concludes that it is misleading to accuse all broadcasters of presenting excessive quantities of violence in their schedules This does not deny that problematic portrayals were found But the most gory horrific and graphic scenes of violence were generally contained within broadcasts available on a subscription basis or in programs shown at times when few children were expected to be watching This factual analysis proves that broadcasters were meeting their obligations under their national regulatory codes of practice

ReFocus: The Films of Amy Heckerling Frances Smith, 2016-02-19 Refocus The Films of Amy Heckerling is the first book length study of the work of Amy Heckerling the phenomenally popular director and screenwriter of Clueless and Fast Times at Ridgemont High As such the book constitutes a significant intervention in Film Studies prompting a reconsideration of the importance of Heckerling both in the development of Teen cinema and as a figure in Hollywood comedy As part of the Refocus series the volume brings together outstanding original essays examining Heckerling's work from a variety of perspectives including film television and cultural studies and is destined to be used widely in undergraduate teaching

Feminist Media Studies Liesbet van Zoonen, 1994-07-28 An introduction to the relation between media culture and gender

Defining Women Julie D'Acci, 2000-11-09 Defining Women explores the social and cultural construction of gender and the meanings of woman women and femininity as they were negotiated in the pioneering television series Cagney and Lacey starring two women as New York City police detectives Julie D Acci illuminates the tensions between the television industry the series production team the mainstream and feminist press various interest groups and television viewers over competing notions of what women could or could not be not only on television but in society at large Cagney and Lacey which aired from 1981 to 1988 was widely recognized as an innovative treatment of working women and developed a large and loyal following While researching this book D Acci had unprecedented access to the set to production meetings and to the complete production files including correspondence from network executives publicity firms and thousands of viewers She traces the often heated debates surrounding the development of women characters and the representation of feminism on prime time television shows how the series was reconfigured as a woman's program and investigates questions of female spectatorship and feminist readings Although she focuses on Cagney and Lacey D Acci discusses many other examples from the history of American television

Fear of the Dark Lola Young, 2006-05-17 Studies of the portrayal of black people in film have tended to be studies for the ideological correctness of the depictions of black people and the extent to which they rely on stereotypes By closely examining films such as Sapphire 1959 Leo the Last 1969 Black Joy 1977 Playing Away 1986 and Mona Lisa 1987 and situating them in their historical and social context Fear of the Dark develops a particular critical perspective on the film portrayal of black female sexuality and questions the extent to which black film makers have challenged stereotypes      Reel Food Anne L. Bower, 2012-08-06 Reel Food is the first book devoted to food as a vibrant and evocative element of film featuring original essays by major food studies scholars among them Carole Counihan and Michael Ashkenazi This collection reads various films through their uses of food from major food films like Babette's Feast and Big Night to less obvious choices including The Godfather trilogy and The Matrix The contributors draw attention to the various ways in which food is employed to make meaning in film In some cases such as Soul Food and Tortilla Soup for example food is used to represent racial and ethnic identities In other cases such as Chocolat and Like Water for Chocolate food plays a role in gender and sexual politics And of course there is also discussion of the centrality of popcorn to the movie going experience This book is a feast for scholars foodies and cinema buffs It will be of major interest to anyone working in popular culture film studies and food studies at both the undergraduate and graduate level      Hollywood Spectatorship Melvyn Stokes, Richard Maltby, 2019-07-25 This is an examination of the concepts of spectatorship in the light of historical accounts of audience reception The book looks at how audiences have historically talked about Hollywood movies and the ways in which word of mouth responses have affected the reception of individual movies      Material Girls Suzanna Danuta Walters, 1995-06 On feminist cultural theory
