Literary Theology by Women Writers of the Nineteenth Century Rebecca Styler, 2016-05-13

Examining popular fiction life writing poetry and political works Rebecca Styler explores women's contributions to theology in the nineteenth century. Female writers, Styler argues, acted as amateur theologians by use of a range of literary genres. Through these they questioned the Christian tradition relative to contemporary concerns about political ethics, gender identity and personal meaning. Among Styler's subjects are novels by Emma Worboise, writers of collective biography including Anna Jameson and Clara Balfour who study Bible women in order to address contemporary concerns about 'The Woman Question', poetry by Anne Brontë and political writing by Harriet Martineau and Josephine Butler. As Styler considers the ways in which each writer negotiates the gender constraints and opportunities that are available to her religious setting and literary genre, she shows the varying degrees of frustration which these writers express with the inadequacy of received religion to meet their personal and ethical needs. All find resources within that tradition and within their experience to reconfigure Christianity in creative and more earth-oriented ways.

A Second Chicago School? Gary Alan Fine, 1995-09
From 1945 to about 1960 the University of Chicago was home to a group of faculty and graduate students whose work has come to define what many call a second Chicago School of sociology. Like its predecessor earlier in the century, the postwar department was again the center for qualitative social research on everything from mapping the nuances of human behavior in small groups to seeking solutions to problems of race, crime and poverty. Howard Becker, Joseph Gusfield, Herbert Blumer, David Riesman, Erving Goffman and others created a large, enduring body of work. In this book leading sociologists critically confront this legacy. The eight original chapters survey the issues that defined the department's agenda: the focus on deviance, race and ethnic relations, urban life and collective behavior; the renewal of participant observation as a method; and the refinement of symbolic interaction as a guiding theory and the professional and institutional factors that shaped this generation, including the leadership of Louis Wirth and Everett C. Hughes; the role of women and the competition for national influence. Chicago sociology faced from survey research at Columbia and grand theory at Harvard. The contributors also discuss the internal conflicts that call into question the very idea of a unified school.

Female Beauty Systems Christine Adams, Tracy Adams, 2015-09-04
Female beauty systems everywhere are complex, integrating markers of class, status, power and sexuality to perform the fundamental function of sorting individuals into categories of more or less desirable. Heirs to the tradition of courtly love, modern western female beauty systems tend to share the norm of man as pursuer, woman as pursued, having developed around the trope of the madly desiring poet or knight supplicating his aloof and lovely lady for her favor. The apparent longevity of the courtly love tradition raises the question of whether the way in which it structures male desire in reaction to female beauty is part of a universal tendency, an evolutionary adaptation, despite clear evidence that female beauty systems are also, in fact, socially constructed and reflect enormous ambivalence about the power and performance of beauty. Although modern western female beauty systems are routinely demystified and contested today, the purveyors of culture that support them—institutional, intellectual, artistic, commercial and popular—continue as they always have to construe women as objects of male desire Still within this basic structure the systems have varied greatly across time and space with women using beauty as a form of social capital in widely differing ways Moreover as individuals have begun to experience their bodies as malleable and endlessly transformable rather than unruly and unyielding many have begun to experience beauty less as a given and more as a project The nine essays collected here examine a number of different Western female beauty systems over the centuries considering how women have complied with contributed to profited or suffered from and resisted them In Their Time Marlene LeGates, 2001 First Published in 2001 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

A Global Introduction to Baptist Churches Robert E. Johnson, 2010-09-13 Coinciding with the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of the Baptist movement this book explores and assesses the cultural sources of Baptist beliefs and practices Although the movement has been embraced enriched and revised by numerous cultural heritages the Baptist movement has focused on a small group of Anglo exiles in Amsterdam in constructing its history and identity Robert E Johnson seeks to recapture the varied cultural and theological sources of Baptist tradition and to give voice to the diverse global elements of the movement that have previously been excluded or marginalized With an international communion of over 110 million persons in more than 225 000 congregations Baptists constitute the world's largest aggregate of evangelical Protestants This work offers insight into the diversity breadth and complexity of the cultural influences that continue to shape Baptist identity today

Biographical Misrepresentations of British Women Writers Brenda Ayres, 2017-11-08 This book is an investigation of the biases contradictions errors ambiguities gaps and historical contexts in biographies of controversial British women who published during the long nineteenth century many of them left unchecked and perpetuated from publication to publication Fourteen scholars analyze the agenda problems and strengths of biographical material highlighting the flaws deficiencies and influences that have distorted the portraits of women such as Lady Mary Wortley Montagu Mary Wollstonecraft Mary Hays Sydney Owenson Letitia Elizabeth Landon Felicia Hemans Elizabeth Barrett Browning Caroline Norton Elizabeth Gaskell Charlotte Bront Lady Florence Dixie George Eliot and Edith Simcox Through exposing distortions this fascinating study demonstrates that biographies are often more about the biographer than they are about the biographee and that they are products of the time in which they are written Prolife Feminism Linda Naranjo-Huebl, Rachel MacNair, Rachel M.
