Ecofeminism Karen J. Warren, 1997-05-22 provides readers with a much needed cross cultural and multidisciplinary perspective on ecofeminist activism and scholarship. Feminism, Foucault, and Embodied Subjectivity Margaret A. McLaren, 2002-10-10 Addressing central questions in the debate about Foucault's usefulness for politics including his rejection of universal norms, his conception of power and power knowledge, his seemingly contradictory position on subjectivity, and his resistance to using identity as a political category. McLaren argues that Foucault employs a conception of embodied subjectivity that is well suited for feminism. She applies Foucault's notion of practices of the self to contemporary feminist practices such as consciousness raising and autobiography and concludes that the connection between self transformation and social transformation that Foucault theorizes as the connection between subjectivity and institutional and social norms is crucial for contemporary feminist theory and politics.

Feminism Beyond Left and Right Holly Lawford-Smith, 2025-07-14 An unquestioned assumption of contemporary politics is that the left owns minority groups in the sense that the left exclusively champions the interests of minorities and is for that reason owed the allegiance of minorities This in turn gives rise to the sense of dissonance created by right wing dissenters the black social conservative the gay ultra nationalist the female libertarian the poor pro capitalist This same dissonance exists for women and feminism creating a default assumption that a feminist is a left wing woman We don t make a distinction between left wing feminists and feminists we don t need to There s nothing a philosopher loves more than an unquestioned assumption and in this book political philosopher Holly Lawford Smith systematically dismantles the assumption that feminism is an exclusively left wing project Once dismantled the path is clear to a new set of questions Who counts as a feminist in the first place If women from anywhere on the political spectrum can be feminists who is it that feminists should or shouldn t be working with And what can be said more generally about the ethics of alliances and coalitions In Feminism Beyond Left and Right Lawford Smith

Dodson,2006-05-18 While existing literature provides compelling evidence that women in public office make a difference the relationship between descriptive and substantive representation of women in political institutions long the domain of men is neither simple nor certain Embracing New Institutionalists warnings of the dangers of studying behaviour in an institutional vacuum this book uses two strikingly different yet consecutive congresses the Democratically controlled 103rd Congress elected during the Year of the Woman and the Republican controlled 104th Congress elected during the Year of the Angry White Male as laboratories to explore the complexity of the relationship between women s presence and impact In depth interviews with hundreds of staff lobbyists and women members of Congress along with other quantitative and archival data are the foundation for case studies of three highly visible policy areas reproductive rights women s health and health care policy important to women but with strikingly different outcomes across the two Congresses The inquiry is quickly moved beyond the simple question Do women make a difference Dodson confronts the contested issues surrounding difference which often lurk beneath the surface the probabilistic rather than deterministic relationship between descriptive and substantive representation of women the contested legitimacy of women representing women and the disagreement about what it means to represent women The analysis moves the literature toward a better integrated understanding of how gendered forces at the individual institutional and societal levels combine to reinforce and redefine gendered relationships to power in the public sphere The results can be generalized over time and across settings are meaningful even in periods when the answer to the question of whether women make a difference seems to be more frequently no than yes and point to strategies that may bolster the impact of women's presence for substantive representation of women
