historical circumstances underlying the formation of the principal collections and the subsequent changes in the ways that this heritage has been regarded. Three of the essays centre upon the bibliophiles who donated their manuscripts to public libraries. Others consider specific manuscripts as indices of changing attitudes to European particularly British cultural heritage. National identity, pedagogy and curatorial practices are among the issues canvassed. Part Two consists of new scholarly studies of particular manuscripts which examine them in relation to the cultural and documentary context in which they were produced or transmitted. Manuscripts studied include a twelfth century copy of music treatises by Boethius and Guido of Arezzo probably from Christ Church Canterbury; a Perugian breviary owned by an Augustinian friar Antonio da Macerata; a book of hours adapted for Scottish use, the Rossdhu Hours; and a fragment of an early fifteenth century book of hours produced by a London workshop and added to the Hours of Margery Fitzherbert. Migrations is an imaginative and ambitious contribution to twenty first century manuscript studies. Most notably the editors have invited manuscript scholars to address the issues raised by the manuscripts' location. New Zealand itself and its colonial history become tools for thinking with about dispersal, about cultural memory, about access, about the meanings ascribed to artefacts. The editors have assembled a distinguished group of scholars in order to produce a collection of essays that is a coherent whole and at the same time individually driven by the intellectual curiosity that is the true sign of distinction. The book is a triumph. Professor Felicity Riddy, Deputy Vice Chancellor and Professor of English, University of York. This excellent book makes a major contribution to the study of medieval manuscript collections in New Zealand and will open up a little known area of extremely important material to an international audience. The quality of the scholarship throughout the book is very high and the essays on the individual manuscripts present the material in the context of recent new approaches in the study of medieval and Early Modern manuscripts. Nigel Morgan, Hon. Professor of Art History, University of Cambridge. Head of Research, Parker Library MSS Project, Corpus Christi College. The Collections of the National Gallery of Victoria, Ann Galbally, National Gallery of Victoria, 1987. Imagining the Past in France, Elizabeth Morrison, Anne D. Hedeman, J. Greek Manuscripts at Princeton, Sixth to Nineteenth Century, Sofia Kotzabassi, Nancy Patterson Ševčenko, Don C. Skemer, 2010. This is the first comprehensive scholarly publication of the rich holdings of Greek manuscripts and miniatures in Princeton, New Jersey, housed in the Firestone Library and the art museum of Princeton University, in the Scheide Library and in Princeton Theological Seminary. This important material represents both a broad range of time from the early Byzantine period through the mid nineteenth century and a broad range of content from Byzantine copies of classical texts to Gospel books, Lectionaries and patristic homilies, hymns and texts of the liturgy, medical books and Holy Land pilgrimage guides.
