Feminist Measures in Survey Research Catherine E. Harnois, 2012-01-18 How can multiracial feminism inform social science survey research What would it mean in practical terms to bring an intersectional approach to survey design and statistical analysis How might such an approach change our understanding of the social world Feminist Measures in Survey Research offers a new approach for bridging feminist theory and quantitative social science research Catherine E Harnois demonstrates how a multiracial feminist perspective can inform virtually every aspect of the research process from survey design and statistical modeling to the frameworks used to interpret the results Harnois argues for an interdisciplinary approach to social research rooted in multiracial feminist theorizing Such an approach she suggests enables a critical reexamination of the assumptions embedded in everyday research practices It also provides a new and important framework for critiquing and producing quality survey research Catherine E Harnois was honored with the 2012 Distinguished Article Award from the American Sociological Association This award recognizes scholars who have made a distinguished and significant contribution to the development of the integrative field of race gender and class through the publication of a journal article or book chapter on the cutting edge of sociological inquiry

Negotiating Sex Work Carisa R. Showden, Samantha Majic, 2014-04-01 Globally discussions about sex work focus on exploitation The media regularly provides us with stories about teen girls coerced to perform sexual acts for money frequently beaten and robbed by their pimps or traffickers While one would have to be hard pressed to deny that sex workers are victimized the popular media and our political leaders emphasize sex work as exclusively exploitative In Negotiating Sex Work Carisa R Showden and Samantha Majic present a series of essays that depict sex work as an issue far more complex than generally perceived Positions on sex work are primarily divided between those who consider that selling sexual acts is legitimate work and those who consider it a form of exploitation Organized into three parts Negotiating Sex Work rejects this either/or framework and offers instead diverse and compelling contributions that aim to reframe these viewpoints Part I addresses how knowledge about sex work and sex workers is generated The next section explores how nations and political actors who claim to protect individuals in sex work often further marginalize them Finally part III examines sex workers own political organizational efforts to combat laws and policies that deem them deviant sinful or total victims A timely and necessary intervention into sex work debates this volume challenges how policy makers and the broader public regard sex workers capacity to advocate for their own interests Contributors Cheryl Auger Sarah Beer Dawson College Montreal Michele Tracy Berger U of North Carolina Chapel Hill Thaddeus Gregory Blanchette Federal U of Rio de Janeiro Raven Bowen Gregg Bucken Knapp U of Gothenburg Sweden Ana Paula da Silva Federal U of Vi osa Valerie Feldman Gregor Gall U of Bradford Kathleen Guidroz Georgetown U Annie Hill U of Minnesota Johan Karlsson Schaffer U of Oslo Edith Kinney Mills College Yasmin Lalani Pia Levin Alexandra Lutnick Tamara O Doherty U of the Fraser Valley British Columbia Joyce Outshoorn U of Leiden Francine Tremblay Concordia U Montreal

McCreary, 2010-03-12 Donald R McCreary and Joan C Chrisler The Development of Gender Studies in Psychology Studies of sex differences are as old as the eld of psychology and they have been conducted in every sub eld of the discipline There are probably many reasons for the popularity of these studies but three reasons seem to be most prominent First social psychological studies of person perception show that sex is especially salient in social groups It is the rst thing people notice about others and it is one of the things we remember best Fiske Haslam Stangor Lynch Duan Glass 1992 For example people may not remember who uttered a witty remark but they are likely to remember whether the quip came from a woman or a man Second many people hold rm beliefs that aspects of physiology suit men and women for particular social roles Men s greater upper body strength makes them better candidates for manual labor and their greater height gives the impression that they would make good leaders i e people we look up to Women s reproductive capacity and the caretaking tasks e g breastfeeding baby minding that accompany it make them seem suitable for other roles that require gentleness and nurturance Third the logic that underlies hypothesis testing in the sciences is focused on difference Researchers design their studies with the hope that they can reject the null hypothesis that experimental groups do not differ
