education Catherine Marshall,1997 Intervening in Northern Ireland Marysia Zalewski,John Barry,2014-02-04 The articles in this special issue drawn from a workshop hosted by the Institute of Governance Queen s University Belfast explicitly engage with and challenge conventional academic analyses in order to confront the ways in which the conflict on Northern Ireland has traditionally been represented and understood Part of the reason for adopting this approach is because it is suggested that to a certain extent academic analyses have defined the parameters of the conflict which has necessarily had implications for the shape of ensuing solutions A further claim is that the persistent historical and political search for causes and solutions may be constitutive of the problems that conventional analysts seek to resolve The articles in the first part introduce and problematize traditional analyses of the conflict Additionally these essays explain alternative approaches offering other ways of thinking about how the problem of Northern Ireland has been constituted The second part comprises empirically focused essays each either engaging with or confronting the issue of the liberal hegemony that defines most analyses of the conflict The final essay returns to more explicitly re consider how the problem of Northern Ireland has been theorized represented and understood This book was previously published as a special issue of Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy

Religion, Feminism, and Idoloclasm Melissa Raphael, 2019-01-22 Religion Feminism and Idoloclasm identifies religious and secular feminism's common critical moment as that of idol breaking It reads the women's liberation movement as founded upon a philosophically and emotionally risky attempt to liberate women's consciousness from a three fold cognitive captivity to the self idolizing god called Man the God who is a projection of his power and the idol of the feminine called Woman that the god called God created for Man Examining a period of feminist theory theology and culture from about 1965 to 2010 this book shows that secular as well as Christian Jewish and post Christian feminists drew on ancient and modern tropes of redemption from slavery to idols or false ideas as a means of overcoming the alienation of women's being from their own becoming With an understanding of feminist theology as a pivotal contribution to the feminist criticism of culture this original book also examines idoloclasm in feminist visual art literature direct action and theory not least that of the sexual politics of romantic love the diet and beauty industry sex robots and other phenomena whose idolization of women reduces them to figures of the feminine same experienced as a de-realization or death of the self This book demonstrates that secular and religious feminist critical engagements with the modern trauma of dehumanization were far more closely related than is often supposed As such it will be vital reading for scholars in theology religious studies gender studies visual studies and philosophy
