Feral Future The Untold Story Of Australias Exotic Invaders:

Feral Future Tim Low,2002-12 A decade ago Tim Low journeyed to the remote northernmost tip of Australia Instead of the pristine rain forests he expected he found jungles infested with Latin American carpet grass and feral cattle That incident helped inspire Feral Future a passionate account of the history and implications of invasive species in that island nation with consequences for ecological communities around the globe Australia is far from alone in facing horrific ecological and economic damage from invading plants and animals and in Low s capable hands Australia s experiences serve as a wake up call for all of us He covers how invasive species like cane toads and pond apple got to Australia often through misguided but intentional introductions and what we can do to stop them He also covers the many pests that Australia has exported to the world including the paperbark tree Melaleuca that infests hundreds of thousands of acres in south Florida The Last

Battle Bruce Scates,Melanie Oppenheimer,2016-09-22 When Australian soldiers returned from the First World War they were offered the chance to settle on land fit for heroes Promotional material painted a picture of prosperous farms and contented families appealing to returned servicepeople and their families hoping for a fresh start Yet just 20 years after the inception of these soldier settlement schemes fewer than half of the settlers remained on their properties In this timely book based on recently uncovered archives Bruce Scates and Melanie Oppenheimer map out a deeply personal history of the soldiers struggle to transition from Anzac to farmer and provider At its foundation lie thousands of individual life stories shaped by imperfect repatriation policies The Last Battle examines the environmental challenges the difficulties presented by the physical and psychological damage many soldiers had sustained during the war and the vital roles of women and children

Handbook of Historical Animal Studies Mieke Roscher,André Krebber,Brett Mizelle,2021-06-08 The handbook provides a comprehensive evaluation of approaches topics and research areas of the rapidly developing field of Historical Animal Studies The so called animal turn specifically inspired new takes on writing history This upsurge in research has led to immense amounts of new empirical studies as well as approaches to historiography which this handbook aims to systemize

The Routledge Companion to the Environmental Humanities Ursula Heise,Jon Christensen,Michelle Niemann,2017-01-06 The Routledge Companion to the Environmental Humanities provides a comprehensive transnational and interdisciplinary map to the field offering a broad overview of its founding principles while providing insight into exciting new directions for future scholarship Articulating the significance of humanistic perspectives for our collective social engagement with ecological crises the volume explores the potential of the environmental humanities for organizing humanistic research opening up new forms of interdisciplinarity and shaping public debate and policies on environmental issues Sections cover The Anthropocene and the Domestication of Earth Posthumanism and Multispecies Communities Inequality and Environmental Justice Decline and Resilience Environmental Narratives History and Memory Environmental Arts Media and Technologies The State of the Environmental Humanities The first of its kind this companion covers essential issues and themes necessarily crossing disciplines within the humanities and with the social and natural sciences Exploring how the environmental humanities contribute to policy and action concerning some of the key intellectual social and environmental challenges of our times the chapters offer an ideal guide to this rapidly developing field Plant Microevolution and Conservation in Human-influenced Ecosystems David Briggs, 2009-11-26 As human activities are increasingly domesticating the Earth's ecosystems new selection pressures are acting to produce winners and losers amongst our wildlife With particular emphasis on plants Briggs examines the implications of human influences on micro evolutionary processes in different groups of organisms including wild weedy invasive feral and endangered species Using case studies from around the world he argues that Darwinian evolution is ongoing He considers how far it is possible to conserve endangered species and threatened ecosystems through management and questions the extent to which damaged landscapes and their plant and animal communities can be precisely recreated or restored Many of Darwin's ideas are highlighted including his insights into natural selection speciation the vulnerability of rare organisms the impact of invasive species and the effects of climate change on organisms An important text for students and researchers of evolution conservation climate change and sustainable use of resources Aboriginal Biocultural Knowledge in South-eastern Australia Fred Cahir, Ian Clark, Philip Clarke, 2018-05 Indigenous Australians have long understood sustainable hunting and harvesting seasonal changes in flora and fauna predator prey relationships and imbalances and seasonal fire management Yet the extent of their knowledge and expertise has been largely unknown and underappreciated by non Aboriginal colonists especially in the south east of Australia where Aboriginal culture was severely fractured Aboriginal Biocultural Knowledge in South eastern Australia is the first book to examine historical records from early colonists who interacted with south eastern Australian Aboriginal communities and documented their understanding of the environment natural resources such as water and plant and animal foods medicine and other aspects of their material world This book provides a compelling case for the importance of understanding Indigenous knowledge to inform discussions around climate change biodiversity resource management health and education It will be a valuable reference for natural resource management agencies academics in Indigenous studies and anyone interested in Aboriginal culture and knowledge Unnatural Landscapes Ceiridwen Terrill, 2007 In Unnatural Landscapes Ceiridwen Terrill combines lucid science writing with first person tales of adventure to provide an introduction to invasion ecology and restoration management A World of Rivers Ellen Wohl, 2010-11-15 Far from being the serene natural streams of yore modern rivers have been diverted dammed dumped in and dried up all in efforts to harness their power for human needs But these rivers have also undergone environmental change The old adage says you can't step in the same river twice and Ellen Wohl would agree natural and synthetic change are so rapid on the world's great waterways that rivers are transforming and disappearing right before our eyes A World of Rivers explores the confluence of human and environmental change on ten of the great rivers of the world Ranging from the Murray Darling in

Australia and the Yellow River in China to Central Europe's Danube and the United States Mississippi the book journeys down the most important rivers in all corners of the globe Wohl shows us how pollution such as in the Ganges and in the Ob of Siberia has affected biodiversity in the water But rivers are also resilient and Wohl stresses the importance of conservation and restoration to help reverse the effects of human carelessness and hubris What all these diverse rivers share is a critical role in shaping surrounding landscapes and biological communities and Wohl's book ultimately makes a strong case for the need to steward positive change in the world's great rivers

Knowing Animals Laurence Simmons, Philip Armstrong, 2007 Drawing on a range of perspectives philosophy literary criticism art history and cultural studies the essays collected here explore unconventional ways of knowing animals offering new insights into apparently familiar relationships between humans and other living beings

Central American Biodiversity Falk Huettmann, 2015-08-04 This book highlights key results and lessons learnt from two field sites La Suerte in Costa Rica and Ometepe Nicaragua It provides long term data on species abundance and distribution Primates receive specific attention in this book as they are flagship species and good indicators for the health of an ecosystem but as well a money maker Many primate species are sensitive to habitat alteration and are often hunted out first But they play an important role as seed dispersal agents for the regeneration of the forest The book then compares results from the two field sites with regional trends and explores potential solutions such as REDD This book strongly calls for new approaches in conservation it makes the case for looking beyond the pure species biology and classic conservation angle and to take into account the economic and political realities

In a Sunburned Country Bill Bryson, 2012-05-15 Deliciously funny fact filled and adventurous In a Sunburned Country takes us on a grand tour of Australia It's a place where interesting things happen all the time from a Prime Minister lost yes lost while swimming at sea to Japanese cult members who may entirely unnoticed have set off an atomic bomb on their 500 000 acre property in the great western desert Australia is the only island that is also a continent and the only continent that is also a country Its aboriginal people a remote and mysterious race with a tragic history have made it their home for millennia And despite the fact that it is the most desiccated infertile and climatically aggressive of all inhabited continents it teems with life In fact Australia has more things that can kill you in extremely nasty ways than anywhere else sharks crocodiles the planet's ten most deadly poisonous snakes fluffy yet toxic caterpillars sea shells that actually attack you and the unbelievable box jellyfish don't ask The dangerous riptides of the sea and the sun baked wastes of the outback both lie in wait for the unwary Australia is an immense and fortunate land and it has found in Bill Bryson its perfect guide In a Sunburned Country offers the best of all possible introductions to what may well be the best of all possible nations Even with those jellyfish

Facing the Wild Chilla Bulbeck, 2012-06-25 What do wild animals mean to humans Will they survive both rampant habitat loss and extinction caused by human encroachment and as ecotourists our enthusiasm for them With ecotourism now the fastest growing segment of tourism and encounters with wild animals be it swimming with dolphins going on safari or bird watching ever more popular these are critical questions Yet until now little has been known about why people crave encounters with wild animals and the meaning for the ecotourism industry conservation efforts and society at large Facing the Wild is the first serious empirical examination of why people seek out animals in their natural environment what the desire for this experience tells us about the meanings of animals nature authenticity and wilderness in contemporary industrialized societies and whether visitors change their environmental perspectives and behaviour as the custodians of wildlife parks would like them to The book explores the contradictions and ambivalence that so many people experience in the presence of wild nature in loving it we may diminish it and in the act of wanting to see it we may destroy it Ultimately the book makes a case for respectful stewardship of a hybrid nature and provides insight for both practitioners and ecotourists alike

The Beginner's Guide to Winning the Nobel Prize Peter Doherty, 2006-05-02 The Nobel Prize winning medical researcher recounts his unlikely career journey in a memoir that opens the vault to the world of science Nature Beginning with his humble origins in Australia Peter Doherty tells how he developed an interest in immunology and describes his award winning influential work with Rolf Zinkernagel on T cells and the nature of immune defense In prose that is both amusing and astute Doherty reveals how his nonconformist upbringing and search for different perspectives have shaped his life and work Doherty offers an insider's look at the life of a research scientist He lucidly explains his own scientific work and how research projects are selected funded and organized the major problems science is trying to solve and the rewards and pitfalls of a career in scientific research He also explores the stories of past Nobel winners and considers some of the crucial scientific debates of our time including the safety of genetically modified foods and the tensions between science and religion He concludes with some tips on how to win a Nobel Prize including advice on being persistent generous and culturally aware

River Dreams Ian Tyrrell, 2018-03-01 In the beginning there was the river before the beach before the drain before the dredging before the dams before numerous other actions that altered the stream River Dreams reveals the complex history of the Cooks River in south eastern Sydney a river renowned as Australia's most altered and polluted While nineteenth century developers called it improvement the sugar mill tanneries and factories that lined the banks of Sydney's Cooks River had drastic consequences for the health of the river Local Aboriginal people became fringe dwellers and over time the river became severely compromised with many ecosystems damaged or destroyed Later a large section was turned into a concrete canal and in the late 1940s the river was rerouted for the expansion of Sydney Airport While much of the river has been rehabilitated in recent decades by passionate local groups and through government initiatives it continues to be a source of controversy with rapid apartment development placing new stresses on the region River Dreams is a timely reminder of the need to tread cautiously in seeking to dominate or ignore our environment A beautiful book that reminds us that Australians are river people as much as we are bush or coast dwellers

IAN HOSKINS The Social Archaeology of Australian Indigenous Societies Bruno David, Bryce Barker, Ian J. McNiven, 2006 The Social Archaeology of Indigenous Societies presents original and provocative views on the complex and dynamic social lives of Indigenous Australians from an historical perspective Building on the foundational work of Harry Lourandos the book critically examines and challenges traditional approaches which have presented Indigenous Australian past as static and tethered to ecological rationalism The book reveals the ancient past of Aboriginal Australians to be one of long term changes in social relationships and traditions as well as the active management and manipulation of the environment The book encourages a deeper appreciation of the ways Aboriginal peoples have engaged with and constructed their worlds It solicits a deeper understanding of the contemporary political and social context of research and the insidious impacts of colonialist philosophies In short it concerns people both past and present The Social Archaeology of Indigenous Societies looks beyond the stereo

Biodiversity and the Precautionary Principle Rosie Cooney,Barney Dickson,2012 Great uncertainty typically surrounds decisions and management actions in the conservation of biodiversity and natural resource management and yet there are risks of serious and irreversible harm for both biodiversity and the humans that rely on it The precautionary principle arguably underlies all international conservation efforts and promotes acting to avoid serious or irreversible environmental harm despite lack of scientific certainty as to the likelihood magnitude or cause of harm This book is the first to examine the application of the precautionary principle to biodiversity conservation and natural resource management incorporating perspectives from scientists economists lawyers and practitioners from both developing and developed countries It analyses the application and impacts of the principle in many areas including forestry invasive alien species wildlife trade protected areas and fisheries in a range of national and international contexts Particular attention is drawn to issues of equity livelihoods science and politics and the book provides guidelines for applying the precautionary principle to biodiversity conservation and natural resource management

Advances in Reintroduction Biology of Australian and New Zealand Fauna Doug Armstrong,Matthew Hayward,Dorian Moro,Philip Seddon,2015-05-15 The publication of Reintroduction Biology of Australian and New Zealand Fauna nearly 20 years ago introduced the new science of reintroduction biology Since then there have been vast changes in our understanding of the process of reintroductions and other conservation driven translocations and corresponding changes in regulatory frameworks governing translocations Advances in Reintroduction Biology of Australian and New Zealand Fauna is a timely review of our understanding of translocation from an Australasian perspective ensuring translocation becomes an increasingly effective conservation management strategy in the future Written by experts including reintroduction practitioners researchers and policy makers the book includes extensive practical advice and example case studies identifies emerging themes and suggests future directions Topics include key questions in reintroduction biology population establishment prey naivety disease management dispersal the roles of trials and experiments modelling projections assisted colonisation population interchange genetic diversity disease management metapopulation dynamics reintroduced species as ecological engineers the contributions of sanctuary networks and zoos and extensive insights from reintroduction programs

This book is aimed at conservation practitioners and researchers as well as conservation management agencies and NGOs. Although it is based on Australasian examples it will be of interest globally due to synergies with reintroduction programs throughout the world.

Illness, Identity, and Taboo among Australian Paleo Dieters Catie Gressier, 2017-11-03. This book explores the cultural and economic conditions fuelling the popularity of the polarizing Paleo diet in Australia. Based on ethnographic research in Melbourne and Sydney, Catie Gressier recounts the compelling narratives of individuals struggling with illness and weight issues. She argues that going Paleo provides a sense of agency and means of resistance to the neoliberal policies and practices underpinning the growing prevalence of lifestyle diseases. From its nostalgic constructions of the past to the rise of anti-elite sentiments inherent in new forms of health populism, Gressier provides a nuanced understanding of the Paleo diet's contemporary appeal.

Reports from a Wild Country Deborah Bird Rose, 2004. Explores some of Australia's major ethical challenges. Written in the midst of rapid social and environmental change and in a time of uncertainty and division, it offers powerful stories and arguments for ethical choice and commitment. The focus is on reconciliation between Indigenous and Settler peoples and with nature.

Environmental Disasters, Natural Recovery and Human Responses Roger del Moral, Lawrence R. Walker, 2007-03-29. Natural disasters destroy more property and kill more people with each passing year. Volcanic eruptions, earthquakes, hurricanes, tsunamis, floods, landslides, fires, and other natural events are becoming more frequent and their consequences more devastating. Del Moral and Walker provide a comprehensive summary of the diverse ways in which natural disasters disrupt humanity and how humans cope. Burgeoning human numbers, shrinking resources, and intensification of the consequences of natural disasters have produced a crisis of unparalleled proportions. Through this detailed study, the authors provide a template for improving restoration to show how relatively simple approaches can enhance both human well-being and that of the other species on the planet. This book will appeal to ecologists, land managers, as well as anyone curious about the natural world and natural disasters.
