Education and Disability in Cross-Cultural Perspective Susan Jeanne Peters, 2013-11-26 A radical departure from previous chronicles of education for people with disabilities this book views special education from a broader perspective Its central thesis is that cultural values and expectations play a dominant role in understanding the structure and function of special education While theories of the social construction of disability have been written about in a growing body of research since the 1960s no attempt has been made to create a cross cultural framework This work offers such a framework Eight chapters written by educators in each country s educational system cover the following nations China Great Britain Hungary Japan Iran Pakistan United States and Zimbabwe Historical discussions in each chapter provide a context for current practice An index and illustrations are also included Disability, Human Rights and Education Felicity

Armstrong, Len Barton, 1999-10-16 This book recognizes the importance of an informed cross cultural understanding of the policies and practices of different societies within the field of disability human rights and education It represents an attempt to critically engage with issues arising from the historical and contemporary domination of portrayals of the western as advanced democratic and exemplary in contrast to the construction of the rest of the world as backward primitive and inferior in these fundamental areas How human rights are understood in different contexts is a key theme in this book Importantly some contributors raise questions about the value of a human rights model across all societies Other contributors see the struggle for human rights as at the heart of the struggle for an inclusive society The implications for education arising from this debate are identified and a series of questions are raised by each author for further reflection and discussion as well as providing a stimulus for developing future research Disability Human Rights and Education is recommended reading for students and researchers interested in Disability Studies inclusive education and social policy It is also directly relevant to professionals and policy makers in the field seeking a greater understanding of cross cultural perspectives

Segregation Hurts Pavan John Antony, 2013-02-11 Segregation Hurts is a book that explores the stories of six families who have children with disabilities. The families who reside in the south west of India shared their daily experiences living with a child with a disability. Irrespective of the diverse socio economic statuses and religious beliefs, families shared common challenges raising a child with a disability in the Indian society. These children faced exclusion and denial of admission to local public schools due to their disability and they were forced to seek admission to a special school in their neighbouring community. Public schools in India continue to deny admission to millions of children due to their disabilities and are an invisible minority in the society. This book provides a novel and unique perspective about the nuances and daily struggles of families who are silenced and shut out due to the shortcomings and oppressive nature of the education system. Further, an in-depth analysis and critique is made of the treatment and education of children with disabilities in India. Dr Antony is a strong advocate of inclusive schooling and this book will share his expertise within international contexts. I highly recommend Dr Antony's book. It gives a new insight into the life and lessons of Gandhi. Arun Gandhi, President, Gandhi Worldwide Education Institute, Rochester, NY, USA. Pavan Antony has written a compelling overview of the education of children with disabilities in India through six stories. There are commonalities in the families' experiences even though they come from different backgrounds. The candid conversations the researcher had with the families brings their hopes, fears, and dreams to life. The move to inclusive practices in a developing country is difficult and Pavan Antony captures the macro and micro challenges through this powerful narrative. Dr Vianne Timmons, President and Vice Chancellor, University of Regina, Canada. Pavan Antony has given us deeper insight into the lives of families that include people with disabilities in India. Through the stories of six individuals, their parents and siblings, the variables of class, religious tradition, cultural identity, and human resilience are explored. Pavan's book provides an enriching cultural lens with which to explore disability, humanity, and the dignity of each person. Barbara Trader, Executive Director of TASH, Washington. Encyclopedia of Disability Gary L Albrecht, 2006. Presents current knowledge of and experience with disability across a wide variety of places, conditions, and cultures to both the general reader and the specialist. DISABILITY AND DEVELOPMENT Misa Kayama, Wendy Haight, 2014. This book examines how the concept of disability is starting to take root in the Japanese school system and what the implications are for parents, teachers, policy makers, and other stakeholders. The Sociology of Disability and Inclusive Education Madeleine Arnot, 2013-09-13. Len Barton's intellectual and practical contribution to the sociology of disability and education is highly significant and widely known. The leading scholars in this collection, including his long-term collaborators, offer both a celebration and a reassessment of this contribution, addressing the challenge that the social model of disability has presented to dominant medicalised concepts, categories, and practices, and their power to define the identity and the lives of others. At the same time, the authors build upon some of the key themes that are woven through Len Barton's work, such as his call for a politics of hope This collection explores a wide range of topics including difference as a field of political struggle the relationship of disability studies disabled people and their struggle for inclusion radical activism organic intellectuals and the disability movement discrimination exclusion and effective change inclusive education the politics of hope resilience and transformative actions universal pedagogy human rights and citizenship debates The Sociology of Disability and Inclusive Education highlights Len Barton s humane vision of academic work of the nature of an inclusive and non discriminatory society of the role of an education system which addresses the rights and potential of all participants It indicates how such a society could be achieved through the principles of social inclusion human rights equity and social justice This book was originally published as a special issue of the British Journal of Sociology of Education

Annual Review of Comparative and International Education 2013 Alexander W. Wiseman, 2013-09-06 This inaugural volume is a forum for stakeholders and scholars to examine current trends and identify future directions in comparative and international education using several essays as a context for discussion and analysis
