Congress, How Europeans View and Evaluate Democracy Monica Ferrin, Hanspeter Kriesi, 2016 Based on a new data set covering 29 European and neighboring countries this volume shows how Europeans view and evaluate democracy what are their conceptions of democracy how do they assess the quality of democracy in their own country and to what extent do they consider their country's democracy as legitimate The study shows that Europeans share a common view of liberal democracy which is complemented by elements of social and direct democracy which go beyond the basic liberal model The level of their demands in terms of democracy varies however considerably across Europe and is related to their assessment of democracy the worse the quality of democracy in a given country the higher the respective demands on democracy The analysis of the determinants of democratic views and evaluations shows that they depend on the political and economic but less on the cultural context conditions Comparative Politics is a series for students teachers and researchers of political science that deals with contemporary government and politics Global in scope books in the series are characterised by a stress on comparative analysis and strong methodological rigour The series is published in association with the European Consortium for Political Research For more information visit www.ecpr.net The Comparative Politics series is edited by Emile van Haute Professor of Political Science Universite libre de Bruxelles Ferdinand Muller Rommel Director of the Center for the Study of Democracy Leuphana University and Susan Scarrow Chair of the Department of Political Science University of Houston Elements of Democracy Olusegun Obsanjo, Akin L. Jamadar, 2008 The countries of the Commonwealth Caribbean are all self governing determining their own futures But some 40 years after gaining independence from Britain the question remains whether these countries are truly democratic and whether the parliamentary and electoral systems adopted are well suited to the Caribbean experience Meighoo and Jamadar answer these questions in the negative A true democracy they argue is one where the Legislature has the authority and the strength to make the Executive effectively accountable and responsible to it and where the electoral system results in the true practical separation of the Legislature and the Executive Using Trinidad and Tobago as the model Democracy and Constitution Reform in Trinidad and Tobago offers an overview of the constitutional reform process in the Commonwealth

Caribbean In these young postcolonial democracies where party politics have had a negative impact on the process of democratic reform the authors review the historical political and cultural motivations that have spawned the most recent debates on constitutional reform and more particularly on the proposals for parliamentary and electoral reform The book concludes with a review of past proposals and recommendations and puts forward the authors own suggestions for reform At a time when most of the Commonwealth Caribbean is undergoing a process of constitutional debate and change this book makes a valuable contribution to the discussion and provides a basis for the informed citizen student or pundit to judge the process of reform
