OUR VIEW

Welcome, September

It happens outside, in the stillness of early morning, or as the light shifts in late afternoon and lingers in the tops of trees, that we suddenly see summer suspended. But in that moment, we also sense summer passing.

It's September on the East End. On fair days this month, that stillness complies with the clarity of light to let us see ourselves in the scene as mute witnesses — if we're lucky — with no urge or responsibility to act on anything, calm enough to see things as they are, not lost in noise.

These intimations of autumn coming, or already here, bring the season's most treasured gift — reflection — and an understanding that some things don't change.

Even deep within a catastrophe of illness, pain and grief not seen in 100 years, and economic circumstances that are uncertain for the fortunate and perilous for those less so, with gutter politics threatening democracy along with a sometimes deafening and inescapable media obscuring more than it reveals, with service members coming home in coffins, and an anniversary of one of the darkest days in American history — yes, even all of that — can be eased by the constancy and wonder of a silent afternoon with patches of light in treetops.

SOUTHOLD

The Enclaves hotel is a very bad idea

When I first read about the Enclaves proposed hotel and restaurant I thought that Southold had decided to stick a knife in its heart! I downloaded the Draft Environmental Impact Statement and my wife and I went over the numerous pages of the statement. The statement was quite detailed and sugar coated, extolling the virtues of having a hotel in our village. But in the details were a view of a ticking time bomb.

Not only a hotel and restaurant, but the restaurant will also serve as a catering hall for weddings and other special events. We can imagine the traffic issues and band noise this will create. The report details all the reasons why folks love to come to our village and the basic message is:

Southold, you are beautiful and we love you, now please change!

If this married couple's words are right, it will be think they're going to preserve the character of the town via the owner's ridiculous proposal of covering the whole thing up with a hedgehog, we're all in trouble. Once they set a precedent with the approval of this project, there's little doubt that we'll see a parade of other hotel proposals here as the bankers back in New York realize that Southold is "easy pickings" for them.

ECONOMY

Not for our area

Just what Southold needs, another restaurant, hotel and people to come and go, aka traffic ("Town nears decision on hotel plan," Sept. 2).

What is happening to the place we all moved to or stayed in so we could be in an environment that is a quiet country/farm atmosphere?

Let's add the numbers: a 44-room hotel — that's 88 people and 44 cars. 220 servers, catering hall emitting

Editorial Opinion In The British Common:

Britain Faces Europe Robert L. Pfaltzgraff, Jr., 2016-11-11 Transformations of thought among British foreign policy makers since World War II have motivated this new study For the first time in its history during the postwar decade Britain began to abandon its world power outlook and to turn toward a European consensus substituting regional interests for its global perspective The author asks How does a people so attuned to worldwide interests and commitments reconcile itself to such drastically altered circumstances as those that followed World War II How does a people that has historically viewed with hostility the unification of continental Europe develop as a top foreign priority participation in the European integration movement The book focuses on the response of the British Government to changing international and domestic forces including elite groups at home Britain Faces Europe is the first book to examine both the development of British policy and the evolution of attitudes in the British private sector toward European integration between 1957 and 1967 Drawing on public documents and interviews the author traces the movement of British policy toward a more European outlook Investigating publications of interest groups such as the National Farmers Union the Trades Union Congress the Confederation of British Industry and such Europe oriented groups as Federal Union and the United Kingdom Council for Europe the author traces the development of support for Common Market membership in the private sector Developing attitudes in representative British newspapers and journals and those of parliamentary parties are described Publications and statements of anti European organizations and public opinion polls are also examined Important elements of the study for all students and observers of world affairs are its examination of British expectations from European integration and its assessment of the British Common Market case from propositions about integration drawn from theoretically oriented literature The book is an innovation in approach in that other studies have focused almost exclusively on descriptions of official policy without major reference to either the private sector or theories of integration at the international level

Popular Newspapers, the Labour Party and British Politics James Thomas, 2007-05-07 IT'S THE SUN WOT WON IT was the famous headline claim of Britain's most popular newspaper following the Conservative party's victory over Labour in the 1992 general election The headline referred to a virulent press campaign against Neil Kinnock's Labour party and dramatically highlighted one of the chief features of British politics during the twentieth century the conflict between a socialist Labour party and a capitalist popular press Labour's frequent complaints of the political and electoral unfairness of newspaper bias meant that some commentators considered that this dispute had a heritage as old as the party itself Others including the Labour leadership at the time argued that despite past tensions the 1992 election marked the culmination of an unprecedented campaign of vilification against the party Popular Newspapers the Labour Party and British Politics assesses these competing claims looking not only at 1992 but both back and forward to examine the continuities and changes in newspaper coverage of British politics and the Labour party over the twentieth century The book explores whether the popular press has lived up to its claim of being a democratic fourth estate or has merely as Labour politicians have argued been a powerful fifth column distorting the democratic process Drawing on a range of previously unexamined sources this book offers the first original and comprehensive history of a fascinating aspect of British politics from Beaverbrook to Blair James Thomas is a lecturer at the Cardiff School of Journalism Media and Cultural Studies at Cardiff University and has published articles and essays exploring the relationship between the popular press and British politics

Survey of British Commonwealth Affairs Nicholas Mansergh,2013-08-21 First Published in 1968 This book falls into three parts The first gives some account of the impact of war upon the Commonwealth and upon its individual member nations the second records the post war changes in its composition while the third examines some of the domestic and external problems that confronted the Commonwealth in the bleak mid years of the century Each of these topics if treated exhaustively would require a volume and what is attempted in this book is no more than the analysis of certain themes which seem to bear most closely on the idea of the Commonwealth and its place in the history of our times
