Educational Innovation in Economics and Business III Richard G. Milter, John E. Stinson, Wim H.

Gijsselaers, 2013-03-09 Almost thirty years ago a friend involved in the education profession told me that in his estimation much more was caught by students outside of classrooms than was taught within those hallowed walls This statement has stuck with me through years of personal schooling working as a high school teacher working in management serving as a management consultant and trainer and facilitating learning on university campuses across the US eastern Europe and Asia Learning by doing is certainly something most people have experienced But the fact that there is more opportunity to learn more things today as never before with knowledge doubling every 20 months makes learning by doing more complicated As organizations move to respond to the rapid changes in their environments people within those organizations must face the uncertainty and ambiguity that comes with such conditions The one thing most futurists agree on is that the future will be very different than the present Exponential change has become commonplace Companies used to worry about redefining their goals and specific describing their place in an industry Today in order to survive they must be constantly addressing the issues inherent in redefining their industries

Educational Innovation in Economics and Business Administration: Wim H. Gijssels, Dirk T. Tempelaar, Piet K. Keizer, Jos M. Blommaert, Eugene M. Bernard, Hans Kasper, 2013-03-09 During the last few years economics and business education have emerged as one of the largest fields of study in higher education At the same time the pressing concern for improving the quality of higher education has led to a definite need for more knowledge about effective instruction and innovation in economics and business education The book brings together many examples of reform in economics and business education Special attention is paid to the problem based learning approach which over the past ten years has developed as a very important innovation in higher education The book contains contributions from a variety of institutions on the necessity of curriculum reform the choice of instructional methods assessment and testing and management of change It is of interest for teachers in higher education educational psychologists and any person interested in educational innovation in economics and business administration

Educational Innovation in Economics and Business IX Richard G. Milder, Valerie S. Perotti, Mien S.R. Segers, 2005-07-20 This collection of articles describing different aspects of the developments taking place in today's workplace and how they affect business education provides truly global coverage of innovation in the field Educational Innovation in Economics and Business III. Richard G. Milder, John E. Stinson, W. Gijssels, 1998

Educational Innovation in Economics and Business III Richard G. Milder, John E. Stinson, Wim H. Gijssels, 2014-01-15 Educational Innovation in Economics and Business II Dirk T. Tempelaar, Finn Wiedersheim-Paul, Elving Gunnarsson, 2012-12-06 This volume consists of the revised versions of a selection of papers of the second EDINEB conference held in Uppsala from 17-19 August 1995 As with the first edition the conference and these proceedings are rooted in the participants' involvement with Educational Innovation in Economics and Business The thematic focus is quality audit quality assessment and quality improvement all of them collected in the theme In Search of Quality For the first EDINEB conference which took place in Maastricht December 1993 Problem Based Learning was chosen as leading theme The introduction of problem based learning in the curriculum of any faculty is to be regarded as a major innovation in the educational system In contrast the dedication to the search of quality in education resulted in a large variety of case studies and theoretical contributions on educational innovations aiming at increasing the quality of teaching and learning This contrast between the one major step and the many small steps has been the decisive factor for the editors to compose these proceedings as a kind of allegory of Robert M. Pirsig's famous novel Zen and the art of Motorcycle Maintenance an Inquiry into Values ZAMM Of course on top of the very obvious reason that the conference had been saddled with a theme that is identical to the title that many critics probably those who aren't so fond of motorcycling used to rename ZAMM

Educational Innovation in Economics and Business Roger Ottewill, 2003-12-31 Like previous volumes in the Educational Innovation in Economics and Business series this one is genuinely international in terms of its coverage It reflects the worldwide interest in and commitment to innovation in business education with a view to enhancing the learning experience of both undergraduates and postgraduates It should prove of value to anyone engaged directly in business education Educational Innovation in Economics and Business V L. Borghans, 2000 The Information and Communication Technology revolution results in profound changes to the heart of business and economics Changes in the workplace new communication technology new organizational structures and new production technologies force business educators to renew their focus on the curricula of business schools There is no doubt these changes influence business education and instructional technology But change will go far beyond the mere introduction of technology in the classroom Alliances between the corporate world and business education are no longer fictitious but are necessary to establish stronger bonds between educational systems and the workplace The fifth volume in the series Educational Innovation in Economics and Business contains a unique selection of articles addressing various issues on how business education should adapt to changing needs of the corporate world It is meant for educators in corporate training centers and for teachers in further and higher education Educational Innovation in Economics and Business V Lex Borghans, Wim H. Gijssels, Richard G. Milder, John E. Stinson, 2005-12-17 The workplace is changing drastically these days As a consequence of the Information and Communication Technology ICT revolution new economic activities emerge the production process changes people use different communication tools and organizational structures are adjusted All these changes relate to the heart of business and economics and there is no doubt that they will also influence education in these areas Of course ICT provides new technologies to facilitate learning but a changing workplace also requires a renewed focus within the curriculum of economics and business education If ICT is leading to profound change in the workplace is innovation then only a matter of introducing more technology in education Unfortunately this is not necessarily true The translation of changes in the workplace into an improved curriculum requires serious analysis of the essence of the changes at the work place and the way technology may enable student learning For example relevant knowledge is changing faster and faster Does this mean that we have to adopt the curriculum faster and faster Perhaps not as students will have a labor market career of 30 or 40 years Focusing on today's knowledge even if it is very up to date loses more and more value if the life cycle of knowledge becomes shorter Increased speed of change also implies a decrease in the value of knowing all these things Educational Innovation in Economics and Business VI Tor A. Johannessen, Ansgar Pedersen, Kurt Petersen, 2013-04-17 Business education and business research has often been criticized by the business community which claims that much of it is mainly directed at the establishment of teachers and researchers themselves instead of distributing their knowledge to the business community It may seem that many universities and other research institutions have turned into mere knowledge manufacturers where the emphasis is more on the output volume than on quality of relevance with little or no consideration for the end users As universities and corporations attempt to prepare management to be alert to future changes improved and even brand new teaching methodologies are required The main focus of the present volume is on the distribution and selection of new knowledge How can business educators deliver new knowledge to students and the business community more rapidly than before How should we define the core business curriculum when new knowledge becomes old knowledge The SAGE Handbook of Management Learning, Education and Development Steven J Armstrong, Cynthia V Fukami, 2009-05-07 The scholarship of management teaching and learning has established itself as a field in its own right and this benchmark handbook is the first to provide an account of the discipline Original chapters from leading international academics identify the key issues and map out where the discipline is going Each chapter provides a comprehensive and critical overview of the given topic area highlights current debates and reviews the emerging research agenda Chapters embrace the study of organizations as a whole the concepts of individual and collective learning the delivery of formal management education and the facilitation of management development Through consideration of these themes the Handbook analyzes promotes and critiques the contribution of management learning education and development to management understanding It will be an invaluable point of reference for all students and researchers interested in broadening their understanding of this exciting and dynamic new field Effective Learning and Teaching in Business and Management Bruce Macfarlane, Roger Ottewill, 2013-10-11 Written to meet the needs of teachers lecturers and tutors working at different levels and in many situations this is the guide to surveying and understanding the key issues best practices and new developments in business and management studies Teaching in this field is a multi faceted experience The authors use an international perspective and support a wide range of situations by concentrating on five key areas the teaching and supporting of learning the design and planning of learning activities assessment and giving feedback to students developing effective learning environments and student learning support systems reflective practice and professional development Practical and clear this book will prove an invaluable guide for all those with an interest in developing business and management education and is essential reading for all those looking for professional accreditation for recognition of their teaching It is also indispensable for the less experienced teacher seeking material for reflection and advice Informal Sector Innovations Mammo Muchie, Saradindu Bhaduri, Angathevar Baskaran, Fayaz Sheikh, 2017-10-02 It is well documented that the space of informal economic activity is rising across the globe This rise has been particularly significant in the least developed and developing countries especially after the onset of neo liberal policies and withdrawal of welfare state There has also been a shift in academic thinking on informal sector with attempts being made to understand the contribution of informal sector in generating employment and economic growth rather than focusing solely on exploitative labour conditions in these economic activities Indeed with the retreat of welfare state and the introduction of contract labour in the formal sector many issues related to occupational hazards and improper labour conditions do not remain unique to the informal sectors of the economy particularly in less developed countries This volume addresses a specific concern the issue of knowledge generation and innovative activities which lies at the core of sustained competitive advantage of these activities The chapters in this book were originally published in the African Journal of Science Technology Innovation and Development Index of Conference Proceedings British Library. Document Supply Centre,2000 Cutting-edge Social Media Approaches to Business Education Charles Wankel,2010-09-01 Our current students are digital natives born into a world of widespread online sharing Aligning the technologies we use in our courses with their skills and approaches to collaborative learning is an opportunity we should take The new media share text images audio and video material rapidly and interactively This volume will provide an overview of these new social media including Skype YouTube Flickr blogging LinkedIn Facebook and Twitter Examples and cases of how instructors around the world are meaningfully incorporating them into their management marketing and other business courses are provided One of the more robust trends is the use of three dimensional immersive virtual world interfaces for teaching and learning The leading one is Second Life Examples of the use of Second Life in business courses will be discussed The use of wikis to foster collaborative development of course related material by learners will be presented with case examples Faculty members are co creators of course content with their learners Among the topics covered is how faculty members can be supported in their deployment of social media projects and course structures How social media can enable the structuring of course activities involving students prospective students alumni employers businesspersons and others in rich sharing and support with each other will be discussed Indeed seeing courses as networking venues beyond learning forums will be parsed Educational Innovation in Economics and Business Richard G.
