Economic And Social Effects Of Multinational Enterprises In Export Processing Zones:

Economic and Social Effects of Multinational Enterprises in Export Processing Zones Centre on Transnational Corporations (United Nations),1988 One of the most remarkable structural changes which took place in the world economy in the 1970s and the first half of the 1980s is undoubtedly the growth of export processing zones EPZs in the developing countries and areas employment in these zones grew from around 50 000 in 1970 to over 1 3 million by 1986 Judging from the current plans for new EPZs in over a dozen countries and the expansion plans for existing zones it would seem that employment in EPZs could continue to grow rapidly in the next few years The phenomenon of EPZs and the role of multinational enterprises in them have been the subject of heated debate This monograph sheds light on the multinationals contribution to employment generation export earnings technology transfer and the development of linkages with the local economy These are measured against the initial cost of the incentive package for establishing and maintaining the zones Questions related to working conditions and labour relations are also highlighted The book confronts a number of widely held assumptions with the available facts and figures and points to the possible evolution of EPZs in the economies of newly industrializing countries It envisages the emergence of the export processing country and a more open and competitive approach to industrial development

International Organisation Barbara Emadi-Coffin,2003-08-27 The function of the state as a symbol of identity has become increasingly important as major powers of the pre Cold War era have given way to self determination The conventional role of the state has however simultaneously been challenged by the process of globalisation which transcends such national boundaries Barbara Emadi Coffin seeks to explain this contradiction through a radical new theory There are now 37 000 multinational corporations in the world many of which are increasingly seen as being among the new centres of political and economic power Barbara Emadi Coffin analyses the increasing interaction of multinational corporations international organizations and transnational interest groups such as Greenpeace and Amnesty International in processes of the global political economy Using examples of the free trade zones in Korea the UK and the People s Republic of China the author demonstrates these interactions In so doing she challenges prevailing notions surrounding International Organization theory

The City on the Hill? Arno Tausch,2007 The Silicon Empire Michael B. Likosky,2018-01-18 Michael Likosky examines the continuities and discontinuities between colonial and present day high tech transnational legal orders His concern is specifically with the colonial characteristics of the legal order which underpins the global high tech economy He distinguishes the democratic and human rights rhetoric of this economy from a reality wherein the legal order is often used to reproduce colonial type relationships Just as in the colonial period the expansion of trans border commerce overlaps with democratic demands and human rights in complex multifaceted and paradoxical ways Through a case study looking at Malaysia's Multimedia Super Corridor a high tech national development plan and foreign direct investment scheme he examines how the transnational leaders of the high tech economy along with the Malaysian political elite react when human rights problems threaten to derail commercial plans

Special Economic Zones Thomas Farole, Gokhan Akinci, 2011-08-01

For countries as diverse as China and Mauritius Special Economic Zones SEZs have been a powerful tool to attract foreign investment promote export oriented growth and generate employment for many others the results have been less than encouraging While the benefits and limitations of zones will no doubt continue to be debated what is clear is that policymakers are increasingly attracted to them as an instrument of trade investment industrial and spatial policy Since the mid 1980s the number of newly established zones has grown rapidly in almost all regions with dramatic growth in developing countries In parallel with this growth and in the evolving context of global trade and investment zones are also undergoing significant change in both their form and function with traditional export processing zones EPZs increasingly giving way to larger and more flexible SEZ models This new context will bring significant opportunities for developing countries to take advantage of SEZs but will also raise new challenges to their successful design and implementation This volume aims to contribute to a better understanding of the role and practice of SEZs in developing countries in order to better equip policymakers in making effective decisions in planning and implementing SEZ programs It covers some of the emerging issues and challenges in SEZs including upgrading regional integration WTO compliance innovation the environment and gender issues with practical case examples from SEZ programs in developing countries
