

Goodbye My Father

Today we place you to final rest know that with your presence we've been blessed.
six feet down in your grave
we shed a tear, goodbye we wave.
the time has come to let you go
the sound rings out of the graveyard crow.
the clouds may part, the sun may shine
the priest speaks out, its now the time.
family cuddle and hug as we walk away

i'll never forget such a painful day.
up in the sky, but not sure when I know you'll be my dad again.

Blues Legacies and Black Feminism Angela Y. Davis, 2011-10-05 From one of this country's most important intellectuals comes a brilliant analysis of the blues tradition that examines the careers of three crucial black women blues singers through a feminist lens Angela Davis provides the historical social and political contexts with which to reinterpret the performances and lyrics of Gertrude Ma Rainey Bessie Smith and Billie Holiday as powerful articulations of an alternative consciousness profoundly at odds with mainstream American culture The works of Rainey Smith and Holiday have been largely misunderstood by critics Overlooked Davis shows has been the way their candor and bravado laid the groundwork for an aesthetic that allowed for the celebration of social moral and sexual values outside the constraints imposed by middle class respectability Through meticulous transcriptions of all the extant lyrics of Rainey and Smith published here in their entirety for the first time Davis demonstrates how the roots of the blues extend beyond a musical tradition to serve as a consciousness raising vehicle for American social memory A stunning indispensable contribution to American history as boldly insightful as the women Davis praises Blues Legacies and Black Feminism is a triumph
