The Animation Studies Reader Nichola Dobson, Annabelle Honess Roe, Amy Ratelle, Caroline Ruddell, 2018-10-18 The Animation Studies Reader brings together both key writings within animation studies and new material in emerging areas of the field The collection provides readers with seminal texts that ground animation studies within the contexts of theory and aesthetics form and genre and issues of representation The first section collates key readings on animation theory on how we might conceptualise animation and on some of the fundamental qualities of animation New material is also introduced in this section specifically addressing questions raised by the nature style and materiality of animation The second section outlines some of the main forms that animation takes which includes discussions of genre Although this section cannot be exhaustive the material chosen is particularly useful as it provides samples of analysis that can illuminate some of the issues the first section of the book raises The third section focuses on issues of representation and how the medium of animation might have an impact on how bodies gender sexuality race and ethnicity are represented These representations can only be read through an understanding of the questions that the first two sections of the book raise we can only decode these representations if we take into account form and genre and theoretical conceptualisations such as visual pleasure spectacle the uncanny realism etc The Undercut Reader Nina Danino, Michael Mazière, 2003 A collection of writings and visual works from the UK magazine Undercut together with newly commissioned articles by leading critics in the field Film Theory: The Basics Kevin McDonald, 2022-05-11 Fully updated and expanded throughout this second edition of Film Theory The Basics provides an accessible introduction to the key theorists concepts and debates that have shaped the study of moving images The book examines film theory from its emergence in the early twentieth century to its study in the present day and explores why film has drawn special attention as a medium as a form of representation and as a focal point in the rise of modern visual culture It also emphasizes how film theory has developed as a historically contingent discourse one that has evolved and changed in conjunction with different social political and intellectual factors This second edition offers a detailed account of new theoretical directions at the forefront of film studies in the twenty first century and draws additional attention to how theory engages with today s most pressing questions about digital technologies the environment and racial justice Complete with questions for discussion and a glossary of both key terms and key theorists this book is an invaluable resource for those new to film theory and for anyone else interested in the history and significance of critical thinking in relation to the moving image The Silent Cinema Reader Lee Grieveson, Peter Krämer, 2004 The Silent Cinema Reader brings together key writings on cinema from the beginnings of film in 1894 to the advent of sound in 1927 addressing the development of film production and exhibition technologies methods of distribution film form and film culture during this critical period on film history Thematic sections address film projection and variety shows storytelling and the Nickelodeon cinema and reform feature films and cinema programs classical Hollywood cinema and European national cinemas Each section is introduced by the editors and contains suggestions for further readings and film viewings Russian and Soviet Film Adaptations of Literature, 1900-2001 Stephen Hutchings, Anat Vernitskaia, 2004-12-17 Providing many interesting case studies and bringing together many leading authorities on the subject this book examines the importance of film adaptations of literature in Russian cinema especially during the Soviet period when the cinema was accorded a vital role in imposing the authority of the communist regime on the consciousness of the Soviet people Hollywood Flatlands Esther Leslie, 2020-05-05 With ruminations on drawing colour and caricature on the political meaning of fairy tales talking animals and human beings as machines Hollywood Flatlands brings to light the links between animation avant garde art and modernist criticism Focusing on the work of aesthetic and political revolutionaries of the inter war period Esther Leslie reveals how the animation of commodities can be studied as a journey into modernity in cinema She looks afresh at the links between the Soviet Constructivists and the Bauhaus for instance and those between Walter Benjamin and cinematic abstraction She also provides new interpretations of the writings of Siegfried Kracauer on animation shows how Theodor Adorno s and Max Horkheimer s film viewing affected their intellectual development and reconsiders Sergei Eisenstein's famous handshake with Mickey Mouse at Disney's Hyperion Studios in 1930 The 20th Century A-GI Frank N. Magill, 2013-05-13 Each volume of the Dictionary of World Biography contains 250 entries on the lives of the individuals who shaped their times and left their mark on world history. This is not a who's who. Instead, each entry provides an in-depth essay on the life and career of the individual concerned. Essays commence with a quick reference section that provides basic facts on the individual's life and achievements. The extended biography places the life and works of the individual within an historical context and the summary at the end of each essay provides a synopsis of the individual's place in history. All entries conclude with a fully annotated bibliography Film - An

The Alexander Medvedkin Reader Alexander Medvedkin, 2016-10-19 This is an enormously important and long-awaited project in film studies: it is a collection of selected writings by the filmmaker Alexander Medvedkin rendered into English. There is no equivalent volume in Russian or in any other language, so this is an original work. Alexander Medvedkin (1900-89) belongs in the canon of major Soviet filmmakers. He invented a form of total documentary cinema for workers in the early Soviet era that was aimed at bridging the distance between film and life, whereby the target audience of a film would be involved in its making and then their viewing and discussion of it would become the basis for action to change their work situation and relations. He was also a major satirist at a time when the Soviet authorities feared the ambiguities of satire and tried to confine laughter to narrowly prescribed channels. Medvedkin's work remains a crucial link in the history of documentary cinema, especially in its more engaged or agitational forms. He was a true believing card-carrying Communist, but he was also a victim of the Soviet regime. Soviet institutions prevented him from fully achieving what he hoped to accomplish as an artist because he behaved as an individualist who sought to produce artistic projects in defiance of obstacles from the authorities.

European Film Theory and Cinema Ian Aitken, 2001 European Film Theory and Cinema explores the major film theories and movements within European cinema since the early 1900s. An original and critically astute study, it considers film theory within the context of the intellectual climate of the last two centuries. Ian Aitken focuses particularly on the two major traditions that dominate European film theory and cinema: the intuitionist/modernist and realist tradition and the post-Saussurian tradition. The first originates in a philosophical lineage that encompasses German idealist philosophy, romanticism, phenomenology and the Frankfurt School. Early intuitionist/modernist film culture and later theories and practices of cinematic realism are shown to be part of one continuous tradition. The post-Saussurian tradition includes semiotics, structuralism and post-structuralism The Broadview Reader in Book History Michelle Levy, Tom Mole, 2014-10-23

Book History has emerged as one of the most exciting new interdisciplinary fields of study in the humanities. By focusing on the production circulation and reception of the book in all its forms it has transformed the study of history literature and culture The Broadview Book History Reader is the most complete and up to date introduction available to this area of study The reader reprints 33 key essays in the field grouped conceptually and provided with headnotes explanatory footnotes an introduction a chronology and a glossary of terms Ivan the Terrible Yuri Tsivian, 2019-07-25 Ivan The Terrible 1944 46 was envisaged by its director Sergei Eisenstein as a trilogy But Eisenstein died before beginning the third part Part One had been a resounding success winning a Stalin prize but Part Two met with the Kremlin's disfavour and was eventually banned until 1958 Using research gathered from Soviet archives Yuri Tsivian offers an insight into Eisenstein's grand project He reconstructs the director's mental film that underlies the finished work The book attempts to follow the train of thought that connect the aesthetic construction and visual design of the film to Eisenstein's knowledge of iconography and painting psychoanalysis and philosophy Shakespeare and Balzac and much more The Cinema of Jia Zhangke Cecília

Mello, 2019-07-25 Shortlisted for the BAFTSS 2020 Award for Best Monograph Despite his films being subjected to censorship and denigration in his native China Jia Zhangke has become the country's leading independent film director internationally Seen as one of world cinema's foremost auteurs he has played a crucial role in documenting and reflecting upon China's era of intense transformations since the 1990s Cecília Mello provides in depth analysis of Jia's unique body of work from his early films Xiao Wu and Platform to experimental quasi documentary 24 City and the audacious Mountains May Depart Mello suggests that Jia's particular expression of the realist mode is shaped by the aesthetics of other Chinese artistic traditions allowing Jia to unearth memories both personal and collective still lingering within the ever changing landscapes of contemporary China Mello's groundbreaking study opens a door into Chinese cinema and culture addressing the nature of the so called impure cinematographic art and the complex representation of China through the ages Foreword by Walter Salles
