Black Feminism and Traumatic Legacies in Contemporary African American Literature Apryl Lewis, 2023-01-09 Black Feminism and Traumatic Legacies in Contemporary African American Literature employs an analysis of select African American novels and applies trauma studies and Black Feminist Studies to explain the significance of trauma and traumatic experiences that stem from slavery and how this advances scholarly discussions about African American literature Using the crooked room theory from Melissa Harris Perry's Sister Citizen 2011 the author argues that the traumatic legacy of slavery is the crooked room that African Americans especially Black women are forced to navigate to facilitate healing Much like trauma healing is not a linear concept and healing is more about reclaiming oneself in the aftermath of traumatic experiences An intersectional approach facilitated by Black Feminist Studies is pivotal for uplifting the traumatic experiences of African Americans especially women that does justice to their specific histories Although slavery is pushed out of public awareness because of people who are uncomfortable with confronting slavery's traumatic magnitude on the Black community African American literature is not removed from discussing past and present traumas that are pervasive in the Black community

Including contributions from prominent scholars and heritage professionals working across Africa, the volume presents critical contemporary perspectives on the state of heritage in the area. Chapters analyse the practices that emanated from different colonial experiences and consider what impact these had and continue to have on the management of African heritage. It also critically examines the ideological influence of independence movements on the African continent's management and remembering of heritage and considers whether there are any differences in heritage management between countries that experienced armed conflicts and those that did not. The volume will be the first to critically assess the state of heritage management now at a time when vital conversations about the balance between heritage and development is ongoing and the actions of new players have begun to impact the management and practice of heritage in the region. Cultural Heritage Management in Africa will be essential reading for those engaged in the study of museums and heritage development, archaeology, anthropology, history and African studies. It will also be of interest to heritage and museum professionals who wish to learn more about the decolonisation of heritage.      The Ending

Migrating the Black Body Leigh Raiford, Heike Raphael-Hernandez, 2017-03-20. Migrating the Black Body explores how visual media from painting to photography from global independent cinema to Hollywood movies from posters and broadsides to digital media from public art to graphic novels has shaped diasporic imaginings of the individual and collective self. How is the travel of black bodies reflected in reciprocal black images? How is blackness forged and remade through diasporic visual encounters and reimagined through revisitations with the past? And how do visual technologies structure the way we see African subjects and subjectivity? This volume brings together an international group of scholars and artists who explore these questions in visual culture for the historical and contemporary African diaspora. Examining subjects as wide ranging as the appearance of blackamoors in Russian and Swedish imperialist paintings, the appropriation of African and African American liberation images for Chinese Communist Party propaganda, and the role of YouTube videos in establishing connections between Ghana and its international diaspora, these essays investigate routes of migration both voluntary and forced, stretching across space, place, and time.

Social Work and the Grand Challenge to Eliminate Racism Martell L. Teasley, Michael S. Spencer, Melissa Bartholomew, 2023. In the current era, the ongoing challenge of race and ethnic relations and growing white supremacy reminds us that the centrality of racism needs considerable attention and has us profoundly questioning the structure and functioning of institutional practices. In Social Work and the Grand Challenge of Ending Racism, the authors argue that racism has been somewhat short-shifted as an avenue of inquiry to help explain social problems and social welfare outcomes within the social work profession and within the greater society. This book promotes innovative ways of preventing or interrupting racism and to stress the development and proliferation of antiracism practices as a method of reducing racialized outcomes in society.
