Wind Power Policies and Diffusion in the Nordic Countries Jon Birger Skjærseth, Teis Hansen, Jakob Donner-Amnell, Jens Hanson, Tor Håkon Jackson Inderberg, Helle Ørsted Nielsen, Birgitte Nygaard, Markus Steen, 2023-07-03 This book focuses specifically on policy mixes and wind power diffusion in four Nordic countries Denmark Finland Norway and Sweden

Although these Nordic welfare states have much in common they have adopted different wind power policies and experienced dissimilar diffusion trajectories Understanding these patterns across the Nordic countries is the central puzzle that this book investigates Empirically this book provides a first of its kind comparative study of wind power policies in the Nordic countries Analytically the authors contribute to the transition policy mix literature which remains largely insensitive to political feasibility This book will be of interest to researchers and students as well as private and public decision makers looking for tools to enable the energy transition

Natural Gas: A Commercial Perspective Andrej Pustišek, Michael Karasz, 2017-03-21 This book discusses and explains the economics of each stage of the natural gas value chain including the economic impact of restrictions rules and decisions that are ostensibly technical in nature as well as commercially relevant contractual stipulations Each chapter features several real world examples illustrating the essential points Natural gas is broadly considered the leading conventional source of primary energy Complementing renewable energies utilization and offering a highly flexible yet relatively clean fuel the worldwide natural gas markets are expected to grow Despite the fact that Europe where a degree of stagnation in natural gas consumption is being observed and is expected to continue is not following this trend international natural gas markets are becoming increasingly interdependent Therefore any analysis and discussion of natural gas markets at each level has to have an international rather than national focus
