Energy Policies Of Iea Countries Turkey 2001 Review

Sübidey Togan

Energy Policies Of Iea Countries Turkey 2001 Review:

Energy Policies of IEA Countries, 2001 Turkey aspires to link the oil and gas rich Caspian area to Western markets Several pipelines through Turkey are nearing completion The projects could enhance diversity and security of supply in consuming countries

Energy Policies of IEA Countries, 2002 Energy Policies of IEA Countries International Energy Agency, 2002 The International Energy Agency's 2002 comprehensive review of Korea's energy policies and programmes This report comes at a time when Korea has become the 26th Member of the IEA and when the country's energy policies are being substantially reformed to mobilise investments and increase efficiency The report brings information on all energy sectors oil gas coal nuclear electricity renewables showing what role different energy sources could play in the context of a heavily dependency on external sources of energy The report analyses the effect of efficiency measures to reduce the energy intensity of the Korean economy still one of the highest of the IEA countries A special attention is paid to the assessment of the energy policy reforms currently unfolding in Korea in particular in the electricity and in the gas sectors The report analyses in details the electricity reforms the gradual emergence of an electricity market in Korea and their implications KEPCO has now been restructured and its partial privatisation is a matter of time The report shows how the government's ambitious plans still require a number of measures for the market to achieve a satisfactory outcome the role of nuclear remaining a source of uncertainty for future competition in the generation industry Though less advanced the reforms in the gas sector are progressing well The report shows the main challenges which the government will need to resolve for the market to deliver its promises

Energy Policies of IEA Countries Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, International Energy Agency, 2003 This annual review analyses energy policy and market trends of the member countries of the International Energy Agency IEA It provides an overview of trends in energy markets including an analysis of recent trends in energy demand supply and fuel prices It highlights key issues related to energy security which remains a major government preoccupation It examines member countries progress in energy market reform their actions to meet the Kyoto greenhouse gas emissions targets and their policies on energy efficiency and energy R D The publication presents summaries of the in depth country reviews of Austria Hungary Iceland Italy Japan and Switzerland carried out from October 2002 to June 2003 Shorter reviews of Australia Belgium the Czech Republic New Zealand Norway Spain and Turkey are also included as well as an overview of developments in non member countries including China India south east Asia Latin America Russia central and south eastern Europe and Saudi Arabia Energy balances and key energy statistics for all IEA countries are given
