Worker Dislocation, 1995 Democracy Building in the Former Soviet Union United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs. Subcommittee on International Operations, 1992 Reforming the Energy Sector in Transition

Economies Dale Gray, 1995-01-01 World Development Report 1995 Workers in an Integrating World addresses labor and employment issues that are important for South Asia Expanding employment and increasing the remuneration of workers are essential to poverty alleviation which is the primary objective of all countries in the region This regional perspective examines ways in which workers in South Asia can benefit from greater integration of the global economy through improving their skills or cushioning their transition to new jobs The paper emphasizes that governments need to develop a framework for labor policies that defines the rights of employers workers and labor unions and the framework for collective bargaining and settlement of disputes Liberalization will lead to market based development which is the best way to raise workers living standards it encourages firms and workers to invest in physical capital new technologies and skills Energy Politics

Brenda Shaffer, 2011-06-03 It is not uncommon to hear states and their leaders criticized for mixing oil and politics The U S led Iraq War was criticized as a war for oil When energy exporters overtly use energy as a tool to promote their foreign policy goals Europe and the United States regularly decry the use of energy as a weapon rather than accept it as a standard and legitimate tool of diplomacy In Energy Politics Brenda Shaffer argues that energy and politics are intrinsically linked Modern life from production of goods to means of travel and entertainment to methods of waging war is heavily dependent on access to energy A country's ability to acquire and use energy supplies crucially determines the state of its economy its national security and the quality and sustainability of its environment Energy supply can serve as a basis for regional cooperation but at the same time can serve as a source of conflict among energy seekers and between producers and consumers Shaffer provides a broad introduction to the ways in which energy affects domestic and regional political developments and foreign policy While previous scholarship has focused primarily on the politics surrounding oil Shaffer broadens her scope to include the increasingly important role of natural gas and alternative energy sources as well as emerging concerns such as climate change the global energy divide and the coordinated international policy making required to combat them Energy Politics concludes with examinations of how politics and energy interact in six of the world's largest producers and consumers of energy Russia Europe the United States China Iran and Saudi Arabia Evaluation Forum, Issue 11, Summer 1995, 1995

U.S. Assistance to the New Independent States United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations. Subcommittee on European Affairs, 1992 Financial Implications of Soviet Economic Reform United States. Congress. Joint Economic Committee. Subcommittee on Economic Goals and Intergovernmental Policy, 1992 Economic Reforms in Kazakhstan, Kyrgyz Republic, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan International Monetary Fund, 1999-08-31 This occasional paper provides an overview of the economic reform experiences of the Central Asian states of the former Soviet Union since their independence at the turn of the decade The choice of countries reflects not only a geographical grouping but also similarities in the types of transition challenges faced by these countries notwithstanding considerable variations in their sizes ethnic composition resource endowments and economic structures The paper attempts to identify a number of key macroeconomic and structural areas where the slower reformers in the group might benefit from the experience of the faster reformers Power Restructuring In China And Russia Mark Lupher, 2018-02-12 The massive economic transformations and political upheavals that have been sweeping China and the Soviet Union in the final decades of the twentieth century are among the great dramas of our time Yet the origins of these revolutionary changes are murky and their outcomes unclear Have we witnessed the demise of an archaic authoritarian order and the rise of pluralism and democracy or are the tumultuous events of the post Mao era and the period of perestroika more usefully viewed in light of broader patterns of power and politics in Chinese and Russian history Considering these questions with a new interpretation of power relations and political processes in China and Russia Mark Lupher explores the imperial era the communist period and the current situation in both countries Rather than speaking of reform which too often is understood as liberalization along Western lines his discussion is focused on power restructuring the ebb and flow of state power the centralization and decentralization of political and economic power and the three way struggles between central rulers various elites and nonprivileged groups that drive these processes Lupher s power restructuring analysis is noteworthy in combining broad comparative historical analysis and conceptualization with a closely focused discussion and reinterpretation of the Chinese Cultural Revolution the core of his book By comparing and bringing new light to bear on a series of pivotal episodes in Chinese and Russian history he furthers our understanding and assessment of processes that will continue to unfold in China Russia and the former Soviet republics

Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Europe's Transition Economies

Kym Anderson,Johan Swinnen,2008-06-05 The vast majority of the world s poorest households depend on farming for their livelihood During the 1960s and 1970s most developing countries imposed pro urban and anti agricultural policies while many high income countries restricted agricultural imports and subsidized their farmers Both sets of policies inhibited economic growth and poverty alleviation in developing countries Although progress has been made over the past two decades to reduce those policy biases many trade and welfare reducing price distortions remain between agriculture and other sectors as well as within the agricultural sector of both rich and poor countries Comprehensive empirical studies of the disarray in world agricultural markets first appeared approximately 20 years ago Since then the OECD has provided estimates each year of market distortions in high income countries but there has been no comparable estimates for the world s developing countries This volume is the first in a series other volumes cover Africa Asia and Latin America that not only fill that void for recent years but extend the estimates in a consistent and comparable way back in time and provide analytical narratives for scores of countries that shed light on the evolving nature and extent of policy interventions over the past half century Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Europe s Transition Economies provides an overview of the evolution of distortions to agricultural incentives caused by price and trade policies in the economies of Eastern Europe and Central Asia that are transitioning away from central planning The book includes country and subregional studies of the ten transition economies of Central and Eastern Europe that joined the European Union in 2004 or 2007 of seven other large member countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States and of Turkey Together these countries comprise over 90 percent of the Europe and Central Asia region s population and GDP Sectoral trade and exchange rate policies in the region have changed greatly since the dissolution of the Soviet Union in 1991 but price distortions remain The new empirical indicators in these country studies provide a strong evidence based foundation for evaluating policy options in the years ahead

Export Pipelines from the CIS Region Andreas Heinrich,2014-04-01 This timely collection offers fresh perspectives to the analysis of the New Great Game the fight for access to the Caspian Sea region s energy resources To date the export of the Caspian crude oil and natural gas has only been assessed geopolitically which oversimplifies the political dynamics of the region and neglects to acknowledge the Caspian countries as actors in their own right

Regionalization and Globalization in the Modern World Economy Alex E. Fernandez Jilberto, Andre Mommen, 2002-01-22 This collection explores the importance of regionalization and globalization to the world economy particularly questioning whether the world economy is characterized by increasing regionalization rather than globalization International contributors explore the processes in the Pacific area the Americas Africa and Europe and make an important contribution to current debates in development economics AgExporter ,1992 Army ,1985 Congressional Record United States.
