Ends Of Time Life And Work In A Nursing Home:

The Ends of Time Joel Savishinsky, 1991-10-18 This book is a rich contribution to the ethnographic literature on aging and it captures the full range of emotions on display in the nursing home and conveys them in a context that is fully articulated within the institution's culturally modified spatial and temporal dimensions Maria D Vesperi University of South Florida

The Culture of Long Term Care J Neil Henderson, Maria D. Vesperi, 1995-08-30 This is the only collection of its kind to offer an inside view of life and work in contemporary nursing homes with the purpose of developing a theory of the culture of long term care The anthropological research in nursing homes presented here produces a seldom seen native view of patients staff and the day to day workings of American nursing homes The use of ethnographic methods penetrates the reality barriers found in industry descriptions muck raking discourse and general societal aversion toward nursing homes The tensions found between and within staff culture and patient culture are explored in terms of adaptations to institutional life in the context of current policy and the larger American ageist culture

The Heart of Long Term Care Rosalie A. Kane, Robert L. Kane, Richard C. Ladd, 1998 Long term care in the United States has taken the nursing home as its benchmark but the monetary social and psychological costs of nursing home care are all too high This book challenges the current dominance of nursing homes as the principal institution of long term care It offers a series of alternative models where both services and housing can be provided in a way that allows long term consumers to enjoy dignified normal lifestyles It addresses the political and economic consequences of making this decision The authors start with the premise that long term care is designed to assist people who lack the capacity to function fully independently They argue that no disabled person of any age should be required to forsake his/her humanity in exchange for care The book rejects the artificial dichotomy between social and medical care asserting that both play important roles in psychological and physical well being of long term care patients The authors consider the need for competent and compassionate medicine and discuss the methods for improving both its coordination of care and its effectiveness The book redefines the meaning of safety and protection in long term care and how this goal can be accomplished without sacrificing quality of living As the new millennium and the aging of baby boomers approaches more creative approaches to providing better long term care are required This volume outlines a useful framework for the provision of effective and humane community based programs that are both feasible and affordable It will be an invaluable guide for geriatricians public health professionals family physicians nurses and others who care for elderly patients

Maltreatment of Patients in Nursing Homes Diana Harris, Harold G Koenig, 2012-10-12 Abuse although often not detected or reported existed in every facility we surveyed It is a serious problem Old weak and often cognitively impaired nursing home patients can be easy targets for physical psychological material and financial mistreatment at the hands of those entrusted with their care safety and well being Maltreatment of Patients in Nursing Homes There Is No Safe Place examines the dark side of nursing homes where not every employee has the commitment of Mother Theresa This groundbreaking book applies criminological theory to help develop practical methods of controlling abuse and presents the results of the first and only nationwide study on the theft of patients belongings a form of abuse too often ignored by the nursing home industry Maltreatment of Patients in Nursing Homes surveys employees administrators and family members of patients in 47 nursing homes throughout the United States Their responses provide invaluable insights on a wide range of topics including the social and psychological factors that cause different types of abuse characteristics of nursing home patients and employees the bureaucracy of nursing homes victimization rates workforce issues of nursing home aides and federal regulations for nursing homes The information gained from the surveys forms the basis for detailed recommendations for creating a safer environment and reducing all forms of abuse including theft prevention training programs background checks and improved screening of potential employees education and advocacy for current staff and the reform of federal regulations Maltreatment of Patients in Nursing Homes examines types of physical abuse restraints sexual abuse neglect the who what and why of nursing home theft types of financial abuse trust accounts bank accounts improper charges for services and drugs identity theft types of psychological abuse abandonment segregation childlike treatment verbal abuse effects of psychological abuse depression learned helplessness psychiatric disorders reasons for abuse by employees staff turnover job burnout job dissatisfaction caregiver stress One of the few books to deal with abuse of the elderly outside a domestic setting Maltreatment of Patients in Nursing Homes There Is No Safe Place interprets and analyzes abuse to provide new ways of thinking about this growing problem and new methods of preventing it from growing any more widespread Working With Older People And Their Families Nolan, Mike, Davies , Nolan, Grant, Gordon, 2001-02-01 This text combines reviews of specialist literatures with empirical data in an attempt to synthesise themes about making a reality of person centred care

Women of Color in a World Apart Anne Vittoria, 2020-10-28 Care whether viewed as acts of civility acts of compassion and skill or acts of close personal interaction is the fundamental process by which society perpetuates and recreates itself Despite social need and the undeniable benefit of occupations such as Certified Nursing Assistants CNAs these workers mostly female and disproportionally from minority groups face very low wages a notable lack of respect and little public recognition of their abilities The United States is experiencing what experts call a crisis of care with a current and growing shortage of nurses and CNAs In U S Nursing Centers the demand for Certified Nursing Assistants the largest group of employees who operate on the front line of health care is expected to grow exponentially due to dramatic increases in population aging Over the course of a year and a half Anne K Vittoria examined the meaning and social construction of care work on an Alzheimer s Pavilion located in a geriatric facility in the mid western United States Through in depth ethnographic research focused on the local culture and logic of care Vittoria documents that when given autonomy in their daily work in an institution CNAs and the LPN Charge Nurse constructed a systematic body of knowledge and created a language of care forging a different model of personal care in resistance to the medical model of care This book challenges the assumptions of the outside world that low level workers are alienated from their work and have minimal skills Paradoxically the Pavilion is both a refuge and a site of struggle for the CNAs they desire to create a world that is the antithesis of the world in which they live on the outside Women of Color in a World Apart provides a public forum for the voices of women of color the development of concepts and a practical as well as theoretical language of care that could be transformational in connecting the meanings of care with the organization of care The Cultural Context of Aging Jay Sokolovsky,2020-06-09 From the laughing clubs of India and robotic granny minders of Japan to the Flexsecurity system of Denmark and the elderscapes of Florida experts in this collection bring readers cutting edge and future focused approaches to our aging population worldwide In this fourth edition of an award winning text on the consequences of global aging a team of expert anthropologists and other social scientists presents the issues and possible solutions as our population over age 60 rises to double that of the year 2000 Chapters describe how the consequences of global aging will influence life in the 21st century in relation to biological limits on the human life span cultural construction of the life cycle generational exchange and kinship makeup of households and community and attitudes toward disability and death This completely revised edition includes 20 new chapters covering China Japan Denmark India West and East Africa Indonesia Mexico Peru indigenous Amazonia rural Italy and the ethnic landscape of the United States A popular feature is an integrated set of web book chapters listed in the contents discussed in chapter introductions and available on the book s web site Health Care Ethics: Critical Issues for the 21st Century Eileen E. Therapy and the Older Adult Population Suzanne Wells, 2014-02-04 Horticultural Therapy and the Older Adult Population is the guidebook you've been waiting for since the American Horticultural Therapy Association's AHTA 1981 publication. With an updated collection of chapters in the area of horticultural therapy and older adults ranging from a review of relevant literature to descriptions of existing horticultural therapy programs, this book will stimulate networking and information sharing among horticultural therapists and other professionals working with older adults, spur new ideas, and foster continuing research in the field. The book's importance is recognized internationally and it is soon to be published in Japanese. In Horticultural Therapy and the Older Adult Population you will find chapters on garden designs to enhance the horticultural therapy experience, descriptions of existing horticultural therapy programs for older adults, and new research to evaluate the effectiveness of horticultural therapy with this population. Whether you're an established horticultural therapist, a nursing home administrator, or a gerontology educator, this book will help you design gardens, set up and evaluate programs, and develop curriculum. Horticultural Therapy and the Older Adult Population also includes the results of a survey sent to all registered members of AHTA who work with the older adult population. The survey responses provide information about the institutions and the population served, programming activities, program staffing, program evaluation, and funding. Another beneficial feature of the book is a resource-packed bibliography. Prepared as a service to horticultural therapists and others working with older adults, it covers the most relevant publications, giving you more places to find inspiration and ideas for improving care to the elderly through horticultural therapy.

Reluctant Intimacies Beata Świtek, 2016-09-01 Based on seventeen months of ethnographic research among Indonesian eldercare workers in Japan and Indonesia, this book is the first ethnography to research Indonesian care workers' relationships with the cared-for elderly, their Japanese colleagues, and their employers. Through the notion of intimacy, the book brings together sociological and anthropological scholarship on the body, migration, demographic change, and eldercare in a vivid account of societal transformation. Placed against the background of mass media representations, the Indonesian workers' experiences serve as a basis for discussion of the role of bodily experience in shaping the image of a national other in Japan.

Breaking the Watch Joel S. Savishinsky, 2018-08-06 The topic of retirement becomes increasingly compelling as the U.S. population ages. It's easy to find books about how to plan financially for those years after careers end, but Breaking the Watch focuses on the many ways of creating a life, not just making a living, as a retired person. This book follows women and men from a rural American community as they approach and experience the first years of retirement. Joel Savishinsky focuses on the efforts people make to find meaning in a stage of life American culture often views in a confused or disdainful way. In conversations and stories, 13 men and 13 women demonstrate a deep commitment to defining their own retirement. They bring to their mature years a diversity of backgrounds, interests, and responsibilities. They include former teachers, librarians, doctors, farmers, lawyers, bankers, mail carriers, and secretaries. Some are married, others divorced or single, many have children and grandchildren but some have neither Their finances run the gamut from the modest to the munificent while their health ranges from robust to disabled From an examination of the rites of passage that marked their exit from full time work Breaking the Watch moves on to consider how to plan appropriately for retirement renegotiate ties to friends family and community and create a sense of passion be it for tai chi travel painting or politics that will drive a new sense of purpose These intimate glimpses into real lives allow a rare understanding of the retirement process

In Search of Naunty's Grave Nick Trujillo, 2004 Elsie Martinez Trujillo Alcaraz Naunty to her grandson and communication scholar Nick Trujillo was a working class woman daughter of New Mexico Hispanos and eventually the resident of a Los Angeles nursing home She becomes the focal point for Trujillo's experimental ethnography of family relations aging and ethnic identity throughout the twentieth century Collecting narratives of his grandmother's life Trujillo learns how family members use stories to define the family's sense of itself and create collective views on intergenerational relations social history gender class and ethnicity Through these stories family photos and his own recollections supplemented with Elsie's letters and journal entries the author is able to explore topics often ignored in life histories of the elderly sexuality body image eating disorders marital discord mobility patterns racial prejudice and interactions with the health care system Trujillo's presentation brings Naunty's humor liveliness and generosity alive for scholars and students alike and provides a vivid portrait of being Hispanic and female in the 20th century American west

Anthropology of Nursing Karen Holland, 2019-09-09 This book aims to introduce nurses and other healthcare professionals to how anthropology can help them understand nursing as a profession and as a culture Drawing on key anthropological concepts the book facilitates the understanding and critical consideration of nursing practice as seen across a wide range of health care contexts and which impacts the delivery of appropriate care for service users Considering the fields in which nurses work the book argues that in order for nurses to optimize their roles as deliverers of patient care they must not only engage with the realities of the cultural world of the patient but also that of their own multi professional cultural environment The only book currently in the field on anthropology of nursing this book will be a valuable resource for nursing students at all academic levels especially where they can pursue specific modules in the subject as well as those other students pursuing medical anthropology courses As well as this it will be an essential text for those post graduate students who wish to consider alternative world views from anthropology and their application in nursing and healthcare in addition to their undertaking ethnographic research to explore nursing in all its fields of practice
