C.L.E.A.N.E.R. Economy ,1994 Energy Efficiency Leslie A. Solmes,2009-09-30 ENERGY EFFICIENCY uses an applied scientific methodology and case studies to demonstrate and support The need for the U S and the world to commit to energy and resource efficiency as the central goal in investing in electric heat and cooling infrastructure the huge economic opportunity for using the inefficiency built into 20th century energy supply systems especially electric to pay for the upgrades replacements and new production and distribution systems of the 21st century the importance of adopting a standard web based energy infrastructure investment decision making and risk management tool that will serve as a communication medium for all stakeholders to evaluate and compare energy infrastructure investment options and manage investment risks expansions of the U S smart grid investment to include evaluation and risk management of energy systems infrastructure investments not just electricity operations the need to adopt a framework for utilities energy service companies and customers to work together to close business deals communicate and manage risks and realize profits The Dirty Energy Dilemma Benjamin K. Sovacool,2008-10-30 The American electric utility system is quietly falling apart Once taken for granted the industry has become increasingly unstable fragmented unreliable insecure inefficient expensive and harmful to our environment and public health According to Sovacool the fix for this ugly array of problems lies not in nuclear power or clean coal but in renewable energy systems that produce few harmful byproducts relieve congestion on the transmission grid require less maintenance are not subject to price volatility and enhance the security of the national energy system from natural catastrophe terrorist attack and dependence on supply from hostile and unstable regions of the world Here arises The Dirty Energy Dilemma If renewable energy systems deliver such impressive benefits why are they languishing at the margins of the American energy portfolio And why does the United States lag so far behind Europe where conversion to renewable energy systems has already taken off in a big way Corporate media parrot industry PR that renewable technologies just aren't ready for prime time But Sovacool marshals extensive field research to show that the only barrier blocking the conversion of a significant proportion of the U S energy portfolio to renewables is not technological the technology is there but institutional Public utility commissioners utility managers system operators business owners and ordinary consumers are hobbled by organizational conservatism technical incompatibility legal inertia weak and inconsistent political incentives ill founded prejudices and apathy The author argues that significant conversion to technologically proven clean energy systems can happen only if we adopt and implement a whole new set of policies that will target and dismantle the insidious social barriers that are presently blocking decisions that would so obviously benefit society CIS Annual Congressional Information Service,1993

Challenges and Opportunities of Sustainable Electricity Access in Nigeria Emmanuel Odoyi,2014-04-22 Research Paper postgraduate from the year 2013 in the subject Energy Sciences grade 1 7 University of Applied Sciences Berlin Engineering course Sustainable Development language English abstract Electricity is an important feature for economic development The necessity lies in the fact that electricity affects every aspect of our economy Nigeria should aim towards sustainable electricity access to its citizens Nigeria must have a stable electrical energy supply to meet the market basic needs of the people A nation whose energy supply is not reliable does not help in the development of the national economy Nigeria is a nation with more than 162 million inhabitants with less electric access to both rural and urban areas This study has reviewed and analyzed the challenges and opportunities facing Electricity Access in Nigeria The study has employed approach to good features of sustainable development system in the Nigerian electrical energy sector by proposing a sustainable strategies and alternatives for energy access through the use of solar power wind and hydro power and Bio mass Also the study clearly explained and analyzed the problems facing the electricity in Nigeria Thus this study has used literature review methods to gather information s on Energy Sector in general and existing literatures on the Nigeria Energy Sector as well as a SWOT PEST Matrix of the Nigerian Energy sector Bibliography of Agriculture ,1995 Energy Technologies for the 21st Century International Energy Agency,1997
