Natural Resource-Based Development in Africa Nathan Andrews,J. Andrew Grant,Jesse Salah Ovardia,2022-03-01

There is no question that Africa is endowed with abundant natural resources of different magnitudes However more than a decade of high commodity prices and new hydrocarbon discoveries across the continent has led countless international organizations donor agencies and non governmental organizations to devote considerable attention to the potential of natural resource based development Natural Resource Based Development in Africa places a particular emphasis on the actors that help us understand the extent to which resources could be transformed into broader developmental outcomes Based on a wide variety of primary sources and fieldwork including in person interviews and participant observations this collection contributes to both scholarly and policy discussions around the governance and economic development roles of local entrepreneurs transnational firms civil society groups local communities and government agencies in Africa s natural resource sectors Natural Resource Based Development in Africa explores the impact that these actors have on regional trends such as resource nationalism and local procurement policies as well as grassroots related issues such as poverty livelihoods gender equity development and human security

Economic Integration and Third World Development Pradip K. Ghosh,1984-10-24 Although not previously well documented many instances of regional economic integration occur among Third World countries Joint industrial planning monetary integration trade expansion and investment planning are among the many facets of economic integration discussed in this volume Integration schemes most likely to contribute to development are difficult to achieve because ultimate success depends on the willingness and ability of the nations involved to negotiate conditions that contribute to the development of the region as a whole and that assure an acceptable distribution of benefits within the region The variety of theories and practical examples of regional integration plans detailed here document the complexity of integrated planning and the difficulties in achieving the desired results This work defines and explores the many factors necessary for understanding the difficulties involved in economic integration and cooperation among developing countries

Energy Policy and Third World Development Pradip K. Ghosh,University of Maryland, College Park. Center for International Development,World Academy of Development and Cooperation,1984-05-23 In designing policies to help resolve its energy problems every country faces a unique set of conditions Contributors to this volume profile the energy situation in the developing countries assess the role of energy policy in Third World development and discuss the global energy situation in relation to these countries consumption production trade and resource endowment The rest of the volume provides researchers with different sources of information statistical and bibliographic relating to energy policy development in the Third World Managing the increasing demand for energy is explored in depth

Analysing the Role of Energy Security in Promoting Third World

Development John Alobwede Ngome, Every scholar who reads this book will concur that at the heart of John's analysis is rooted a fundamental question and preoccupation that although Cameroon is naturally endowed with abundant and diverse energy resources the country however remains an energy poor state due to the absence of a durable Energy Security Plan political vision and political will all of which continue to hamper the development of a range of renewables alongside various fossil fuels to improve and guarantee durable Energy Security to catalyze development and reverse the current energy crisis Prof Dr Amelia Hadfield Head of Department of Politics University of Surrey United Kingdom Future Survey Annual 1985 Michael Marien, 1987-01-01 Energy Abstracts for Policy Analysis, 1986 Global Development Report, 1987

Rural Energy Planning in China and Other Developing Countries of Asia Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1985-01-01 Development Policy and Planning Pradip K. Ghosh, University of Maryland, College Park. Center for International Development, World Academy of Development and Cooperation, 1984-09-21 This volume examines the experiences of a number of Third World countries in implementing development plans in the 1970s and offers some guidelines for research development and analysis of policy Some chapters focus on theoretical issues such as the place of development on the policy agenda and the institutionalization of development policy planning Other chapters detail global and national strategies for employment reducing poverty and developing human resources The use of various economic indicators as tools for planning and analysis is also discussed Energy Policy in the Greenhouse Florentin Krause, Wilfrid Bach, Jon Koomey, 2013-11-05 The globe is warming and while no one knows what will happen as a result it is clear that slowing the process is a necessary goal Other studies have considered warming fates this one brings sophisticated computer modeling to bear on ways of minimizing the risks Fossil carbon emissions other trace gases and releases from other sources are all taken into account and the authors demonstrate the global need to produce a budget for cumulative releases between now and the year 2100 They also demonstrate the need to return to a rate of forest carbon storage equal to that of the mid 1980s These budgets look at issues of international equity and the ways of moving to a binding agreement The price of failure to control GHG emissions may be uncertain but it will be more than anyone can afford Political will lies at the root of successful climate stabilization and major capital and technology transfers to Third World countries will be needed if there is to be any chance of success This book provides an agenda for advance A book which throws into stark relief the mountain still to be climbed before the world community can agree on a credible programme to tackle global warming David Thomas Financial Times Originally published in 1991 World Development Report 1980, 1980 Abstract Developing countries start the decade facing two major challenges to continue the social and economic progress of the past 30 years in an international climate that looks less helpful and to tackle the plight of the 800 million people living in absolute poverty who have benefitted too little from past progress This report examines some of the difficulties and prospects in both areas One of its central themes is the importance of people in development The first part of the report addresses the expected sluggish world economic growth as oil importing countries reduce their current account deficits and adapt to higher energy costs Domestic policies of developing countries will be crucial and the fate of poor people in these countries will be decided largely by domestic opportunities and policies The second part of the report describes the role of human development programs in education health nutrition and fertility reduction and their related effects on productivity and population growth Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists ,1978-06 The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists is the premier public resource on scientific and technological developments that impact global security Founded by Manhattan Project Scientists the Bulletin s iconic Doomsday Clock stimulates solutions for a safer world Energy Demand and Efficient Use F. Amman,2012-12-06 The Fourth International School on Energetics was held in July 1980 at Erice Sicily and was devoted to the subject of Energy Demand and Efficient Use In contrast to the Third School we chose to concentrate on the demand side of the energy equation The initial emphasis was on the methodology for determining demand but it soon became clear that it is necessary to control demand also All too often energy policy is set by the large industrial nations or those nations blessed with a plentiful supply of fossil fuels It seemed to us important to have the views of some representatives from the less developed countries The manuscripts were collected and ordered by Ms Diane Rolinski of Harvard University whose work was invaluable Fernando Amman Richard Wilson Directors of the School The course would not have been possible without the financial support of the Italian Ministry of Public Education Italian Ministry of Scientific and Technological Research Italian National Research Council National Electric Energy Council National Nuclear Energy Council and Sicilian Regional Government v CONTENTS Energy Demand Control in Energy Policy 1 J M Martin Energy in Europe Demand Forecast Control and Supply 23 H F Wagner Data Collection Methodologies Introduction 99 R Bending Industry Geoscience for the Public Good and Global Development Gregory R. Wessel,Jeffrey K. Greenberg,2016-05-18 Offers overview of applications of geosciences to sustainable development and geophilanthropic efforts worldwide and offers advice to guide creation of development projects Primacy of geologic input to all development activities is highlighted along with problems that are encountered and environmental issues that must be addressed Resource Misallocation Theorem Chin-Hsien Yu,Wen-Chieh Lee,2025-09-01 This book introduces the theory of resource misallocation and its applications in the context of energy transition Technological advancement is often regarded as the primary driver of energy transition and ultimately the achievement of net zero emissions However technological progress is inherently long term and highly uncertain Additionally there is an ongoing debate regarding the trade offs between reducing carbon emissions and fostering economic growth Resource reallocation presents a potential solution as it can enhance efficiency boost productivity and effectively reduce carbon emissions The authors offer insightful arguments supported by both theoretical and empirical analyses This book is suitable for undergraduate and advanced level readers and serves as a valuable resource for academic researchers and policymakers alike Handbook of Global Environmental Politics Peter Dauvergne,2012-01-01 The second edition of this Handbook contains more than 30 new and original articles as well six essential updates by leading scholars of global environmental politics This landmark book maps the latest theoretical and empirical research in this energetic and growing field Captured here are the pioneering and lively debates over concerns for the health of the planet and how they might best be addressed The introduction explores the intellectual trends and evolving parameters in the field of global environmental politics It makes a case for an expansive definition of the field one that embraces an interdisciplinary literature on the connections between global politics and environmental change The remaining chapters are divided into four broad themes states and cooperation global governance the political economy of governance and knowledge and ethics with each section covering key emerging issues In depth explorations are given to topics such as climate change multinational corporations international agreements and UN organizations regulations and business standards trade and international finance multilevel and transnational governance and ecological citizenship Handbook of Global Environmental Politics Second Edition is a comprehensive review of the field and offers cutting edge ideas for further research As such scholars students and policymakers will find themselves looking to it for many years to come

Emerging Markets and Financial Resilience C. Hooy, R. Ali, R. Ghon, 2013-08-23 Emerging Markets and Financial Resilience presents a picture of finance research The issue of financial resilience in emerging markets is apt and timely as emerging countries are faced with the challenge of finding ways of sustaining their current trajectory in shaping the global financial architecture to ensure sustainable growth

Climate Change and Developing Countries Nijavalli H. Ravindranath, Jayant A. Sathaye, 2005-12-16 Among global environmental issues climate change has received the largest attention of national and global policy makers researchers industry multilateral banks and NGOs Climate change is one of the most important global environmental problems with unique characteristics It is global long term up to several centuries and involves complex interactions between climatic environmental economic political institutional and technological pressures It is of great significance to developing countries as all the available knowledge suggests that they and particularly their poorer inhabitants are highly vulnerable to climate impacts The projected warming of 1.4 to 5.8 C by 2100 and the related changes in rainfall pattern rise in sea level and increased frequency of extreme events such as drought hurricanes and storms are likely to threaten food security increase fresh water scarcity lead to decline in biodiversity increase occurrence of vector borne diseases cause flooding of coastal settlements etc Recognizing the potential threat of severe disruptions the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development was organized in 1992 in Rio de Janeiro Brazil to begin to address ways to reduce these impacts which led to the formulation of the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change This Convention and the subsequent Kyoto Protocol recognize the common but differentiated responsibility of developing and industrialized countries in addressing climate change Developing countries thus have a unique role to play in formulating a sound reasoned and well informed response to the threat of climate change

Climate Change and Global Development Tiago Sequeira, Liliana Reis, 2019-05-08 This book presents new research related to climate change policies and effects It discusses the implications of climate change on issues pertaining to international relations and economic development and the question of how climate change could jeopardize the international system as we have known it until today It aims to provide an empirical basis and epistemological framework to discuss the effects of climate change on economic growth social development and welfare as a global phenomenon influenced by policies carried out transnationally and by national governments Case studies from around the globe are presented
