Energy Security And Economic Development In East Asia:

Energy, Security and Economic Development in East Asia Ronald C. Keith, 1986 Energy Sustainability and Development in ASEAN and East Asia Phoumin Han, Farhad Taghizadeh-Hesary, Fukunari Kimura, 2020-06-14 The rapid and sustained economic growth of the past two decades has led to marked increases in energy demand in the region and developing Asia will continue to lead the energy demand growth The increase in energy demand threatens energy security and efforts to curb carbon dioxide emissions affecting health and social well being These common energy challenges will need to be addressed through concerted efforts This book provides several multi dimensional quantitative analysis of the relationship between energy and other subjects including but not limited to income and economic growth environment and health food and agricultural production The book also provides the most constructive policy recommendations concerning the relationship between energy economic development social development and environmental development Energy, Security and Economic Development in East Asia Ronald C. Keith, 1986 Energy Market Integration in East Asia Yanrui Wu, Fukunari Kimura, Xunpeng Shi, 2013-12-04 East Asian nations through the dialogue between ASEAN and its partners have been promoting energy market integration EMI for a decade The formation of the East Asian Summit EAS group in 2005 adds new momentum to the EMI course in the region The objective of this edited volume is to present new insights into the understanding of EMI in East Asia and draw implications for further development This book is the first publication of its kind exclusively focusing on EMI in East Asia The chapters are written by a distinguished group of specialists in the field of energy policy business and economics The covered topics range from the general debates about EMI to regional policy responses A variety of qualitative and quantitative methods are employed in this book For qualitative methods public goods theory and the comparative study method are two examples The quantitative methods include economic growth theory principle component approach input output table computable general equilibrium CGE models and econometric techniques Important policy implications can be drawn from the findings One clear message is that EMI should be promoted actively but in a gradual incremental manner Other policy implications are related to inter regional governance infrastructure development and gas market integration The content has not been published elsewhere and hence makes a unique contribution to the literature There are also case studies of specific energy sectors such as petroleum and natural gas Overall this book should be of interest to a wide audience such as academia business analysts and policy makers Energy Conservation In East Asia: Towards Greater Energy Security Jae-seung Lee, Elspeth Thomson, Youngho Chang, 2010-12-09 As East and Southeast Asia continue to modernize and urbanize their demand for energy will soar Besides seeking to import fossil fuels from the Middle East Africa the Caspian Region Russia Latin America Australia etc it is imperative for these Asian countries to cooperate in substantially raising the efficiency with which energy is consumed This book offers a comprehensive examination of East and Southeast Asia s energy conservation policies It begins with a summary of the current and projected energy supply and demand patterns in the region and a discussion about the need and basis for cooperation in energy conservation This is followed by an examination of the energy conservation policies and progress to date in seven ASEAN countries and in China Japan and Korea Energy Security and Economic Development in India Bala Bhaskar,2013-01-01 Energy is fundamental to the economic development of a society Ensuring energy security is critical to the security sovereignty and well being of any country However there is no consensus on the definition of energy security Energy Security and Economic Development in India a holistic approach attempts to construct an appropriate definition for the concept of energy security The evolution of energy security is traced at both the global level and in the Indian context This book elaborates on the concept of energy security highlights its linkages enumerates India s indigenous energy resources examines the status of energy security in the country and makes policy suggestions to ensure energy security in the country Energy Conservation in East Asia Elspeth Thomson,Youngho Chang,Jae-Seung Lee,2011 As East and Southeast Asia continue to modernize and urbanize their demand for energy will soar Besides seeking to import fossil fuels from the Middle East Africa the Caspian Region Russia Latin America Australia etc it is imperative for these Asian countries to cooperate in substantially raising the efficiency with which energy is consumed This book offers a comprehensive examination of East and Southeast Asia s energy conservation policies It begins with a summary of the current and projected energy supply and demand patterns in the region and a discussion about the need and basis for cooperation in energy conservation This is followed by an examination of the energy conservation policies and progress to date in seven ASEAN countries and in China Japan and Korea Renewable Energy in East Asia Christopher M. Dent,2014-11-27 Energy is crucial to the functioning of any human society and central to understanding East Asia s economic miracle The region s rapid development over the last few decades has been inherently energy intensive and the impact on global energy security climate change and the twenty first century global system generally is now very significant and will become more so over foreseeable years and decades to come The region is already the world s largest energy consumer and greenhouse gas emitter so establishing cleaner energy systems in East Asia is both a regional and global challenge and renewable energy has a critically important part to play in meeting it This book presents a comprehensive study of renewable energy development in East Asia It begins by examining renewable energy development in global and historic contexts and situates East Asia s position in the recent worldwide expansion of renewables This same approach is applied on sector specific chapter studies on wind solar hydropower geothermal ocean wave and tidal and bioenergy and to general trends in renewable energy policy Governments play a critical role in promoting renewables and their contribution to tackling climate change and other environmental challenges Christopher M Dent argues this is particularly relevant to East Asia where state capacity practice has been increasingly allied to ecological modernisation thinking to form what he calls new developmentalism the principal foundation on which renewables have developed in the region as well as how East Asia s low carbon development is being generally promoted Renewable Energy in East Asia will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Asian studies economics political economy energy studies business development international relations and environmental studies It will also appeal to researchers working on the subject matter in government business international organisations think tanks and civil society organisations
