Engaging The Curriculum In Higher Education:

Engaging The Curriculum Barnett, Ronald, Coate, Kelly, 2004-10-01 This book discusses the changes taking place in higher education especially in the UK in which curricula are being reframed to enable students to acquire skills that have market value

Engaging the curriculum in higher education Ronald ; Coate Barnett (Kelly), 2020

Engaging Higher Education Curricula Elmarie Costandius, Eli Bitzer, 2015-06-30 The authors aim to stimulate discussion about the nature and purposes of critical citizenship education in higher education Rather than promoting a blueprint for change the authors thoughtfully consider a generative research agenda for transformative higher education and focus on how this orientation in higher education plays out on the ground This book together with its Coda that takes the conversation beyond critical citizenship education to include responsible citizenship provides compelling reasons and sound suggestions for a way forward

Fostering Multiple Levels of Engagement in Higher Education Environments Walters, Kelley, Henry, Patricia, 2019-01-22 Because of the continued growth of online instruction there is now a need to better understand every demographic of students in higher education Achieving successful student faculty engagement in distance learning is a growing challenge Fostering Multiple Levels of Engagement in Higher Education Environments is an essential reference source that serves as a guideline for institutions looking to improve current undergraduate or graduate programs and successful engagement practices with online faculty staff and students Featuring research on topics such as student faculty engagement engaging curriculum engaging platform and engaging relationships this book is ideally designed for educators practitioners academicians and researchers seeking coverage on successful engagement in higher education

Engaging the Senses: Object-Based Learning in Higher Education Helen J. Chatterjee, Leonie Hannan, 2016-03-09 The use of museum collections as a path to learning for university students is fast becoming a new pedagogy for higher education Despite a strong tradition of using lectures as a way of delivering the curriculum the positive benefits of active and experiential learning are being recognised in universities at both a strategic level and in daily teaching practice As museum artefacts specimens and art works are used to evoke provoke and challenge students engagement with their subject so transformational learning can take place This unique book presents the first comprehensive exploration of object based learning as a pedagogy for higher education in a broad context An international group of authors offer a spectrum of approaches at work in higher education today They explore contemporary principles and practice of object based learning in higher education demonstrating the value of using collections in this context and considering the relationship between academic discipline and object based learning as a teaching strategy

The European Higher Education Area Adrian Curaj, Liviu Matei, Remus Pricopie, Jamil Salmi, Peter Scott, 2015-10-12 Bridging the gap between higher education research and policy making was always a challenge but the recent calls for more evidence based policies have opened a window of unprecedented opportunity for researchers to bring more contributions to shaping the future of the European Higher

Education Area EHEA Encouraged by the success of the 2011 first edition Romania and Armenia have organised a 2nd edition of the Future of Higher Education Bologna Process Researchers Conference FOHE BPRC in November 2014 with the support of the Italian Presidency of the European Union and as part of the official EHEA agenda Reuniting over 170 researchers from more than 30 countries the event was a forum to debate the trends and challenges faced by higher education today and look at the future of European cooperation in higher education The research volumes offer unique insights regarding the state of affairs of European higher education and research as well as forward looking policy proposals More than 50 articles focus on essential themes in higher education Internationalization of higher education Financing and governance Excellence and the diversification of missions Teaching learning and student engagement Equity and the social dimension of higher education Education research and innovation Quality assurance The impacts of the Bologna Process on the EHEA and beyond and Evidence based policies in higher education The Bologna process was launched at a time of great optimism about the future of the European project to which of course the reform of higher education across the continent has made a major contribution Today for the present that optimism has faded as economic troubles have accumulated in the Euro zone political tensions have been increased on issues such as immigration and armed conflict has broken out in Ukraine There is clearly a risk that against this troubled background the Bologna process itself may falter There are already signs that it has been downgraded in some countries with evidence of political withdrawal All the more reason for the voice of higher education researchers to be heard Since the first conference they have established themselves as powerful stakeholders in the development of the EHEA who are helping to maintain the momentum of the Bologna process Their pivotal role has been strengthened by the second Bucharest conference Peter Scott Institute of Education London General Rapporteur of the FOHE BPRC first edition

Unbundling the University

Curriculum Kate O'Connor,2022-09-02 In a context in which explicit attention to the curriculum has been sidelined in universities strategy this book makes an argument for why curriculum matters both in understanding the effects of unbundled online learning and more broadly It takes up two particular curriculum issues which are amplified in an unbundled context differences in the formulation of curriculum between disciplines and professional fields and the extent these are recognised in university strategy and the push for constructivist pedagogies and its effects on curriculum construction Since the onslaught of MOOCs in 2012 unbundled forms of online learning offered via partnerships with external online program management and MOOC providers have grown significantly across the university sector There has been much debate about the implications of these partnerships but the focus has predominantly been on the engagement of students and their learning This book takes a different and novel approach looking instead at the effects on curriculum and knowledge Drawing on selected case studies the book reflects on how university leaders and academics engaged with MOOCs and other forms of unbundled online learning in the early 2010s and the effects of these reforms on curriculum practice It captures in detail the complex and difficult work involved in university curriculum making in a way rarely seen in discussions of higher education And it generates new insights about some of the critical problems manifest in the ongoing moves to embrace unbundled online learning today

Engaging Student Voices in Higher Education Simon Lygo-Baker,Ian M. Kinchin,Naomi E. Winstone,2019-07-01 This book examines the importance of exploring the varied and diverse perspectives of student experiences In both academic institutions and everyday discourse the notion of the student voice is an ever present reminder of the importance placed upon the student experience in Higher Education particularly in a context where the financial burden of undertaking a university education continues to grow The editors and contributors explore how notions of the student voice as a single monolithic entity may in fact obscure divergence in the experiences of students Placing so much emphasis on the student voice may lead educators and policy makers to miss important messages communicated or consciously uncommunicated through student actions This book also explores ways of working in partnership with students to develop their own experiences It is sure to be of interest and value to scholars of the student experience and its inherent diversity Education Abroad Anthony C.

Enhancing Learning and Teaching in Higher Education: Engaging with the Dimensions of Practice

John Lea, 2015-08-16 The core purpose of this distinctive book is to offer academics working in higher education practical support in achieving formal accreditation of their teaching practice with the Higher Education Academy HEA It maps a range of key themes against the UKPSF United Kingdom Professional Standards Framework and invites readers to engage with the all important dimensions of practice This book is relevant both to those who are in the process of preparing an application for an HEA fellowship and to those who are preparing assignments they might be producing for a PG Cert HE programme The book explains the dimensions of practice in detail and offers readers suggestions for ways in which they might engage with particular aspects of the UK PSF at the end of each section and thus evidence the quality of their teaching practice Each section also offers suggestions on ways to develop teaching as related to the themes Its distinctive features include Linking explicitly to the UK PSF UK Professional Standards Framework and offering practical advice to those making a fellowship application Integrating this practical element with some of the wider debates about the purpose of higher education Incorporating a thread of student engagement throughout the book including students own perspectives on the themes of the book Not only will the book support academics following an accreditation route the book will also be a useful companion text on taught courses since the UK PSF is the overarching framework for people working in HE in a teaching capacity Whether you are working in higher education or working in college based higher education then this is the book for you

Engaged Scholarship Lynette Shultz, Tania

Kajner, 2013-09-03 This volume brings together diverse theoretical reflections and practices of community engaged scholarship in order to stimulate critical discussion deepen theory and invite critical practice It is an international trend that higher education institutions and agencies are encouraging and promoting community engagement At the same time there is recognition of a lack of consistent definitions and understandings of what it is they are promoting As a counterweight to the dominance of pragmatic and technical discussions in the literature on engaged scholarship the chapters in this book shift the discourse to ask foundational questions that emphasize the political nature of engagement Recognizing that acts of engagement are never neutral the authors in this book explore how engaged scholarship requires decision making that is inherently grounded in values beliefs and interpretations of what is and what ought to be Alongside complex global and local social movements rising to address issues for example climate change or the global financial collapse and the uneven consequences of these globalized problems we see corresponding concerns expressed about the limited participation by excluded silenced and invisibilized people throughout the world How can engaged scholarship be mobilized and who will it serve within such contexts With contributions covering such diverse topics as a non binary approach to engagement citizenship of knowledge university contexts and corporatization stranger pedagogies and anti foundational approaches to service learning contemporary revolutionary movements in the Arab world and transforming higher education through

Africanist onto epistemologies this volume is poised to open the door to a deeper understanding of engaged scholarship
