Engaging Men:

Engaging Men in the Fight against Gender Violence Jane Freedman, 2012-12-05 Gender based violence is a global phenomenon which affects millions worldwide. However, despite the increasing attention which is now paid to this violence by policy makers, data seem to indicate that these efforts are not having as great an impact as may have been hoped. In all countries of the world, reports of gender related violence remain elevated whilst many incidents of such violence probably remain unreported due to fear of stigma or reprisals for those who are victims. One of the problems in tackling gender based violence has been that for too long men have been ignored as part of the solution. Men are often labelled as perpetrators of violence but they are perhaps too infrequently considered also as potential victims or as partners and actors in the fight against violence. Constructions of masculinities are not adequately studied to analyse how dominant forms of masculinities may contribute to cycles of violence and may also oppress and traumatise men themselves. This volume aims to address critically the issues of men, masculinity and gender based violence, asking how men can be fully engaged in the prevention of gender based violence and how this engagement can strengthen prevention initiatives.

Engaging Men and Boys in Violence Prevention Michael Flood, 2018-11-07 Across the globe, violence prevention initiatives focused on men and boys are proliferating rapidly. Engaging Men and Boys in Violence Prevention highlights effective and innovative strategies for the primary prevention of domestic violence, sexual violence and other forms of harassment and abuse. It combines research on gender, masculinities and violence with case studies from a wide variety of countries and settings. Through the cross disciplinary examination of these varied efforts, this work will enable advocates, educators and policy makers to understand, assess and implement programs and strategies which involve men and boys in initiatives to prevent violence against women.

Engaging Men in Couples Therapy David Shepard, Michele Harway, 2012-03-15 This book will help practitioners overcome one of the leading challenges in couples therapy: working effectively with the male partner. Men have unique needs and psychological issues that many clinicians may not recognize or know how to address. This volume presents chapters by the leading practitioners associated with current therapeutic models including Emotionally Focused Couple Therapy, Imago Relationship Therapy, Integrated Behavioral Couple Therapy and more. Using in depth case examples, they demonstrate how their approaches can be adapted to be male sensitive and respond to the ambivalence so many men experience about couples work. Special topics are also addressed including infidelity, cultural diversity, working with veterans and fathering issues. This book will enrich therapists' work with couples, making treatment a welcoming experience for both partners and the treatment process more gratifying for the therapist.

Children and Peace Nikola Balvin, Daniel J. Christie, 2019-10-20. This open access book brings together discourse on children and peace from the 15th International Symposium on the Contributions of Psychology to Peace, covering issues pertinent to children and peace and approaches to making their world safer, fairer, and more sustainable. The book is divided into nine sections that examine traditional themes, social construction, and deconstruction of diversity, intergenerational transitions, and memories of war and multiculturalism, as well as contemporary issues such as Europe's migration crisis, radicalization, and violent extremism and violence in families, schools, and communities. Chapters contextualize each issue within specific social-ecological frameworks in order to reflect on the multiplicity of influences that affect different outcomes and to discuss how the findings can be applied in different contexts. The volume also provides solutions and hope through its focus on youth empowerment and peacebuilding programs for children and families. This forward-thinking volume offers a multitude of views, approaches, and strategies for research and activism drawn from peace psychology scholars and United Nations researchers and practitioners. This book's multi-layered emphasis on context, structural determinants of peace and conflict, and use of research for action towards social cohesion for children and youth has not been brought together in other peace psychology literature to the same extent. Children and Peace: From Research to Action will be a useful resource for peace psychology academics and students, as well as social and developmental psychology academics and students, peace and development practitioners and activists, policy makers who need to make decisions about the matters covered in the book, child rights advocates, and members of multilateral organizations such as the UN.

Aiding Empowerment Saskia Brechenmacher, Katherine Mann, 2024. In recent decades, women's political empowerment has become a growing foreign policy and assistance priority. Every year, donor governments and multilateral organizations partner with hundreds of civil society groups to train women to run for office, support women legislators, campaign for gender quotas, and bolster women's networks in political parties and parliaments. The overarching aim is a simple one: to overcome women's persistent political exclusion in most parts of the world. What ideas about gender, power, and political change undergird these aid programs? What have practitioners and advocates learned about their strengths and weaknesses, and how have they adapted their approaches over time? And how might aid actors improve their work in this domain going forward? Drawing on extensive interviews with policymakers, practitioners, women's rights advocates, and politicians in Western donor countries and across Kenya, Morocco, Myanmar, and Nepal, Aiding Empowerment investigates how democracy aid actors seek to promote gender equality in politics. Saskia Brechenmacher and Katherine Mann argue that international aid for women's political empowerment has undergone a significant evolution over the last three decades from initial efforts that aimed to integrate women into nascent democratic institutions to a focus on transforming the broader political ecosystem hindering women's equal political influence. However, this evolution is still unfolding and changes in thinking have outstripped changes in actual aid practice. Overall, Brechenmacher and Mann explore the new challenges and recurring tensions that characterize the field from the persistence of patriarchal gender norms and rising concerns about democratic erosion and backlash to aid modalities that are ill suited to support grassroots feminist mobilization.
