various national education systems may be very similar Against this background in the field of research on didactics learning and teaching it is important to overcome fragmentation and to find common ground In this book the editors demonstrate how far we have come over recent years in advancing research in the field which has the ultimate aim of improving learning and teaching The editors recognise the diverging national and local practices as a starting point in searching for common ground and in creating shared understandings The book is organised in six parts with 26 chapters in which the authors examine whether there is a paradigmatic shift from teaching to learning take a closer look at various teacher education models and their empirical basis discuss the importance of subject didactics curriculum work and lesson planning and analyse the impact of Information and Communication Technologies on didactical design Finally they relate the empirical findings to theory construction and offer proposals to further advance this vital field by increasing levels of international co operation Civic

Engagement in Global Contexts Jim Bowman, Jennifer deWinter, 2021-12-01 This volume examines the role of writing rhetoric and literacy programs and approaches in the practice of civic engagement in global contexts Writing programs have experience in civic engagement and service learning projects in their local communities and their work is central to developing students literacy practices Further writing programs compel student writers to attend to audience needs and rhetorical exigencies as well as reflect on their own subject positions Thus they are particularly situated to partner with other units on college campuses engaged in global partnerships Civic Engagement in Global Contexts provides examples and evidence of the critical self reflection and iteration with community partners that make these projects important and valuable Throughout its thirteen chapters this collection provides practical pedagogical and administrative approaches for writing studies faculty engaging with global learning projects as well as nuanced insight into how to navigate contact zones from the planning stages of projects to the hard work of self reflection and change Partnerships and projects across national borders compel the field of rhetoric and composition to think through the ethics of writing studies program design and teaching practices Doing this difficult work can disrupt presumptive notions of ownership that faculty and administrators hold concerning the fields involved in these projects and can even lead to decentering rhetoric composition and other assumptions held by US based institutions of higher education Civic Engagement in Global Contexts will be useful to instructors advisors and project managers of students in faculty led project learning in overseas settings international service learning through foreign study programs and foreign study itself and to faculty members introducing civic engagement and community based learning projects with foreign students in overseas institutions Contributors Olga Aksakalova James Austin Maria de Lourdes Caudillo Zambrano Rebecca Charry Roje Patricia M Dyer Tara E Friedman Bruce Horner Kathryn Johnson Gindlesparger Adela C Licon Ian Mauer Joyce Meier Susan V Meyers Sadia Mir Stephen T Russell World Yearbook of Education 2011 Lyn Yates, Madeleine Grumet, 2011-02-01 How do curriculum conceptions of knowledge and the schooling experiences of young people engage the great issues of this tumultuous time Curriculum is always influenced by the events that shape our world but when testing and bench marking preoccupy us we can forget the world that is both the foundation and the object of curriculum This edited volume brings together international contributors to analyze and reflect on the way the events of the last decade have influenced the curriculum in their countries As they address nationalism in the face of economic globalisation the international financial crisis immigration and the culture of diaspora they ask how national loyalties are balanced with international relationships and interests They ask how the rights of women and of ethnic and racial groups are represented They ask what has changed about history and civics post 9 11 and they ask how countries that have experienced profound political and economic changes have addressed them in curriculum These interactions and changes are a subject of particular interest for an international yearbook in that they are almost always permeated by global movements and influenced by multinational bodies and practices And as these essays show in curriculum global and international issues are explicitly or implicitly also about local and national interests and about how citizens engage their rights and responsibilities This volume brings together a new approach to perspectives on curriculum today and a new collection of insights into the changes from different parts of the world which discuss How is the world represented in curriculum How do responses to world events shape the stories we tell students about who they are and can be This book will be of great benefit to educational researchers and policy makers as well as undergraduate and postgraduate students Globalization on the Margins Iveta Silova,2011-01-01 The essays in Globalization on the Margins explore the continuities and changes in Central Asian education development since the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991 Reflecting on two decades of post socialist transformations they reveal that education systems in Central Asia responded to the rapidly changing political economic and social environment in profoundly new and unique ways Some countries moved towards Western models others went backwards and still others followed entirely new trajectories Yet elements of the old system remain Rather than viewing these post Soviet transformations in isolation Globalization on the Margins places its analyses within the global context by reflecting on the interaction between Soviet legacies and global education reform pressures in the Central Asian countries of Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan Instead of portraying the transition process as the influx of Western ideas into the region the authors provide new lenses to critically examine the multidirectional flow of ideas concepts and reform models within Central Asia Notwithstanding the variety of theoretical perspectives methodological approaches and conceptual lenses the authors have one thing in common both individually and collectively they reveal the complexity and uncertainty of the post Soviet transformations By highlighting the political nature of the transformation processes and the uniqueness of historical political social and cultural contexts of each particular country Globalization on the Margins portrays post Soviet education transformations as complex multidimensional and uncertain processes Holocaust

Education in Lithuania Christine Beresniova,2017-03-08 Holocaust Education in Lithuania is based on a six year multi sited ethnographic research project that was conducted to analyze the effects of the controversial policies of Holocaust education which were introduced as conditions of membership for access into post Soviet western alliances In order to understand how individuals take up transnational policies and programs intended to support democratization Beresniovа delves into rarely discussed issues She looks at the means through which inherent cultural and political assumptions have had an impact on the ways in which memory and history are used in educational programs She also scrutinizes the motivating factors for involvement in Holocaust education such as the importance of community building civic activism beyond the topic of the Holocaust and the perceived power of the international community in dictating domestic education policy guidelines Beresniovа contends that educators must acknowledge the political and cultural elements in Holocaust education programs and policies or risk undermining their own efforts This book is recommended for scholars of anthropology education history political science and European studies

Labor of Learning Alexander Sidorkin, 2019-02-11 This book is about the end of an era in education It argues that schooling as we know it will cease to exist and be replaced with something else Education will undergo a radical fundamental change replacing traditional compulsory schooling with a market based system of learning that is finely tuned to demand and does not rely on extra economic coercion The premise of the book is to treat school learning as a form of labor Its genre lies somewhere between educational theory and a political economy of education The author explores the origins of the contemporary mass schooling models and redefines school learning in terms of labor with special reference to genesis of education and to the history of childhood in its connection with schooling Schools are described as islands of non market semi feudal economies in the midst of the sea of markets which explains some of the most common worries about learning motivation The book offers several critiques of the most influential thoughts on schooling today Progressivism the Human Capital theory the belief in intrinsic motivation the voucher movement and the accountability reform And finally it outlines two alternative solutions for educational problems which stem from the essential lack of learning motivation This book is an invitation to resurrect the tradition of asking fundamental questions about education Improving what is essentially a flawed institution can take us only so far the author is inviting the reader to go further

Informal Nationalism After Communism Abel

Polese, Oleksandra Seliverstova, Emilia Pawlusz, Jeremy Morris, 2018-03-20 Since the collapse of the Soviet Union nation building and identity construction in the post socialist region have been the subject of extensive academic research The majority of these studies have taken a top down approach focusing on the variety of ways in which governments have sought to define the nascent nation states and in the process have often oversimplified the complex and overlapping processes at play across the region Drawing on research on the Balkans Central Asia the Caucasus and Eastern Europe this book focuses instead on the role of non traditional non politicised and non elite actors in the construction of identity Across topics as diverse as school textbooks turbofolk and home decoration contributors each an academic with extensive on the ground experience identify and analyse the ways that individuals living across the post socialist region redefine identity on a daily basis often by manipulating and adapting state policy In the process Nation Building in the Post Socialist Region demonstrates the necessity of holistic trans national and inter disciplinary approaches to national identity construction rather than studies limited to a single state territory This is important reading for all scholars and policymakers working on the post socialist region

Grand Theater Larry E. Holmes, 2009-06-16 Grand Theater examines bureaucracy not as a readily identifiable structure but rather as a process of day to day operation Thus it is concerned with how agencies of both the communist party and the state apparatus not only implemented directives from above but also responded to perceived successes and failures chose to produce share and conceal information and reacted when common citizens injected themselves into governance by making demands and complaints It concentrates on the 1930s as a seminal period when Stalin's regime established a hypercentralized system that dominated the Soviet Union until its collapse and the Russian Federation since then It also focuses on the administration of schools as the primary window through which to examine governance because of the importance of education to Soviet authorities most notably Stalin himself and the accessibility of archival documents in this field one not classified as particularly sensitive Grand Theater provides novel insights into the functioning of Stalinist bureaucracy brings to the forefront a new understanding of center periphery relations and reveals the important role of individuals in what has heretofore been largely regarded when beyond the Kremlin's inner circle as a highly impersonal system It also examines in unprecedented ways the reciprocal relationship between ideology and policy formation on the one hand and actual administrative practices on the other a relationship that more often than not had negative and dysfunctional consequences for both the governed and governing Holmes argues that the Soviet administrative system during the 1930s was much like grand theater The documents produced for and by that system were the script for a discursive theatrical reality that inspired neither a careful appraisal of problems nor a dispassionate search for workable solutions National Minorities in Putin's Russia Federica Prina, 2015-10-05 Using a human rights approach the book analyses the dynamics in the application of minority policies for the preservation of cultural and linguistic diversity in Russia Despite Russia's legacy of ethno cultural and linguistic pluralism the book argues that the Putin leadership's overwhelming statism and promotion of Russian patriotism are inexorably leading to a reduction of Russia's diversity Using scores of interviews with representatives of national minorities civil society public officials and academics the book highlights the reasons why Russian law and policies as well as international standards on minority rights are ill equipped to withstand the centralising drive toward ever greater uniformity While minority policies are fragmented and feeble in contemporary Russia they are also centrally conceived which is exacerbated by a growing democratic deficit under Putin Crucially in today's Russia informal practices and networks are frequently utilised rather than formal channels in the sphere of diversity management Informal practices the book argues can at times favour minorities yet they more frequently disadvantage them and create the conditions for the co-optation of leaders of minority groups A dilution of diversity the book suggests is not only resulting in the loss of Russia's rich cultural heritage but is also impairing the peaceful coexistence of the individuals and groups that make up Russian society
