Vatter,2021 In his 1935 treatise on divine sovereignty the Jewish philosopher Martin Buber introduced the idea of an anarchic soul of theocracy A decade before the German jurist Carl Schmitt had coined the term political theology in order to designate the Christian theological foundations of modern sovereignty and legal order In a specular and opposite gesture Buber argued that the covenant at Sinai established YHWH as the King of the Israelites and simultaneously promulgated the principle that no human being could become sovereign over this people In so doing Buber offered an interpretation of Jewish theocracy that is both republican and anarchic Republican because by pivoting on the idea that democracy is a function of a people s fidelity to a prophetic higher law theocracy displaces the central role of the human sovereign Anarchic because this divine law is saturated with the messianic aim to put an end to relations of domination between peoples In this book I show that this republican and anarchic articulation of the discourse of political theology characterises the development of Jewish political theology in the 20th century from Hermann Cohen to Hannah Arendt The Finest of the Wheat, vol 1 Watchman Nee,1992-10-01 This is Volume 1 of a compilation of excerpts from nearly all of Watchman Nee s published works written during the long course of his ministry of preaching and teaching in China and throughout the world The Finest of the Wheat, vol 1 - Hardcover Watchman Nee,1992-10-01 This is the best of Watchman Nee s teaching Excerpts are taken from almost all his published works They are topically arranged under 48 subjects covering all aspects of truth A sketch of Watchman Nee s life is given to introduce this collection Here is the most complete summary of Nee s writings Every Christian should read them Ultimate Questions:Does God Exist? ,2008 Preacher's Outline and Sermon Bible

Is the Quest for Meaning the Quest for God? W Stoker,1996 Traditionally religion was the supplier of meaning It is often said that the quest for meaning is at bottom a quest for God a quest that can only find an adequate answer in religion But then what is the alternative for those who reject religion Emptiness and meaninglessness as Nietzsche succinctly formulated it We have killed God Are we not straying as through an infinite nothing In the meantime non believers have found a solution for the crisis in meaning People are not usually nihilists but live their lives and consider them to be meaningful without religion This study is concerned with determining once again the place of the ascription of meaning from the perspective of the Christian faith in its relation to the non religious ascription of meaning For this purpose an analysis is given of contemporary theological and philosophical views of the problem of meaning The crisis of meaning as it has arisen in Nietzsche and the theatre of the absurd is examined Stoker also discusses contemporary forms of the ascription of meaning without religion such as self actualization and functional rationality as sources of meaning Stoker rejects an apologetics of need He posits that the Christian faith does not have an exclusive right to the ascription of meaning but this obtains also for secular forms of the ascription of meaning such as humanism Is God then the ultimate concern of each person From the perspective of the Christian faith yes but this does not mean that the non religious ascription of meaning as such must be viewed negatively Stoker illustrates how the religious and the non religious ascriptions of meaning are similar and how they differ Both are intended to be the source of meaning for human questions of life and death With respect to their differences the author demonstrates that the ascription of meaning from the perspective of the Christian faith does not entail a disqualification of a non religious worldview but is intended to make people more human
