Haydon s first attempt at suicide ended when the low calibre bullet fired from his pistol fractured his skull but failed to penetrate his brain His second attempt also failed a deep slash across his throat left a large pool of blood at the entrance to his studio but he was still able to reach his easel on the opposite side of the room Only his third attempt another cut to the throat which sprayed blood across his unfinished canvas was successful He died face down before the bespattered Alfred and the First British Jury his final bid to improve the taste of the English people through the High Art of historical painting Such intensity struggle and near comic inability to succeed encapsulate Haydon s career Thirty years before his death his huge iconic paintings had made him the toast of early 19th century London drawing paying crowds to the

Egyptian Hall in Piccadilly for months and leading to nationwide tours However his attempt to repeat such success three months before his death was to destroy him barely a soul turned up leaving the desperate painter alone humiliated and facing financial ruin In A Genius for Failure Paul O Keeffe makes clear that the real tragedy of Haydon lay in the extent to which his failures were unwittingly engineered by his own actions his refusal to resort to the painting of fashionable portraits for example and his self destructively acrimonious relationship with the RA The company he kept Keats Shelley Wordsworth Sir Robert Peel and the Duke of Wellington among many others and the momentous events he lived through The Battle of Waterloo the Coronation of George IV and the passing of the first Parliamentary Reform Bill make A Genius for Failure not only the definitive biography of this fascinating and tragic painter but a stirring portrayal of an age Art and Industry: (1885) Drawing in the public schools Isaac Edwards Clarke,1885 Little Memoirs of the Nineteenth Century George Paston, The Dictionary of National Biography Leslie Stephen,Sir Sidney Lee,1922 Little memoirs of the nineteenth century, by George Paston Emily Morse Symonds,George Paston,1902 Little Memoirs of the Nineteenth Century George Paston,1902 After the Christmas vacation of 1805 Haydon began to attend the Academy classes where he struck up a close friendship with John Jackson afterwards a popular portrait painter and Royal Academician but then a student like himself Jackson was the son of a village tailor in Yorkshire and the protege of Lord Mulgrave and Sir George Beaumont The two friends told each other their plans for the future drew together in the evenings and made their first life studies from a friendly coalheaver whom they persuaded to sit to them After a few months of hard work Haydon was summoned home to take leave of his father who was believed to be dying Dictionary of National Biography ,1891 Dictionary of National Biography Leslie Stephen,Sir Sidney Lee,1908 A History of English Autobiography Adam Smyth,2016-04-04 A History of English Autobiography explores the genealogy of autobiographical writing in England from the medieval period to the digital era Beginning with an extensive introduction that charts important theoretical contributions to the field this History includes wide ranging essays that illuminate the legacy of English autobiography Organized thematically these essays survey the multilayered writings of such diverse authors as Chaucer Bunyan Carlyle Newman Wilde and Woolf Written by a host of leading scholars this History is the definitive single volume collection on English autobiography and will serve as an invaluable reference for specialists and students alike Arthur's Home Magazine ,1860
