An Introduction to the Geography of Health Helen Hazen, Peter Anthamatten, 2012-05-23 Health issues such as the emergence of infectious diseases the potential influence of global warming on human health and the escalating strain of increasing longevity and chronic conditions on healthcare systems are of growing importance in an increasingly peopled and interconnected world A geographic approach to the study of health offers a critical perspective to these issues considering how changing relationships between people and their environments influence human health An Introduction to the Geography of Health provides an accessible introduction to this rapidly growing field covering theoretical and methodological background The text is divided into three sections which consider distinct approaches and techniques related to health geographies Section one introduces ecological approaches with a focus on how natural and built environments affect human health For instance how have irrigation projects influenced the spread of water borne diseases How can modern healthcare settings such as hospitals affect the spread and evolution of pathogens Section two discusses social aspects of health and healthcare considering health as not merely a biological interaction between a pathogen and human host but as a process that is situated among social factors which ultimately drive who suffers from what and where disease occurs Section three then considers spatial techniques and approaches to exploring health giving special focus to the growing role of cartography and geographic information systems GIS in the study of health This clearly written text contains a range of pedagogical features including a wealth of global case studies discussion questions and suggestions for further reading at the end of each chapter a colour plate section and over eighty diagrams and figures The accompanying website also provides presentations exercises further resources and tables and figures This book is an essential introductory text for undergraduate students studying Geography Health and Social Studies Poverty, Community and Health V. Anthony Okechukwu Nnadi, 2020-01-09 This publication representing the doctoral dissertation of Rev Fr Anthony Okechukwu Nnadi examines the healthcare system in Nigeria in the light of the Catholic social teaching He supports that the allocation of health care resources is not only a matter of organization but is also an ethical problem The debacles and failure of the Nigerian health system result from many factors including lack of will to implement the right policies on the ground corruption among the leaders lack of justice lack of respect for the dignity of each human person mismanagement and insufficient consideration and application of ethical principles in the administration of common good especially in the distribution of health care and social resources For the distribution of health care resources this doctoral dissertation suggests that priority be given to the basic health care needs of Nigerian citizens especially those who have no means of satisfying these needs themselves In this context the research affirms that great attention needs to be paid to ensuring that the principle of human dignity is completely respected in each and every policy in this important area This doctoral thesis is an ethical vision of social reality in Nigeria It proposes the person centred Catholic principles as a possible way forward in the distribution of health care resources in Nigeria It does not imply substituting the economic political and health care experts in offering technical solutions in their areas of competence The author is convinced that healthcare allocation is also an ethical issue that needs to be governed by ethical principles The key factors for choosing this theme are based on the author's knowledge of the deplorable condition of the health care system in Nigeria and his desire to save human lives Rev Fr Anthony Okechukwu Nnadi believes that we are all stewards of human life This implies a moral obligation to protect the dignity of the human person which is inseparable from protecting human life      Regional Mortality Differences in Germany Eva U.B. cultural and experiential meanings that are both shape place and are shaped in place Similarly wellbeing may be understood as a relatively stable and measurable entity or as a more situation dependent and relational effect The book is structured into two sections essays that explore the dynamics that determine wellbeing in relation to place and essays that explore contested understandings of wellbeing both empirically and theoretically
