The Strategic Management of Health Care Organizations

Peter M. Ginter, 2013-03-05 A structured strategic management approach is what is needed to tackle the revolutionary change the health care system has been experiencing. Today health care organizations have almost universally embraced the strategic perspective first developed in the business sector and now have developed strategic management processes that are uniquely their own. Health care leaders have found that strategic thinking, planning, and managing strategic momentum are essential for coping with the dynamics of the health care industry. Strategic Management has become the single clearest manifestation of effective leadership of health care organizations. The 7th edition of this leading text has been revised and updated to include a greater focus on the global analysis of industry and competition and analysis of the internal environment. It provides guidance on strategic planning, analysis of the health services environment, both internal and external, and lessons on implementation. It also looks at organizational capability, sustainability, CSR, and the sources of organizational inertia and competency traps.

Changing Perspectives on the Social Sciences in Ghana Samuel Agyei-Mensah, Joseph Atsu Ayee, Abena D. Oduro, 2014-05-08 This book is the first compilation of its kind that brings together discussions of the evolution of scholarship in different branches of the Social Sciences. It presents a comprehensive multi-disciplinary text exploring the changing dynamics of the Social Sciences in Ghana, offering a broader perspective from which to view the evolution, theory, methods, substance, and relevance of each of the Social Science disciplines and their multiple interfaces. The introduction and the conclusion are devoted to the theoretical, comparative, and empirical debate over the Social Sciences from historical and analytical perspectives. Written by acknowledged experts, the 15 chapters span the following disciplines: Archaeology and Heritage Studies, History, Geography, Psychology, Sociology, and Anthropology, Social Work, Economics, Political Science, International Affairs, Information Studies, Communication Studies, African Studies, Development Studies, Women's and Gender Studies, and Adult and Continuing Education. Changing Perspectives on the Social Sciences in Ghana offers sophisticated perspectives for comparing and appreciating the synergies, differences, trends, and nuances among and between the Social Science disciplines in Ghana in a holistic and scholarly manner.

Mental Illnesses Luciano LaBate, 2012-01-05 In the book Mental Illnesses: Understanding, Prediction, and Control, attention is devoted to the many background factors that are present in understanding public attitudes, immigration stigma, and competencies surrounding mental illness. Various etiological and pathogenic factors, starting with adhesion molecules at one level and ending with abuse and maltreatment in childhood and youth at another level that are related to mental illness, include personality disorders that sit between mental health and illness. If we really understand the nature of mental illness, then we should be able to not only predict but perhaps even to control it, irrespective of the type of mental illness in question, but also the degree of severity of the illness, in order to allow us to predict their long-term outcome and begin to reduce its influence and costs to society. How can we integrate theory, research, evidence, and specific ways to deal with mental illness? An attempt will be made in the last conclusive chapter of this volume

Cancer on the Margins Judy Gould, Jennifer Nelson, Susan Keller-Olaman, 2009-05-16 Cancer on the Margins presents the findings of the Ontario Breast Cancer Community Research Initiative an organization created to investigate the experiences of women with breast cancer from marginalized and underrepresented groups The authors examine the psychosocial needs of women living with breast cancer while investigating differences in treatment care and survivorship amongst Aboriginal women women of colour francophone women lesbians as well as young women lower income women and women in rural areas Structured as a guide for similar research Cancer on the Margins provides a start to finish format that reveals the complexities of doing such work at each stage of research beginning with the study design and ending with the dissemination of results The authors address the challenges of working with and speaking for these groups of women the tension between description and interpretation and the challenge for qualitative work to present findings that positively influence the circumstances of research participants With a strong commitment to social justice this volume also shows how participatory research can lead to social change and indicates effective ways to ensure that research not only reaches but is also employed in the communities it intends to serve Bridging the gap between a wide range of audiences this vitally important work will be of interest to health professionals new researchers policy makers new researchers and experienced investigators as well as the public

Determinants of Health: Theory, Understanding, Portrayal, Policy Matthew J. Combers, 2013-03-09 For decades health professionals have asserted the importance of public participation in interventions for health Medicine has pursued patient participation in clinical decision making In the public health realm target groups have been asked to assist in the design and implementation of initiatives for health In practice however patients and populations expect health professionals to give advice and in some cases to make decisions on their behalf This implies limits to the ideal of participation In this innovative work the author contrasts public and professional understandings of health and the best ways to achieve health The result is a model of lay participation in the structuring of medical and public health activity The book is unique due to its policy applicable quantitative studies and its theoretical analysis of works by Ren Dubos and Aaron Antonovsky It will be of value to professionals in health promotion health education medical anthropology and social epidemiology
